Concrete Poured South Of Sikeston On Interstate 55

COMPLETING THE GRADE work and laying of forms, for pouring the double concrete slab, shown south of Sikeston at county highway AA. The first stretch of several miles will be the west lane running to the Sikeston overpass, and then back on the east lane. Pouring is expected to begin this week by the Koss Construction Co.

The extension of Interstate Highway 55 south of Sikeston to New Madrid is now in its beginning stages, according to the general superintendent, L. A. Beuerlein, Springfield. The Koss Construction Company and Menefee Const. Co. has the contract for the 11-mile stretch, beginning at the south Sikeston overpass.

The 21-mile four -lane road paving project was awarded to three companies with Peter Kewitt Construction Republic, Mo., having the next five-mile contract, and the R. B. Potashnick Construction Company and D. L. Harrison Const. Co., the final five mile stretch just south of New Madrid.

The Koss Company is completing the overpass project at Highway 80 with a 24-foot pavement, with one-half of the roadway finished, and will require another day or two to complete the second half. When the overpass is completed, traffic will be allowed to use new overpass to East Prairie within one week.

The three contracts call for a total of 21.2 miles grading and paving, and the exact mileage and cost of each are as follows: Koss Construction and Menefee Const. Co., 11.1 miles and $2,469,000; Kewitt Construction Co., 5.6 miles and $2,389,000; and Potashnick and Harrison Construction Co., 4.5 miles and $2,469,000.

The Sikeston - New Madrid stretch will have three slight curves, with one north of Highway 80, a second south of Ristine (former Purena Co.), and south of New Madrid. The new interstate will run one and one-half miles west of New Madrid, and approximately one mile east of Howardville.

The paving project from Sikeston to Benton is complete and now in use, while from Benton to Scott City, shoulder work and paving of interchange at Scott City remains, and should be complete in July, weather permitting.

The stretch from Sikeston to New Madrid is scheduled to be finished late in fall, with some night work to be done. The completion date is also subject to weather conditions.

World's Fair Opens Tomorrow

NEW YORK (AP) — The weeks of planning and refurbishing are ended. At exactly 8:30 Wednesday morning, the New York World's Fair reopens.

The billion - dollar international exposition will be launched on its second and final six - month season with scores of foreign and national dignitaries scheduled to join in opening-day ceremonies. Included are Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt.

An army of workmen was assigned to work right up to the symbolic ribbon-cutting, tending to the last-minute technical and housekeeping problems that build up during six months of hibernation.

"We have everything in order," a fair spokesman said. "Now it's up to the public and the weather."

The fair this year is billed as a bigger and better exposition than in 1964 with emphasis on more admission-free exhibits and light entertainment.

Fair President Robert Moses said it "is a brighter, bigger fair than 1964" and he predicted that 37.5 million people would visit it before the gates close Oct. 21.

Unlike last year, the fair this year will offer dance hall entertainment, games of skill, "family - geared" girlie shows and regular can - can performances.

Back again will be the large industrial exhibits dotting the 646-acre site.

Also on display again will be priceless art treasures in many of the foreign pavilions and church sponsored exhibits.

Other new exhibits include paintings and personal belongings of the late Sir Winston Churchill and some of this nation's most treasured documents.

Senate Busy On Budget Bills

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The Senate Appropriations Committee returned to work Monday and processed budget bills for two of the state's big agencies -- the departments of Education and Revenue.

Chairman J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, kept the committee moving smoothly through two of the 17 money bills already passed by the House.

Patterson quickly extinguished what appeared to be a political fire in the making Monday night as Republican members probed revenue director Tom David about his department's handling of state funds.

Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Clayton, asked David about shifting funds from one bank to another.

David was appointed to the revenue post by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, who is involved in a dispute with state treasurer M. E. Morris over state depositories. All are Democrats.

Patterson interrupted Jones. He said the inquiry had nothing to do with the item of the budget being discussed.

Similar probes by Sen. Jack Curtis of Springfield and Sen. Thomas G. Woolsey of Versailles, both Republicans, also were ruled out of order by Patterson.

The committee questioned the wisdom of giving the Revenue Department an "open end" appropriation for state income tax refunds.

The department asked for $20 million but this figure was erased by the House.

Earlier this session the legislature passed an emergency money bill to meet refunds due more than 57,000 Missourians from the 1963 taxes.

The open-end approach would enable the department to make refunds as necessary instead of being limited to a specific amount.

Sen. T. D. McNeal, D- St. Louis, objected to it. He said the legislature would never know how much general revenue it had to work with.

Woolsey asked income tax officials about the policy of the department in setting up the withholding system.

Officials asked income tax officials about the policy of the department in setting up the withholding system.

Officials said they set the rates a little higher than necessary because it is easier and less expensive to make refunds than to collect additional taxes due.

"Do you think it's fair to the taxpayers of the state?" Woolsey asked.

In an afternoon session, the committee studied the planned expenditures of the Education Department, including a request for nearly $132 million in state aid to schools.

Discussed but not debated was a bill pending in another committee to boost this figure to $24.5 million.

The House passed the measure but Gov. Hearnes has urged its defeat. He said it could be better analyzed at the special appropriations session next year.

The hearing also indicated the Senate might trim requests for funds to assist county school superintendents in conducting studies and surveys.

There is a bill before the legislature again this session to abolish the office in counties where it is no longer needed because of school district reorganization.

The committee is expected to work through Thursday clearing as many appropriation bills as possible before the rest of the legislature returns next week from Easter vacation.

Epidemic Sweeps Sikeston

A serious epidemic is sweeping Sikeston. There is hardly a family remaining which has not been in some way affected. Symptoms first were observed about two months ago when the Sikeston Art League drive opened. At first only a few were noticibly "done-in" by the malady, but as time passes, this strange affliction seemingly becomes more seriously contagious. Obviously distressing symptoms are prevailing. Those effected are said to become extremely enthusiastic at the very mention of the words "art, show, or league." Please use these words no more than necessary. We realize to eliminate them altogether would be ill advised at present, however, a good test to pin point carriers is to drop one of these words in a group and watch for responses. It very quickly becomes obvious which individuals need watching. "Infectious Enthusiasm" is one of the most severe forms of the disease. Another distracting symptom is the constant or near-constant wielding of pencil, brush, or other classified equipment. This manifestation is not quite as disturbing as the above mentioned since it is less demanding of attention, less overwhelming. The artist is reasonably quiet at work but "Brush Fever" is a form from which no one has ever fully recovered. It should not go unnoticed that "Brush Fever" attacks all ages, one year to one hundred.

A disease transported by word of mouth and all news media, it now appears that a course must be run and symptoms in all probability will not subside until after the Sikeston Art League show at the Holiday Inn, May 1 and 2. Late reports from local stores which stock art supplies indicate that sales of these items are rising with a feverish pace, probably aggravated by the League sponsored classes in sketching and water color. The pulse beat of our area has quickened to a dangerous rate. In a time when urban areas are suffering from rising crime rates, lack of civic interests and general lethargy we can easily be concerned about Sikeston and its lack of participation in the accepted, statistical gloom. Sikeston does have a raging epidemic, a cultural epidemic, bringing strange and wonderful symptoms relieved by fulfillment in the arts.

The height of the attack will predictably be reached within the next few weeks. After May 2 it is expected to drop to endemic proportions and remain there, only occasionally fluctuating to epidemic stages as especially interesting art projects occur.

Children Go Back To School Tomorrow

Hey kids, I sure hate to tell you this, but in the morning you will have to go back to school.

The kids have been out of school since last Friday and it is found that most of them spent their short Easter vacation doing what they wanted to do. Some took trips with their parents and some just stayed around home, but almost all of them had a wonderful time.

You can bet though, whatever they did, they did it enthusiastically.

Graham Speaks Against One Man One Vote Rule

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Speaker Thomas D. Graham, D-Cole County, predicted today enough states will join to block the U. S. Supreme Court's one man-one vote rule for apportioning state legislatures.

He reported the legislatures of 22 states have petitioned Congress so far to call a constitutional convention. The purpose is to get a constitutional amendment that would allow states to apportion one branch of their legislatures on a basis other than population.

Three other states have memorialized Congress to call such a convention, Graham said, and a convention call has been approved by one house of the legislature in five other states.

Thirty - four petitions are needed and Graham predicted that many will be passed if Congress itself does not submit an apportionment amendment.

In his report he charged "a relatively small body of people, with a vested interest in having control of state legislatures centralized in the hands of big-city politicians, can to all intents and purposes steal our constitution from us."

Instead of being a question of one-man vote, he said, the real issue is "whether or not any man is going to have any vote. If we are going to be denied the opportunity to vote on an issue so fundamental as this one--the right to amend our constitution --we have had it."

At one point in pushing the convention resolution through the Missouri Legislature, Graham got angry and shouted "to hell with the Supreme Court."

Prizes At Home Show Well Worth Winning

Just over the horizon is the opening day of one of Sikeston's greatest attractions -- the annual Jaycee Home, Farm, Auto and Sports Show. For three days, beginning Friday, a million dollars worth of items will be on free display at the Armory.

At last report, only four booths remained available inside the Armory building. There were still some outdoor exhibition spaces left open.

For this, the seventh annual Jaycee Show, the committees have gone all out to make this the best show to be held in Sikeston of it's kind. Just about every appliance imaginable will be shown, either inside or outside the building.

The attendance prizes are again numerous, making it possible for more people to go home just a little happier. There will be 11 prizes given away: 21 inch Chieftain Power Mower; 11 piece Aluminum cookware set; two (24 inch) barbeque grills; 24 cup automatic percolator; one pair decorator lamps; mans watch; two pieces of Two-Suiter Luggage; 1/4 inch electric drill; fishing tackle assortment; living room chair; one set of decorator wall plaques; and three four piece tray table sets.

STOPPING IDLE CHATTER

Back in 1958, the Federal Communications Commission set aside a small number of radio frequencies for short-range transmissions (a radius of 20 miles). This so-called Citizens' Band was intended for emergency use by small boat owners, outdoorsmen and firefighters, and by businesses that might find what amounts to a walkie-talkie setup useful.

To avoid excluding potential users who might need it, CB license requirements were made easy. A CB operator need only be 18 or more years of age and able to send in an $8 registration fee. Most sets are portable -- about the size of a lunch box -- and the operator needs merely to press the "talk" button to transmit. Within six years, CB had attracted some 700,000 licensees.

Many of the CB licensees are responsible, but the F. C. C. has discovered that others are not. These CBabies take pleasure in interfering with other peoples' transmissions, chatter needlessly, and use obscene language. Thousands of television set owners report having their reception of programs disrupted by the radio transmissions of voluble youngsters.

Much of this abuse of the Citizens' Band radio service should be eliminated beginning Monday, April 26, when new F. C. C. rules go into effect. They specifically prohibit operators from indulging in communications for hobby or diversion on 16 of the existing 23 channels. Malicious interference with another station's communications is forbidden. If the new rules fail to quiet idle chitchats over the airwaves, the F. C. C. has warned that it will consider shutting down Citizens' Band radio service altogether.

BEHIND EACH DOOR, FREEDOM WILL DIE

U. S. Foreign policy was recently likened to a long hospital corridor lined with separate rooms, each marked with a sign: "Do Not Disturb The Russians in Cuba;" "Do Not Disturb Nasser In The Middle East;" "Do Not Disturb The Viet Minh in Laos;" "Do Not Disturb Indonesia's Playboy, Sukarno."

Unless foreign policy doctors get past the "Do Not Disturb" signs, the corridor will look more like a mausoleum, and behind each of those doors, freedom will die.

There are those who say we have been doing our very best with these various "patients" throughout the world, and that if they do not respond, the fault is not with our prescription. No matter what the problem is in each of these countries, the U. S. prescription is usually the same -- money under the labor of "Foreign Aid."

All too often in Washington, the natural impulse is to throw money at a problem. But throwing money at communism through our foreign aid program does not seem to be doing the job.

Further, the medicine of foreign aid dollars seems to hurt the doctor more than it helps the patient.

Since the end of World War II, the United States has passed out $120 billion in U. S. tax money to more than 100 countries throughout the world.

The requirement for entering into this "international clinic" for nations with sick economies has been unrestrictive. In many cases, we have had to sell them on the idea of receiving aid. Nations receiving aid are not required to have either sympathy or respect for the ideas of individual freedom (the ideas which have made the dollars available). Billions have been given away to communist, communist -leaning, and neutralist countries.

The arguments for foreign aid are many. Often, the thinking of those who advocate foreign aid as the only method of stopping the spread of communism follows this strange logic:

"Country 'A' received no foreign aid, and turned communist. Foreign aid would have prevented this.

"Country 'B' received foreign aid, but turned communist. Not enough aid.

"Country 'C' received foreign aid, and didn't turn communist. This proves our aid prevented the turn.

"Country 'D' received no foreign aid, and didn't turn communist. Irrelevant."

Is foreign aid an effective weapon in the cold war? Has it profited the free world or the communist world?

Indonesia was at one time a Western colony, then it became a pro-Western independent country. After receiving almost $1 billion from the U. S., it is now a pro-Soviet nation.

Under the label of "neutralism," Laos can virtually be chalked up to the communists. Laos has received $500 million in U. S. foreign aid.

Cambodia, whose economic life blood came from U. S. foreign aid, is slipping away.

The United States gave Cuba $66 million in aid. Now the base for communist infiltration, agitation and propaganda in this hemisphere, Cuban communism seems to be more effective in winning the minds of the people in Latin America than billions of U. S. dollars. Several Latin American countries have been moving steadily toward the communist camp.

The planners have given huge amounts to African nations, but communist penetration there seems to be ahead of freedom's advances.

The list of nations receiving billions goes on and on, and there seems to be no end in sight. The list of nations being taken into the communist net goes on and on, and there seems to be no end in sight.

Why does this happen? Why do things turn in favor of communism and not in favor of freedom? Money alone does not seem to be the answer.

U. S. policy has been weak. The United States has not been exporting the dynamic ideas of individual freedom that made that U. S. aid so plentiful.

Communism exports ideas. The communists have been winning the cold war for men's minds because the U. S. apparently has not understood this new kind of warfare. It does not take much agitation by the communists to get people to believe that the whole idea of American foreign aid is an "imperialistic plot to gain control -- so the Imperialists can exploit the workers."

Once accepting this line, nations are easily drawn into the lie that communism is more sympathetic to the needs of the workers.

It is easy for communists to instill their propaganda in unsuspecting minds when we do not have a program to counter the falsehoods with truth. Our silence shows we haven't learned the rules of fighting the cold war. Communists have been professionals with "the lie," while we have been novices with the truth. When they have twisted the facts, we have remained silent.

In the nations receiving foreign aid, the cry for American dollars is made by many - including the communists. Communist agents, in foreign countries, have been heard to say, "We would like to have your American foreign aid dollars, because this would help to keep us from going communist." This double-standard idea is worthy of consideration. Obviously a communist is not interested in the advance of anything but communism. For what other reason should he want to have foreign aid dollars in the country he is infiltrating?

What good is foreign aid that builds a school to teach students to read when the reading material to be used in the school is filled with Anti - American propaganda? What good is foreign aid that builds a factory when anti-American worker's groups will work there? What good is foreign aid that builds a hospital when it will be staffed with communist nurses who indoctrinate the patients?

The fast recovery of Western Europe through our financial support has helped the free world. But over the years, world - wide opportunities for freedom have been diminishing.

It is time to re-evaluate the foreign aid program. Certainly it does no good to finance economic recovery of communist nations, because the money will be used to benefit communism. Yugoslavia and Poland will not move toward freedom just because American dollars are sent there.

If it is not possible to do away with foreign aid altogether because of long-range commitments, it is possible, while reducing it, to operate the program in terms of winning the cold war and in terms of freedom's cause.

As support for foreign aid has been losing ground, the idea for a Freedom Academy has been gaining support. The Freedom Academy idea proposes an organization to train officials who come in contact with communists. It would train them to counter communist efforts with constructive ideas for freedom.

It would be through this very Freedom Academy that we might realize far greater results with foreign aid. The people representing the United States in foreign countries could be equipped with a greater knowledge of communist tactics, while executing the aid program.

If America's good intentions can be set forth through a constructive information program in these countries, the advance of communism can be halted.

ADVERTISING AND AUTO SALES

These figures do not include the huge amount invested in automotive advertising by local dealers, used car companies and garages. An all inclusive figure would total approximately a billion dollars.

This may appear to be a great deal of money to pour into sales and promotion. But the investment should be judged in terms of results. The advertising helped bring about sales of goods and services of more than 50 billion dollars. It brought record profits to manufacturers and retailers. It helped to keep millions of men employed.

The leading American manufacturers learned long ago that the engineering of a good car did not assure success. Countless fine automobiles have been built by firms which did not meet the competition in advertising effort.

General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler have continued to thrive while remaining the three largest newspaper advertisers in the world. The giant national firms have never lost sight of the fact production is not complete until a sale has been made.

And their continued use of the newspaper, especially in the introduction of the new models, reaffirms their belief in the long standing axiom that "all sales are local, and the basic local medium is the community newspaper."

The Missouri Highway Patrol reports that only four counties in Missouri went through 1964 without a traffic fatality. They were Bollinger, Hickory, Reynolds and Schuyler.

Jackson County recorded the most traffic fatalities of the 114 Missouri counties, 127. The second highest traffic toll was reported in St Louis County with 115. This does not include the city of St. Louis which had 85 traffic deaths.

There were seven other Missouri counties with 20 or more traffic fatalities in 1964, according to the Highway Patrol. They were: Greene County, 38; New Madrid, 26; Pulaski, 23; Henry, 22; Newton, 21; and both Bates amd Cass Counties with 20 traffic deaths.

Last year 56 counties in Missouri had an increase in traffic fatalities from 1963. The more notable of these were St. Louis County with an increase of 19, Pulaski County with 18 more fatalities, Jasper County had an increase of 16, Jackson and Newton Counties each had 15 more, and Phelps County recorded 12 more traffic deaths in 1964.

Fifty Missouri counties had a decrease in traffic deaths from 1963. The more prominent in this group were Marion County with 14 less traffic deaths, Livingston County with a decrease of 13, and both Buchanan and St. Francois Counties recorded 10 less traffic fatalities in 1964. Only eight counties reported the same traffic fatality toll for both years.

Colonel Hugh H. Waggoner, the Missouri Highway Patrol Superintendent, declared, "If our present rate of traffic fatalities continues, every county in Missouri will be listed on the tragic death record for 1965. There is not a roadway in Missouri that cannot be the scene of a serious traffic accident.

"I urge all motorists to be aware of the fact that anyone, at any place, at any time, can become involved in a traffic accident. Each driver can help avoid that next accident if he accepts his responsibility, and makes a real effort to improve his driving each day," Colonel Waggoner concluded.

About 47,000 men and women will die of lung cancer in the United States this year. The American Cancer Society estimates that about 75 per cent of these deaths will be caused by cigarette smoking. The ACS says to stop smoking if you can; don't start the cigarette habit if you do not already smoke.

The mark of a true competitor is his ability to recover from a setback. America's double space triumph of a perfect Gemini flight and the televised mission of Ranger 9 to the moon was all that and more.

It showed we are not only running hard in the space race but that we still have something the Russians can't match -- the open, public conduct of our space endeavors.

We don't announce our intentions only after they are successful; we allow the entire world to watch our preparation, to take part vicariously in the suspense of launching, to follow each flight every step of the way as it actually happens.

Though the Russians are much less secretive than they were, nothing they have done has matched Gemini 3 and Ranger 9 in terms of immediacy and emotional impact. Their scientific importance is not to be minimized, either.

Whether we consider the space race the greatest boondoggle of all time or the most dramatic adventure men have ever undertaken, there is no denying that enabling millions of people to peer at the onrushing moon through the lenses of Ranger's cameras was a monumental achievement.

Sometimes we think only of the money involved and forget the skill and imagination and dedication of the men who made the Mercuries and Geminis and Mariners and Rangers possible, and the contribution of their deeds to the enlargement of the human spirit.

FORMULA FOR SUCCESS

It's hard to believe, but back in the 1920's many people regarded meat as an unhealthy food. A popular song of the period, catchily entitled "Button Up Your Overcoat," advised in its lyrics, "Don't eat meat. . . ."

There's been a great change in the intervening years. For the great majority of us, an adequate quantity of meat is essential to sound diet. There is no longer any informed doubt that protein, bountifully provided by meat, makes an important contribution to physical and mental health in people of all ages. And the statistics reflect what has happened. Per capita consumption of beef, the most popular meat, increased from 60 pounds in 1945 to over 100 pounds last year. As Dr. Harrell DeGraff, president of the American Meat Institute has said, "today's children eat more meat in a year than some of their ancestors ate in a lifetime."

There is stiff competition for the consumer dollar by other foods, and meat must face it. This competition, Dr. DeGraff believes, will be more than offset by the meat industry's ingenuity in the marketplace. He finds that it seems to be axiomatic that as disposable income rises, the appetite for beef rises with it.

Meat is a fine product, wanted by almost everyone, and expertly merchandised. This is the formula for success in a free market.

REVENGE -- Dentist - "Certainly you may have the tooth I pulled. But why?"

H. L. Hunt Says

AMERICA'S BLANK CHECK

Our government has now committed the Federal Treasury to total support of the United Nations financially, no matter what it may do and no matter how many of its members renege on their solemnly pledged obligations. We have handed the U.N. a blank check on our Treasury.

Only last year government spokesmen in Washington and in our U.N. delegation stoutly insisted that Soviet Russia and other nations refusing to meet their U.N. payroll would lose their vote as the charter requires in such a case. Last February, challenged and outmaneuvered and surrounded by Red China's stooge, albania, the U.S. backed down, allowing the bullies to vote without even a protest.

Now the retreat is officially admitted. We will no longer demand that any member nation pay one cent of U.N. expenses in return for recognizing its right to vote in the General Assembly. If a member nation wants to contribute to U.N. expenses, naturally we will thankfully welcome it. But if other members don't pay, our treasury will make up their part.

The quick result of this will be obvious to anyone not totally blinded by childish "idealism". Nearly all the other U.N. members will stop their payments, except for an occasional token sum, and each U Thant and his associates will fill in our blank check for whatever amount of our money they want.

Sensible Americans are entitled to ask what we are getting from the U.N. in return. HLH

Dr. Marshall Says

It is not right for the same bunch to make our laws, that enforce them, even if they were honest--which they are not.

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Among the biggest contributors to the Republican Party are executives of the Olin-Mathieson Corp., of whom Spencer T. Olin is Republican National Treasurer. In 1962, he contributed $34,600 to the GOP campaign chest while other Olin-Mathieson executives brought the total up to a whopping $100,750.

There is no known connection between this and the excess profits which Olin-Mathieson has charged the Army. Nevertheless the public has a right to know that the general accounting office has just charged that Olin-Mathieson soaked the taxpayers over $1 million in excess profits for blank cartridge powder. Most of this excess charge occured during the Republican administration of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The general accounting office also charges that the Army, during the Eisenhower administration, changed its requirements so that only one company --namely Olin-Mathieson, the big contributors to the Republican Party--could qualify for the contract.

The directive which resulted in the whopping overcharge was issued April 1954 by Lt. Gen. Emerson L. Cummings, then Army ordnance chief.

"The chief of ordnance directed that all military small arms should eventually be loaded with ball-type propellant powder which was developed by and is produced only by Olin-Mathieson Chemical Corporation," says the GAP Report. Since there were no other bidders, Olin - Mathieson was awarded a negotiated contract that ran into staggering profits.

Previously, the government had procured similar powder at about 90 cents a pound. Instead, the Army purchased from Olin-Mathieson for $1.72 a pound "without requesting a review of Olin - Mathieson's costs," charged the general accounting office.

"Furthermore, even after excessive prices were disclosed by the Army Audit Agency," says GAO, "Contracting officials did not take timely action to obtain a lower price from Olin-Mathieson.

"Olin-Mathieson earned profits amounting to about 162 per cent of the cost of powder sold to Remington Arms during the period December 1958 to January 1962," charges the GAO. "When the excessive prices were eventually disclosed by an Army Audit Agency review, Olin -Mathieson and the Army negotiated a significantly lower price for future delivery."

--PREVIOUS TROUBLE--

This is not the first time that trouble over a cartridge contract with the Army. During the war, ten members of the U. S. Cartridge Co. in St. Louis, a subsidiary of Olin Industries, were indicted for conspiracy to pass defective ammunition, making false statements, and violating the Sabotage Act. Tried in April 1944, they were found not guilty.

A second indictment against the Olin Firm dragged on for seven years, and in 1950 was dropped by the government. The government brought a civil suit for $214,000 against U. S. Cartridge to recover damages.

Even at that time, 1943, a close liaison was disclosed between U. S. Cartridge and the Army.

When the U. S. attorney in St. Louis, Harry Blanton, tried to get inside the St. Louis Ordnance Plant of the U. S. Cartridge Co. to investigate sabotage charges, the Army officer in charge, Col. C. S. Paulin, would not admit him.

Col. Paulin would not even admit the military intelligence agent of his own war department.

Whereupon the Justice Department telephoned Washington to protest. The War Department replied that the FBI could be admitted to the St. Louis Ordnance Plant-- if someone accompanied the agents around the plant and listened in on their conversation. The Justice Department refused; replied that it could not track down graft with possible grafters listening over the G-men's shoulders.

--HIGH COST OF BEEF--

The high cost of meat to the housewife and the low cost of beef to the farmer will not make headlines as Viet Nam, but tomorrow (April 21) they will be the subject of an important hearing in Fort Worth.

The hearing is the culmination of a nation-wide protest by beef producers last year that low prices were putting them out of business. Rancher after rancher claimed to be going bankrupt. Meanwhile, the price of beef to the housewife has not gone down.

On the contrary, since 1947 the retail price of choice beef cuts has increased about 26 per cent, while the price received by the farmer has decreased almost 14 per cent.

The investigation in Fort Worth will attempt to find who's making money out of the price spread. The probe will be conducted by the National Commission on Food Marketing named by President Johnson and including five senators, five members of the House, and five representatives of the public, chaired by former California Chief Justice Phil Gibson.

Preliminary surveys have already ascertained that some of the big chains have made record profits, such as the Winn-Dixie chain in the south, which rolled up a 24 per cent profit on investment last year after taxes. Other chains have been much more modest.

Remarked Douglas T. Simpson, a Utah rancher and head of the Utah Farmers Union: "Meat producers would be no worse off if the entire country was hit by a serious depression. Then everyone would be in the same boat. As it is now, the producer is suffering while the rest of the economy is enjoying great prosperity."

Recently published reports have stated that the North Vietnamese had prepared sites for SAM anti-aircraft missiles. However, Drew Pearson has further and more important information that the SAM missiles have actually arrived. We are therefore sending you the following immediate release.

--RUSSIAN MISSILES BEING UNLOADED--

The most important development in the Vietnamese War has just been reported to Washington--the arrival of huge crates on the docks of Haiphong believed to contain Russian SAM missiles.

Photos have been taken from American reconnaissance planes of Russian ships unloading these crates. While there is no way to ascertain definitely what is in the crates, it's believed almost certain they are the same type of anti-aircraft missiles used in Cuba and also used to shoot down the famous U-2 spy plane over Russia.

If so, it may lead to the confrontation between the United States and Russia of which I warned in my earlier dispatches from Moscow.

Arrival of the crates has touched off a significant debate inside the Pentagon. Air Force generals have urged that the Haiphong docks be bombed immediately, before the SAM guns can be unloaded and put in position.

Other advisers point out that bombing the docks would almost certainly mean hitting Russian ships alongside, and that this could be construed as an act of war.

We have known that the Russians, though promising, and now delivering anti-aircraft missiles, were not happy about the Viet Nam imbroglio and the embarrassing spot on which they were put as between an ally, North Viet Nam, and a country with which they hoped for continuing good relations, the United States.

Therefore anti-warhawk U. S. advisers have urged no bombing of Russian ships. They have also pointed out that the missile sites were located only around Hanio, the capital, therefore would be no menace to U. S. planes, since we are not bombing near Hanoi.

In the past, the United States has regarded SAM missiles as purely defensive, therefore we have not protested their continued location in Cuba. They can shoot to an altitude of 100,000 feet, therefore are able to knock down any high-flying plane over a country, but cannot fire at an enemy outside that country.

Allied ambassadors in Washington, very friendly to the United States but concerned over the danger of a major war spreading from Viet Nam, have pointed out that bombing North Viet Nam was almost certain to bring some kind of Russian or Chinese defensive retaliation.

Cards Lose Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kansas City's Athletics looked like champions Monday night and the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals looked like anything but champions.

Kansas City - helped by a Jim Gentile home run and eight-hit pitching by Diego Seguibopped the American League champion New York Yankees at Kansas City 8-2.

The Chicago Cubs handed the Cardinals their fifth loss in six National League games this season as they stopped St. Louis 7-3.

Both the Athletics and the Cardinals are idle today.

Chicago's Doug Clemens singled and homered to drive in three runs and Ernie Banks hit a two-run homer as the Cubs romped over the Cardinals. It was the third time this year Chicago had stopped St. Louis. The Redbirds lost twice to the Cubs in a season opening series at Chicago.

Ray Sadecki, a 20-game winner last year for St. Louis, was chased in a four-run outburst in the first inning. Sadecki faced seven men and only got one out before he was relieved by Ron Taylor.

St. Louis scored twice in the fifth inning with the help of a two-base error and two singles. The third run came in the eighth when the Cards scored with the help of a man hit by a pitched ball and two more singles.

Bert Campaneris led off with a bunt single for Kansas City that ignited a four-run first inning for the Athletics and the Yankees never recovered. Gentile singled and Ed Charles doubled for two of the runs. Then Tom Reynolds tripled and scored on a ground out.

Gentile got his homer in the third inning. It was his third of the year.

Boston Marathon Has Made In Japan Label

BOSTON AP -- Morio Shigematsu led a promised blitz of the Boston A. A. marathon Monday and stamped the 1965 edition "Made in Japan."

The delegation from Nippon predicted it would capture the first five places. Two-time defending champion Aurele Vandendriessche of Blegium said "They can always dream."

When it was over, Vandendriessche was the lone obstacle between the Japanese and realization of their goal.

Shigematsu, 25-year-old senior business major at Fukuoka University, sprinted the final two miles for a 2;16;33 clocking. Hideaki Shishido and Takayuki Nakao completed a 1-2-3 sweep in 2;17;13 and 2;17;31, respectively.

Foiled by Japanese strategy and a blistered right heel in his attempt to make it three straight, Vandendriessche was fourth in 2;17;44, still faster than the course mark of 2;18;58 he set two years ago.

Japan's Hoshikazu Funasako and Kazuo Matsubara were fifth and sixth.

Escorted by four, then three, then two Japanese most of the way when the field began to thin out, Vandendriessche was left far astern by Shigematsu's dashman takeoff two miles from the end. Vandy was second at that point but lost ground in the remaining distance.

"Everything went right for me," said Shigematsu. "The weather, the road - everything was very good.

"I worried about Vandendriessche up to 20 miles," he said through an interpreter. "I was very confident after that."

It was Shigematsu's first victory in 12 marathons. The Japanese had not been represented in the Boston event in the past seven years, but had three winners in the 1951-55 period.

Koufax Arm Feels Good Today

Koufax's cherished elbow, which hurled nine victorious innings against the Philadelphia Phillies Sunday and was still slim and limber Monday, is nonetheless arthritic and could flare up again, warns Koufax.

Koufax, who threw a touch wild against the Phils, said Monday, "I'm very happy about the condition of my arm," after the precarious joint weathered the workout with no swelling.

But pleasure at the elbow's condition was tempered by Koufax's addiftional statement that: "I'm not looking for any trouble and I don't expect any. But I have still got arthritis. There's no telling when it will blow up next."

"No matter what I think of it, it's not going to help. It felt good yesterday, it feels good today. Tomorrow, who knows?"

Lakers Hope For Comeback Win

By BOB HOOBING

Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON AP -- Los Angeles Coach Fred Schaus took stock of the Lakers' plight and pronounced the Boston Celtics "the greatest basketball team ever assembled anywhere."

While predicting his club will bounce back, Schaus minced no words about the Celtics, who are already 2-0 on the path to an expected seventh straight National Basketball Association playoff championship. Boston won 129-123 Monday night in the best-of-7 series which now moves to Los Angeles for games Wednesday and Friday.

"The Celtics are great because their defense is great and defense is the name of this game," said Schaus. "In K. C. Jones, Bill Russell and Tom Sanders, the Celtics have got the greatest defensive men in those positions in the history of the game."

Center Russell and forward Sanders did a little more than play defense Monday night, however. Each scored 23 points. Johnny Havlicek had 24, Tommy Heinsohn 22 and Sam Jones 20.

Russell had 25 rebounds, led both teams with 10 assists and missed only one of 11 field goal tries.

"Russell played his usual great game," said Laker Jerry West, who hit a game high 45 points. "You just don't get those tap-ins with Russell in there. Too many teams make the mistake of trying to drive through the middle on Boston and Russell's always there."

"I feel a little better but I'll never feel good until it's over," said Boston Coach Red Auerbach. "Heinsohn had one of his really good games. And Russell was his usual good self. Sam was a little off and K. C. wasn't shooting like he was Sunday.

Payne Hurls One-Hitter For Lilbourn's Panthers

Gideon and New Madrid played baseball yesterday, at the home of the Panthers. Both teams still look rough. The coaches for both teams feel they have real fine ball clubs but, lack of practice has hindered both schools.

Jerry Payne proved to be the big man of the day. Payne, a Senior pitched 6 innings, allowing only one hit, no runs and fanning 12 New Madrid sticksmen. Payne had previously pitched a perfect game, now he has a one hitter to go with it and this is only Lilbourn's third game of the season. Lilbourn and New Madrid will continue their battle at Gideon, Thursday in the sub-district meet.

Sports TALK

By DON SAVAGE

We have discussed the sub-district at Richland, but what happens to the team that wins there. The winner of the Richland sub-district and the winner of the Gideon sub-district will meet in the Oran district tourney.

Gideon has a fine field of teams, for their tournament this season. Wardell and Hayti will play Wednesday at 1:15, Ross and Gideon will meet in the second game at 3:30. Lilbourn and New Madrid, two New Madrid County rivals, will meet Thursday at 1:15. Clarkton and Campbell are slated to play in the nightcap.

We will have to take Lilbourn's Panthers as the favorite to take that meet. The Panthers are fairly sound defensively, but lack much punch. The Panthers strength lies in a tall skinny, high school senior, who makes baseballs look like they were fired from a cannon. His name is Jerry Payne. He's been around. He pitched for Sikeston's Connie Mack team last season. Payne just seems like a real fine competitor, so we will pick Lilbourn to win at Gideon, by a right arm.

When Carl T. Rowan, director of the United States Information Agency, was ambassador to Finland, Finnish newsmen who participated in a bull session with him were flabbergasted at his willingness to tell stories at his own expense about his experiences as a Negro in the United States. One that caused special astonishment was an account of mowing the lawn of the house he lived in while he was with the State Department in Washington. A white man driving a big car pulled up to hail him as "boy" and ask how much he charged. His only pay for mowing the lawn, Rowan replied, was that "the lady of the house lets me live with her."

GRACE FOR AN ANNIVERSARY

Lord, tonight with wine and roses and candlelight

We break bread, and tell off the roll of the four seasons;

A winter and a spring have gone;

A summer and autumn nave passed;

Tonight it is winter again but spring will come.

With wine we give our thanks for the months and weeks

With roses we pray our thanks for the days and hours,

With candleglow we humbly feel

Your blessings.

For a year touched with magic, miracle and love,

Lord, we do indeed thank You.

U.S. All-Stars Down Russians, 67 to 61

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The deft touch of UCLA All-America Gail Goodrich and the smooth floor play of his teammates gave the U.S. All-Stars a 67-61 basketball victory over the Russian National team Monday night.

Both teams opened slowly before a crowd of 6,000. After nine minutes of play the score was tied at 16-16, with the Americans controlling the backboards but missing most of their shots.

Goodrich then came off the bench and popped in four jump shots within two minutes. He scored 13 points before the half and led the Americans at the final buzzer with 21.

Eight of the Russians played on the Olympic squad that finished second to the Americans in Tokyo.

The game was the first in an eight-game national tour by the two teams.

Once, when the brothers were in a strange town, Auguste went to a barber for a shave. "Make sure you give me a close shave. My beard grows so rapidly that two hours after I have had a shave, I need another."

"Two hours!" scoffed the barber. "If your beard grows back in two hours, I'll give you another shave free."

"You mean that?" said Auguste.

"Of course."

Two hours later, Jean Felix, his face dark with stubble, entered the shop and demanded a free shave. "Now do you believe me?" he asked the barber.

Nicklaus Top Money Winner

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Doug Sanders is the only professional golfer on the 1965 tour who has won more than one tournament, but he's not the top money winner.

Sanders, who ranks second on the Professional Golfers' Association list of top 10 money winners, won the Pensacola and Doral Opens.

FORK IN THE ROAD

In the structure
Of the atom
Lies beginning
And the end,
With the choice
Whither which
The way shall wend.

Wil our artifacts
Be vapor,
For the other worlds
To find?
Will our cities show
On spectographs,
As elements defined?

Or will we rise
In splendor,
Firm, as Monumental men?
Strong together
For beginning
Just as strong
For end to "end!"

REP. MEL CARNAHAN SUCCEEDS PATTERSON

Rep. Melvin E. Carnahan, who is serving his second term in the Missouri House of Representatives, has been named by House Democrats to succeed the late H. F. (Pat) Patterson of Columbia, as Majority Floor Leader.

Patterson, 43, died unexpectedly in a House office after suffering a heart attack a few weeks ago.

The new Majority Floor Leader, is securing the second most powerful position in the House, moved up from being Patterson's assistant. Although he has just turned 31, Carnahan appears to have a bright future in politics.

There was some contention for the Majority Leader's post and several even went so far as to suggest leaving it vacant as a memorial to Patterson. However, Carnahan was the pick of House Speaker Thomas Graham, whose wishes generally receive considerable attention.

Contending with Carnahan were Rep. Tom Baker of Stoddard County, who later issued a verbal blast at what he termed Graham's dictatorial policies; and Reps. Richard Southern of Monroe County and Earl Bollinger of Madison County.

There was some feeling discussed that the person selected to follow Patterson should be one who had actively supported Warren Hearnes in his bid for governor.

Southern, although younger than Carnahan, is serving his third term in the House as is Baker. Bollinger is in his fourth term.

In the gubernatorial contest between the then Lieutenant Governor Hilary Bush and Secretary of State Warren E. Hearnes, which was one of the most highly contested primaries in recent years, Carnahan remained more or less neutral.

Carnahan is married and the father of three children. In 1961 he was elected Police Judge at Rolla and the following year sent to the House from Phelps County. He is a lawyer by training, with degrees from George Washington University in Washington, D. C., and the University of Missouri.

During the 1963 session of the legislature, Carnahan served on the following committees: Education, Federal - State Relations, High Education, Judiciary and Motor Vehicle and Traffic Regulations.

BLUE BOOK SUPPLY ALMOST EXHAUSTED

Secretary of State James C. (Jimmy) Kirkpatrick reports that the supply of Blue Books is nearly exhausted with fewer than 275 of the original publication of 40,000 remaining for distribution.

The present Blue Book (really the Official Manual of the State of Missouri) was published while Governor Hearnes was Secretary of State. Distribution of the highly sought journal began less than a year ago, with the supply rapidly dwindling.

By law, each member of the Missouri Senate receives 200 copies of the Blue Book while members of the House of Representatives each receives 100. This accounts for over half the distribution. In addition, all counties received a certain number.

The remainder is placed up for grabs (free) and generally the grabbing is pretty fast and furious.

In an effort to solve the delimma, the Secretary of State's office is backing proposals to allow publication of a 200-page condensed version of the Blue Book which now contains over 1,500 pages.

The condensed version being proposed would contain the most important information about state government and would be for use by schools, libraries and other interested institutions along with private citizens.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT ACTIVE WITH BILLS

Of the 1,200 or so bills and resolutions introduced in the Missouri General Assembly this time before the bill deadline, some 211 or about 15 per cent have something to do with Missouri's Highway Department, one of the largest state agencies going.

Although many of the bills are minor in nature and the department's interest in them is equally minor in nature, there are numerous measures the department is keeping a close eye on.

Among the latter is a bill which would exempt political subdivisions from having to pay the state gas tax.

This bill has caused a great deal of concern to the Highway Department where officials estimate that if the measure is approved, it would cost the state in the neighborhood of $1,500,000 annually in lost gas tax revenue.

A bill of lesser importance is one that would require vehicles hauling sand and gravel to use a cover. However, the fate of this bill is in doubt and it appears now that it has little chance for passage this session.

The State Reorganization Commission of Missouri

RECORDS MANAGEMENT

81. Recommendation:

That a records management center be established within the proposed Administrative Services Section. That such a central records center maintain equipment capable of handling large volumes of data stored on magnetic film slabs; random access to files should be governed by a central processing unit capable of handling simultaneous inquiries within nanoseconds.

The 1955 State Reorganization Commission report contained a study of state practices in records management by Leahy and Company. The 1965 Commission has found the recommendations emanating from that study still valid. There have been no statutory changes since 1955 to put the recommendations into effect. In addition to specific recommendations concerning the Department of Revenue, the Leahy Report emphasized the need for a state records center. The need for a state records center is even more urgent now than ten years ago; however, technological developments within these past ten years now make feasible the storage of large quantities of data by means of magnetic film files.

Automatic, electronic equipment now makes possible the storage and random retrieval of records within quantity and speed parameters heretofore regarded as fantasy. Equipment is now available for a centralized, unified electronic data storage center with a random access, on-line capacity of one million to twenty billion characters.

Until recently the state's need for a central records storage facility was described by the activities of the Driver's License, Motor Vehicle, and Income Tax Units within the Department of Revenue, along with relatively minor needs for records storage by other agencies. A new statute, the uniform commercial code, directs the Secretary of State to maintain a records storage facility with capabilities that could dwarf previous requirements. Section 400.9-401, RSMo 1963 Supp., directs the filing and release of all documents representing security interest in all property except farm equipment, farm crops, and consumer goods (see Sec. 400.9-302, RSMo 1963 Supp.). The filing and release is the responsibility of the Secretary of State. Various sections of the uniform commercial code imply daily updating of files maintained according to personal identification. Brief reflection on the volume of chattel mortgages issued in Missouri precludes the installation of any records storage system except one with random access to expandable, magnetic film, slab files. These files should be controlled by a central processing unit capable of handling simultaneous inquiries in nanoseconds.

The provisions of the uniform commercial code are effective July 1, 1965. A large records storage center should be provided by that time. Since this records storage center will be capable of handling large volumes of data from the enforcement of the uniform commercial code, serious consideration should be given to including the storage and handling of records from the Department ofRevenue.

82. Recommendation:

That the proposed Administrative Services Section be authorized to require all agencies to submit to it copies of all forms, blanks, or questionnaires used by state agencies in order that the unit may recommend the consolidation, standardization or elimination of as many such forms or questionnaires as possible; and that no agency prepare new forms or questionnaires without submitting them to the Administrative Services Section for approval.

This recommendation of the 1955 Commission may have been over-looked, because the Administrative Services Section--the agency responsible for forms control--has not been created.

A cursory survey of forms and reports used by various state agencies revealed a considerable duplication of effort in collecting information. A great deal of this information becomes redundant, since several offices commonly retain the same information. Information handling is becoming more efficient with modern machines; however, that efficiency can easily be lost by information redundancy. It is important to coordinate Missouri's record management through forms control.

Does your hospital protection plan need an annual check-up?

Do you have Blue Cross?

How long has it been since you conducted a close examination of your hospital benefits? You may find they are not quite as "healthy" as they might be.

With the scope of hospital services constantly increasing, the cost of getting well moves up proportionately. Unless your program makes allowances for this constant change, it may be a bit "run down."

Blue Cross offers you flexible service benefits, not merely a fixed dollar return on an illness. If hospital service costs increase, Blue Cross benefits increase automatically.

When you're sick, you want your hospital care protection in the best of health. You can count on it with Blue Cross.

Mass Confusion Next Sunday

NEW YORK AP -- The United States is about to enter into an annual period of confusion.

Daylight saving time DST will soon be here for much of the country.

This yearly clock juggling will affect business, transportation an ordinary citizens.

Next Sunday 100 million Americans in 20 states will advance clocks one hour and thus get out of step with the other 85 million Americans. These other 85 million will either shift to DST on different dates or will remain on standard time.

Thus, the country will become a patchwork of time.

Benjamin Franklin is credited, or blamed for DST. It's said that, when ambassador to France, he awoke one morning and found sunlight streaming through his window while the city slept.

This "wasted" sunlight annoyed the frugal author of Poor Richard's Almanac and he soon evolved a plan to conserve this daylight by advancing the clock one hour.

DST achieved its first wide observance in World War I when it was adopted throughout the country to give farmers more time to work in their fields.

Except for during the two world wars, observance of DST has been optional. As a result, the country is spotted with areas of observance and non-observance. This is what has created the confusion.

For example, in 1964, 15 states started DST the last Sunday in April and ended it the last Sunday in October. Another 16 states either started or ended DTS -- or both -- on different dates. The remaining states didn't observe DST at all.

Now there's a move on foot to get some unformity into the picture.

Next Monday Congress is due to begin action on legislation that would eliminate the snarls now involved in observing DST.

The Senate Commerce Committee will hold a hearing on a bill proposed by the Committee on Time Uniformity, which was formed by the Transportation Association of America.

The bill would fix the last Sunday of April and the last Sunday of October as the mandatory starting and ending dates for DST in states and communities utilizing it. The measure would have nothing to do with whether DST was observed in any particular area.

AVERAGE DATES OF LAST FROST—Planting flower seeds too early can be futile, warns the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Most seeds will not germinate well until the soil warms to about 60 degrees. If sowed in cooler soil, they will remain dormant until the soil warms and may rot before they germinate. Chart shows the average of the dates for the last killing frost in spring in a period from 1899 to 1938. Data compiled by U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Tax Agent Describes Being Fronted With Gun

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. AP -- An Internal Revenue agent described in federal court Monday how it felt being held at gunpoint by an irate taxpayer for nearly two hours last Dec. 7.

"I was scared to death," Agent Floyd Culbertson recalled.

The taxpayer, Denton Cantrell a 54-year-old Niangua, Mo., farmer, is being tried before Judge John W. Oliver and a jury on a charge of assaulting Culbertson.

Culbertson had gone to Cantrell's farm in the Ozarks to discuss a $2,763 tax payment Cantrell had made by check. The check, however, had been lost in the St. Louis office, and Culbertson was sent out for another.

First, Culbertson testified, Cantrell invited him in the house then drew a 30-30 deer rifle and shouted:

"You ain't getting another check, and you ain't goin' back to town. I got you down here now, and I'm boss down here."

Culbertson testified that Cantrell also threatened to hang him to a tree.

"I decided I'd better try to get him in a good humor so I could get out of there so I started talking to him about his farm and dogs - things like that-but my mouth was so dry I could hardly talk," the agent, father of two children, said.

"Finally he seemed to calm down a little. He sat facing me with the rifle on his lap pointed at me. He said he knew I'd be down there and he was waiting for me." Culbertson continued:

"I decided I wasn't getting along so well talking to him when he said he was going to take me outside and shoot me. He said he'd do it right there in the living room if it wasn't for messing up the place and making extra work for his wife."

"I was getting so desperate I told him if the tax was that important to him I'd pay it myself if he would let me go. I told him I'd go back to town, pay the tax and quit my job. I just wanted to get out of there."

Culbertson said Cantrell then stood up and indicated he could leave.

1965 Plant-To-Prosper News

Mid-South farm families have an opportunity to share in more than $5,000 in cash prizes by enrolling in The Commercial Appeal's 1965 Plant to Posper Contest.

The 32-yer-old contest, conceived by this newspaper and cosponsored by the Memphis Area Chamber of Commerce, preaches agricultural prosperity through efficient farm and home management.

Co-operating in the program are the Agricultural Extension Service and Farmers Home Administration of Arkansas, Mississippi, Missouri and Tennessee.

All farm families, regardless of size of operation, are eligible to compete for state and sweepstakes awards in any of three divisions:

FARM OPERATOR —For all landowners who farm their own land and who might also rent additional acreage and for those who rent all or most of their acreage and who have a full-time hired hand.

FARM FAMILY — For all landowners, renters, tenants and sharecroppers who do not employ a full-time hired hand.

PART-TIME FARMER—This division is open to those families who own, rent, are tenants or sharecroppers where the head of the house works full time at a non-farm job and the farm is worked with the aid of his family and in his spare time.

Home improvements will be judged in all divisions as part of the requirements of that division.

A County Judging Committee will choose county winners. State judges will select state winners in each division in October or early November.

State awards will be presented and sweepstakes winners announced during rallies in Memphis in late November and early December.

State prizes in the Farm Operator and Farm Family divisions are $100, first place; $75, second place, and $50, third place. A $50 award will go to the single part-time farm winner in each of the four states.

Prizes for sweepstakes winners, chosen from among divisional winners of the four states, are $500 to the top Farm Operator, $500 to the best Farm Family and $200 to the best Part-Time Farmer.

Farmers may enroll by contacting their county extension agent, Farmers Home Administration supervisor, or by writing the Plant to Prosper Bureau of The Commercial Appeal.

Seat Built Out Of Horseshoes ???

CHILLICOTHE, Mo. (AP) — It looks like something out of a nightmare: 42 old horseshoes and the iron seat from an early-day farm cultivator welded together.

Sophisticates might call it pop art sculpture, the sort of thing that sells for substantial cash in cultural centers today.

Retired farmer Mat Petersen who designed it, auctioneer Hugh Campbell who sold it, and motel operator Elwood Allnut who bought it for $20 call it a chair.

Petersen, near 80, refused to discuss his creation b u t snorted, "I wouldn't make another one for that price!"

Campbell said he told the auction crowd "about the pop art craze back East but folks around here aren't interested in such things."

Allnut said he wanted it for a sideshow museum of oddities he is building for his motel and just thought it "interesting to look at."

Grants Granted For Mechanics

WASHINGTON (AP) —The office of Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., announced today grants of $66,425 for training farm equipment mechanics at a Poplar Bluff school and $60,710 for training practical nurses at Leadbett Technical School, Flat River.

These grants were approved by the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare under the manpower development and training program.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

To Get Away From It All He Builds His Own Brand

Not so with Al Weiland of Iola.

Weiland builds championship racing cars. He operates his own garage in back of his house and always has more work scheduled on customers' cars than he has time to do in normal working hours.

But after hours, in his spare time, he unwinds from the troubles of fixing up other peoples' cars by creating his own kind.

He has built seven racing cars in the past 14 years, the seventh just starting its new season in the super-modified races at Tulsa, Okla., where it already has chalked up victories.

Weiland's cars, all hand-built in his garage, have won championships at Tulsa, Joplin, Mo., Iola, Chanute, Fort Scott, Pittsburg, and Belleville, Kan., among others, and his car last year was high-point vehicle at Lakeside in Kansas City.

His cars have never finished a season below third place in championship point totals.

His driver this year is Ronnie Fowler of Chanute who will be driving Weiland's No. 37 (its official number) in the Tulsa super - modified class races every Saturday night during the season.

Weiland built his first racing car in 1951 as a stock car racer. He has since moved up into the modified classes that burn alcohol instead of gasoline and are equipped as regular racing cars.

His latest creation has the body of a 1932 Chevrolet coupe, but that's where the resemblance to the original ends. The car is powered by a de-stroked 327 - cubic inch Chevrolet engine, has wide, race-type rear tires, a quick-change rear end, special shock absorbers, and airplane type bucket seat.

In his 14 years of racing, Weiland has had his share of heartbreaks. Several of his cars have ended on the scrap heap after being demolished in track wrecks.

But Weiland never has lost a driver or had one seriously injured.

Networks Plan Live Shows From Europe Soon

NEW YORK AP -- The major television networks are excited because after May 2 they can bring in live telecasts from Europe via the Early Bird Satellite launched earlier this month.

ABC, CBS, and NBC plan live news shows May 3, the first day the satellite is available.

Peter Jennings will broadcast kis evening ABC news show from London.

NBC's "Today Show" will scatter its regulars around in London, Paris, Rome and Washington for two-way discussions, and that night, Chet Huntley will broadcast his contribution to the evening news from London.

CBS will broadcast in the early afternoon a "Town Meeting of the World" show with Secretary of State Dean Rusk in London, Barry Goldwater in New York and British and French leaders in their capitals. It will be taped for rebroadcast in the regular "CBS Reports" hour late that evening.

During the first eight weeks -- an experimental period - the commercial satellite will be available to the networks only for periods on Mondays.

For the fourth consecutive period - totaling almost two months - NBC has emerged as the leader in the national Nielsen ratings. The most recent, covering the two weeks ending April 4, gives NBC a 20.8 rating, followed by CBS with 19.6 and ABC with 18.9.

There is little change in the programs which Nielsen finds are the 10 most popular. They are, in order, Bonanza, Gomer Pyle, Bewitched, the Fugitive, the Dick Van Dyke Show, the Andy Griffith Show, Gilligan's Island and Red Skelton tied, the Walt Disney hour and the Beverly Hillbillies.

Recommended tonight: "Our Man in Washington," NBC, 10-11 EST - David Brinkley narrates a second show about the nation's capital in a news special.

Like Man, This Dance Is For Us, "It's Kissum Time"

HOLLYWOOD AP -- The rock 'n' roll beat is wild - but the dance is wilder. It's the Letkis.

For once Hollywood has latched onto a new dance craze that makes some sense -- couples wind up kissing each other.

It hit the Sunset Strip the other night and soon a group of Hollywood names were doing it.

Zsa Zsa Gabor said: "It makes me feel like the only girl in a fraternity house."

Finnish in origin, the dance is kind of a wild polka, but something you'll never see on the Lawrence Welk show.

The guys and gals hop forward, jump back, hop-hop-hop ahead. And finally, kiss-kiss-kiss.

It can be done in groups or by a couple.

The dance got its start in the cave discotheques of Paris last December via a recording by Finnish bandleader Anton Letkis.

From Paris the dance spread to Munich's two - month pre-Lenten fasching fling.

There as the beer flowed, the dancers hopped and kissed all over the Bavarian city. Priests denounced the dance from the pulpits and even doctors deplored its germ - carrying potential.

Hollywood's introduction to the craze came in a brash press agent way. Four Star television, which was a record subsidiary, Valiant Records, got the American rights to "The Letkis" music.

John Buck and the Blazers recorded it. Four Star imported a couple of European experts in the dance, hired a hall and invited the stars. The European dancers pulled the stars on the floor and taught them how.

St. Louis Police Stronger Than Ever

ST. LOUIS AP -- St. Louis' Police Department now has 1,876 commissioned officers - the department's highest manpower strength in several years.

Spokesmen for the Police Board said Monday they hoped to have 2,060 commissioned officers by April 1, 1966.

Resignations have dropped in the department and more than 50 former policemen have applied for reinstatement.

Two Year Old Baby Drowns

The father, Eugene Madison, found the girl's body in the pond about 100 yards from the house after the parents noticed she was not in the yard.

MU Bomb Threat

KANSAS CITY AP -- A bomb threat delivered to police headquarters caused suspension of night classes at the University of Missouri at Kansas City Monday night.

The note reading, "Bomb set to go off, U. M. K. C. campus 7, 4-19-65," was dropped off at the police headquarters booking desk downtown in an envelope marked, "Important, Special Delivery."

After delivering the envelope, an 18 or 19-year-old youth ran out of the building, police said.

School authorities decided to call off classes for the evening and have the facilities searched. Police blocked all entrances to the campus from 6 until after 7 p.m. while they scoured all 29 college buildings.

No bomb was found.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Several weeks ago the greatest kid I have ever known came by in his convertible to pick me up. I should tell you we live in Winnetka, which is a suburb of Chicago. It was freezing weather and Jamie had the top of his convertible down. I wouldn't say it was snowing, but a few flakes were flying.

When my mother looked out the window she screamed, "You are not going any place with that imbecile. He is naked!"

I tried to explain that Jamie is a member of the Polar Bear Club and the club was going to take a dip in Lake Michigan. He was not naked. He was wearing his swimming trunks. I also tried to explain that some of us girls were going along just to watch but we were not going in the water.

My mother walked out on the porch and shouted, "Put on a shirt or Mary Alice is not coming out."

With that Jamie pulled away and I haven't seen him since. I am heartsick. My mother says he is crazy. I say just because a person is a little non-conformist does not mean he is crazy. Please print my letter and your answer so our whole family can see it. My dad is on her side.--HEARTBROKEN M.A.

Dear M.A.: If Jamie is not crazy, he is such a show-off that he may be a borderline case.

Polar Bears (or anyone else) who want to take a dip in Lake Michigan in freezing weather are not necessarily nuts. In the Scandinavian countries this is quite a sport. But, for a kid to drive a convertible around Chicago in freezing weather, with the top down and wearing swimming trunks--well, like I said, if he's not crazy, he's close.

Dear Ann Landers: I am nearly 50 years of age and share a home with my widowed mother. The problem may not seem important but I must get this off my chest.

My older sister comes to visit mother at least five times a week. She always stays too long. They can yak for three hours about nothing at all. But the thing I am writing about is a habit which drives me insane. Just when you think the sentence is finished they say "anda"--and that's the start of another sentence.

Since this house is half mine do I have the right to tell my sister she must telephone before she comes so I can be elsewhere? If I listen to any more "andas" I'll have to be carted off. Thank you. --S. B. I.

Dear S.B.I.: If you are nearly 50 and your sister is older, then your mother must be in her 70's. You are not going to change their visiting habits.

By now you must have a fairly good idea when "Anda" will be coming over, so plan accordingly. (Anda lotsa luck.)

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married seven years. We have two sons. My husband's parents were born in Poland but he was born in the U.S. Whenever he has to fill out a form and he comes to the word "nationality" he puts down "Polish."

Our two sons were born in Cleveland. He says they are Polish, too, because the children always take the nationality of their father. I have tried to tell him he is wrong about the boys, but he says I don't know what I'm talking about.

He thinks you are a smart woman. Maybe if you tell him he will believe it. Please help me straighten this out before the kids go to school. -GRATEFUL

Dear Grateful: Nationality means "the nation of your birth." Your sons are Americans--and so is your husband.

Do you feel ill at ease. . .out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for ANN LANDERS' new booklet, "The Key to Popularity." enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Eggs After Easter

In old England, children played good-luck games with hard-cooked eggs on Easter Day. In these forerunners of today's "egg rolls" it was thought that the last egg to break brought good luck to the one who rolled it.

But what to do with all those hard-cooked eggs once easter is over? Take a tip from another old superstitious custom--serve them to your family

According to the story, the head of a household divided a gaily-colored Easter egg among the members of his family. Later on in life, if any member of the family should get lost, thinking of those with whom he shared this egg was supposed to make the others think of him--and these thoughts would help him come home.

So, divide your Easter eggs among your family by serving them as a finger food, deviled or plain. . . creamed as an entree. . . sliced in salads, sandwich fillings, cracker topping. . . chopped in stuffings for tomatoes and baked potatoes . . . in cream sauces to hold or garnish vegetables, meats, fish or poultry.

Although hard-cooked eggs will keep several days in the shell, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service advises homemakers to use them soon. To help, USDA suggests the following hard-cooked egg recipes.

HANDY, HARD - COOKED EGG RECIPES

EGG-FILLED PURSES

Roll pie crust about 1/8-inch thick. Cut into 4-inch squares. Place a hard-cooked egg in the center of each square and add about 1/4 cup undiluted cream of mushroom soup. Bring corners of squares together, crimp edges closed, and fold the top "over" so the crust will resemble a purse. Place on greased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven about 10 minutes then reduce heat and continue cooking until thoroughly heated. Serve piping hot with cream of mushroom sauce, and diced pimiento garnish. If desired, the eggs may be sliced and ham cubes added to the sauce.

EGG LOAF SALAD

18 hard-cooked eggs
1/4 pound butter
1 small onion, grated
Finely chopped parsley
Salt and pepper

Separate yolks from whites. Mash yolks and mix in softened butter, onion, parsley and seasonings to taste. Cut whites into small slivers and mix with yolk mixture, just enough to combine. Pack into loaf pan lined with waxed paper. Chill. Slice and serve on bed of shredded lettuce with chopped ripe olive garnish. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

CALICO EGG SANDWICHES

4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
2 tablespoons chopped olives
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1/2 cup grated sharp cheese
1/4 cup chili sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground pepper
1/4 teaspoon chili powder
1/4 cup melted butter
3 hamburger buns, split

Hollow out buns, leaving 1/4 inch thick shells. Spread buns with butter. Combine remaining ingredients, and divide filling between bun shells. Place buns on baking sheet and bake at 350 F. until cheese starts to melt and bun edges are lightly browned. Makes 3 to 6 servings.

My neighbor, Jack, had a large, heavily bearing apple tree in his front yard. Every year its branches sagged to the ground with fruit, and every year, faithfully, the young boys of the neighborhood would steal in to filch the apples. Each time they came Jack would race out of the house like a wild bear, yelling and shouting, to chase them away.

Because Jack was normally an easygoing fellow, I could never understand his actions in regard to the tree. One day after he had chased the boys almost two blocks down the street, I couldn't help but ask why. "That tree has more apples than you could ever use," I pointed out. "Why don't you just let them have them?"

"Heck," said Jack, still panting. "I want them to have the apples. But I was a kid myself once, and I know if I didn't chase them they'd never come back." — Peter Parnall

The Old Cynic says "Have another statistic that will probably bore you—traffic deaths in 1964 soared to an all-time high of 47,800."

The SPEED SPEECH manuscript can guide you to say anything you want; however, it cannot attune your ears to receive the pronunciation sounds of words spoken to you. For this, we suggest that you get the SPEED SPEECH records to assist you. They are coordinated with the manuscript, so that you are able to hear as well as see the Spanish word at the same time.

Using the language--speaking it--is, of course, all important. So, if you are fortunate enough to have some Spanish speaking friends, insist upon speaking Spanish rather than English when you visit together.

Text of Proposed Voting Rights Act

A BILL [S1564]

To enforce the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That this Act shall be known as the "Voting Rights Act of 1965."

SEC. 2. No voting qualification or procedure shall be imposed or applied to deny or abridge the right to vote on account of race or color.

SEC. 3. (a) No person shall be denied the right to vote in any Federal, State, or local election because of his failure to comply with any test or device, in any State or in any political subdivision of a State which (1) the Attorney General determines maintained on November 1, 1964, any test or device as a qualification for voting, and with respect to which (2) the Director of the Census determines that less than 50 percent of the persons of voting age residing therein were registered on November 1, 1964, or that less than 50 percent of such persons voted in the presidential election of November 1964.

(b) The phrase "test or device" shall mean any requirement that a person as a prerequisite for voting or registration for voting (1) demonstrate the ability to read, write, understand, or interpret any matter, (2) demonstrate any educational achievement or his knowledge of any particular subject, (3) possess good moral character, or (4) prove his qualifications by the voucher of registered voters or members of any other class.

(c) Any State with respect to which determinations have been made under subsection (a) or any political subdivision with respect to which such determinations have been made as a separate unit, may file in a three-judge district court convened in the District of Columbia an action for a declaratory judgment against the United States, alleging that neither the petitioner nor any person acting under color of law has engaged during the ten years preceding the filing of the action in acts or practices denying or abridging the right to vote for reasons of race or color. If the court determines that neither the petitioner nor any person acting under color of law has engaged during such period in any act or practice denying or abridging the right to vote for reasons of race or color, the court shall so declare and the provisions of subsection (a) and the examiner procedure established by this Act shall after judgment be inapplicable to the petitioner. Any appeal from a judgment of a three-judge court convened under this subsection shall lie to the Supreme Court.

No declaratory judgment shall issue under this subsection with respect to any petitioner for a period of ten years after the entry of a final judgment of any court of the United States, whether entered prior to or after the enactment of this Act, determining that denials or abridgments of the right to vote by reason of race or color have occurred anywhere in the territory of such petitioner.

SEC. 4. (a) Whenever the Attorney General certifies (1) that he has received complaints in writing from twenty or more residents of a political subdivision with respect to which determinations have been made under section 3(a) alleging that they have been denied the right to vote under color of law by reason of race or color, and that he believes such complaints to be meritorious, or (2) that in his judgment the appointment of examiners is otherwise necessary to enforce the guarantees of the Fifteenth Amendment, the Civil Service Commission shall appoint as many examiners in such subdivision as it may deem appropriate to prepare and maintain lists of persons eligible to vote in Federal, State, and local elections. Such appointments shall be made without regard to the Civil Service laws and the Classification Act of 1949, as amended, and may be terminated by the Commission at any time. Examiners shall be subject to the provisions of Section 9 of the Act of August 2, 1939, as amended (the Hatch Act). An examiner shall have the power to administer oaths.

(b) A determination or certification of the Attorney General or of the Director of the Census under section 3 or 4 shall be final and effective upon publication in the Federal Register.

SEC. 5. (a) The examiners for each political subdivision shall examine applicants concerning their qualifications for voting. An application to an examiner shall be in such form as the Commission may require and shall contain allegations that the applicant is not otherwise registered to vote, and that, within ninety days preceding his application, he has been denied under color of law the opportunity to register or to vote or has been found not qualified to vote by a person acting under color of law: Provided, That the requirement of the latter allegation may be waived by the Attorney General.

(b) Any person whom the examiner finds to have the qualifications prescribed by State law in accordance with instructions received under section 6(b) shall promptly be placed on a list of eligible voters. A challenge to such listing may be made in accordance with section 6(b) and shall not be the basis for a prosecution under any provision of this Act. The list shall be available for public inspection and the examiner shall certify and transmit such list, and any supplements as appropriate, each month to the offices of the appropriate election officials, with copies to the Attorney General and the attorney general of the State. Any person whose name appears on such a list shall be entitled and allowed to vote in the election district of his residence unless and until the appropriate election officials shall have been notified that such person has been removed from such list in accordance with subsection (d): Provided, That no person shall be entitled to vote in any election by virtue of this Act unless his name shall have been certified and transmitted on such a list to the offices of the appropriate election officials at least 45 days prior to such election.

(c) The examiner shall issue to each person appearing on such a list a certificate evidencing his eligibility to vote.

(d) A person whose name appears on such a list shall be removed therefrom by an examiner if (1) he has been successfully challenged in accordance with the procedure prescribed in section 6(a), or (2) he has been determined by an examiner (i) not to have voted at least once during three consecutive years while listed, or (ii) to have otherwise lost his eligibility to vote.

(e) No person shall be denied the right to vote for failure to pay a poll tax if he tenders payment of such tax for the current year to an examiner, whether or not such tender would be timely or adequate under State law. An examiner shall have authority to accept such payment from any person authorized to make an application for listing, and shall issue a receipt for such payment. The examiner shall transmit promptly any such poll tax payment to the office of the State or local official authorized to receive such payment under State law, together with the name and address of the applicant.

SEC. 6. (a) Any challenge to a listing on an eligibility list shall be heard and determined by a hearing officer appointed by and responsible to the Civil Service Commission and under such rules as the Commission shall by regulation prescribe. Such challenge shall be entertained only if made within ten days after the challenged person is listed, and if supported by the affidavit of at least two persons having personal knowledge of the facts constituting grounds for the challenge, and such challenge shall be determined within seven days after it was made. A petition for review of the decision of the hearing officer may be filed in the United States Court of Appeals for the circuit in which the person challenged resides within fifteen days after service of such decision by mail on the moving party, but no decision of a hearing officer shall be overturned unless clearly erroneous. Any person listed shall be entitled and allowed to vote pending final determination by the hearing officer and by the court.

(b) The times, places, and procedures for application and listing pursuant to this Act and removals from the eligibility lists shall be prescribed by regulations promulgated by the Civil Service Commission and the Commission shall, after consultation with the Attorney General, instruct examiners concerning the qualifications required for listing.

SEC. 7. No person, whether acting under color of law or otherwise, shall fail or refuse to permit a person whose name appears on a list transmitted in accordance with section 5(b) to vote, or fail or refuse to count such person's vote, or intimidate, threaten, or coerce any person for voting or attempting to vote under the authority of this Act.

SEC. 8. Whenever a State or political subdivision for which determinations are in effect under section 3(a) shall enact any law or ordinance imposing qualifications or procedures for voting different than those in force and effect on November 1, 1964, such law or ordinance shall not be enforced unless and until it shall have been finally adjudicated by an action for declaratory judgment brought against the United States in the district court for the District of Columbia that such qualifications or procedures will not have the effect of denying or abridging rights guaranteed by the Fifteenth Amendment. All actions hereunder shall be heard by a three-judge court and there shall be a right of direct appeal to the Supreme Court.

SEC. 9. (a) Whoever shall deprive or attempt to deprive any person of any right secured by section 2 or 3 or who shall violate section 7, shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

(b) Whoever, within a year following an election in a political subdivision in which an examiner has been appointed (1) destroys, defaces, mutilates, or otherwise alters the marking of a paper ballot cast in such election, or (2) alters any record of voting in such election made by a voting machine or otherwise, shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

(c) Whoever conspires to violate the provisions of subsection (a) or (b) of this section, or interferes with any right secured by section 2, 3, or 7, shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

(d) Whenever any person has engaged or there are reasonable grounds to believe that any person is about to engage in any act or practice prohibited by section 2, 3, 7 or 8 or subsection (b) of this section, the Attorney General may institute for the United States, or in the name of the United States, an action for preventive relief, including an application for a temporary or permanent injunction, restraining order, or other order, and including an order directed to the State and State or local election officials to require them to honor listings under this Act.

(e) Whenever a person alleges to an examiner within 24 hours after the closing of the polls that notwithstanding his listing under this Act he has not been permitted to vote or that his vote was not counted, the examiner shall forthwith notify the United States Attorney for the judicial district if such allegation in his opinion appears to be well founded. Upon receipt of such notification, the United States Attorney may forthwith apply to the district court for an order enjoining certification of the results of the election, and the court shall issue such an order pending a hearing to determine whether the allegations are well founded. In the event the court determines that persons who are entitled to vote under the provisions of this Act were not permitted to vote or their votes were not counted, it shall provide for the casting or counting of their ballots and require the inclusion of their votes in the total vote before any person shall be deemed to be elected by virtue of any election with respect to which an order enjoining certification of the results has been issued.

(f) The district courts of the United States shall have jurisdiction of proceedings instituted pursuant to this section and shall exercise the same without regard to whether an applicant for listing under this Act shall have exhausted any administrative or other remedies that may be provided by law.

SEC. 10. Listing procedures shall be terminated in any political subdivision of any State whenever the Attorney General notifies the Civil Service Commission (1) that all persons listed by the examiner for such subdivision have been placed on the appropriate voting registration roll, and (2) that there is no longer reasonable cause to believe that persons will be deprived of or denied the right to vote on account of race or color in such subdivision.

SEC. 11. (a) All cases of civil and criminal contempt arising under the provisions of this Act shall be governed by section 151 of the Civil Rights Act of 1957 (42 U.S.C. 1995).

(b) No court other than the district court for the District of Columbia shall have jurisdiction to issue any declaratory judgment or any restraining order or temporary or permanent injunction against the execution or enforcement of any provision of this Act or any action of any Federal officer or employee pursuant hereto.

(c) The term "vote" shall have the same meaning as in section 2004 of the Revised Statutes (42 U.S.C. 1971 (e)).

(d) Any statement made to an examiner may be the basis for a prosecution under section 1001 of Title 18, United States Code.

SEC. 12. There are hereby authorized to be appropriated such sums as are necessary to carry out the provisions of this Act.

SEC. 13. If any provision of this Act or the application thereof to any person or circumstances is held invalid, the remainder of the Act and the application of the provision to other persons not similarly situated or to other circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

Publisher Flies Fighter Jet

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Back in 1929, when Marcellus M. Murdock was in his late 40s, the boss of a pioneer aviation company told him he was too old to learn to fly.

Murdock bought a plane, hired an instructor, and he has been flying happily ever since. He celebrated his 82nd birthday last February with a lesson in a twin-engine plane and 11 days later received his multi-engine rating.

Murdock, president and chairman of the board of Wichita Eagle and Beacon Publishing Co. Inc., explained it this way:

"Flying has a peculiar fascination for me. There is a challenge. I never felt I was a courageous man, so it isn't courage. I just like it."

He has logged more than 6,000 hours as a pilot and in recent years has handled the controls of an Air Force F100 and the KC97 jet tanker plane. After his F100 flight he received a "mach-buster" button for flying faster than sound.

Gophers Don't Like Grease

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A slick new weapon has been added to the arsenal of gas, poison, garden tools and traps in the battle being waged by homeowners against gophers.

It's plain old bacon grease.

Amelia Barber of Phoenix became concerned when a colony of eight gophers started working over her lawn.

"Those gophers are highly educated and I have failed to match wits with 'em in the past." "I don't know anything about mechanics and couldn't set the traps." "I have never done anything like that before and don't want to start now."

So Mrs. Barber took her problem to Mrs. Ercell Clark, her next-door neighbor. Mrs. Clark disclosed she has routed gophers by pouring bacon grease in the holes and washing it down with a hose.

Mrs. Barber tried it — and now says her gophers are gone, too.

Flood Threat Even More Dangerous, Fire Possible

LA CROSSE, Wis. AP--A tilting storage tank laden with 107,000 gallons of gasoline added an awesome fire peril today to the woes of La Crosse, braced for the record flood crest sweeping down the Mississippi River valley.

"God, can you imagine fire moving along on this crest," said a police officer assigned to the emergency guard over the tank farm where 15 million gallons of gasoline are stored.

A 75-foot rupture in a protecting dike poured eight feet of water over the complex Monday, and Fire Chief Fred Genz Sr. said the potential danger increased with the exposure of the tanks to flood debris.

While the self-sealing tanks are not leaking, the water around them is coated by an oil slick from a nearby auto junk yard.

The Mississippi climbed to 17.4 feet, more than five feet over flood stage at La Crosse, as it swept downriver.

At Winona, Minn., about 25 miles to the north, nearly 1,000 persons left their homes in an orderly evacuation when water began coming up through storm sewers after seeping under protective dikes.

Deep-sea diving equipment was ferried across the Mississippi Monday by National Guardsmen from Eau Claire, Wis., to Winona where volunteer divers placed an inflatable fabric bag in a manhole to seal off the flow. Two other sewers were to be plugged the same way today.

The river was expected to crest today at Winona at 21 1/2 feet, 8 1/2 feet above flood level, and crest at 18 feet at La Crosse Wednesday.

The flooding began two weeks ago when the winter's snow began to melt.

Damage in Wisconsin and Minnesota, which have so far borne the brunt, has been estimated as high as $60 million by Civil Defense officials. The Red Cross said that 40,000 persons have been displaced in a five-state area, and the worst is still to come in Iowa, Illinois and Missouri.

Nearly 3,500 homes have been damaged or destroyed in Wisconsin and Minnesota, with 2,428 in Minnesota.

Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois and Gov. Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri met at Quincy, Ill., to plan flood defenses for their states.

Elsewhere along Iowa's eastern border, there were indications of record floods in the next 10 days but they may not be as costly as those of the past.

Brig. Gen. H. G. Woodbury, deputy director of civil work for the Army Corps of Engineers, said the riverbank communities "seem to be ready." He said the response of citizens has been heartening, and added, "I saw grammar school children filling sandbags at Dubuque."

Illinois Gov. Kerner made an aerial inspection of the Mississippi along his state, and then pulled on hip boots for an auto and boat tour of the critical Indian Graves levee and drainage district north of Quincy. A dike on the district's northern sector washed out last weekend, flooding 7,000 lowland farm acres.

Gov. Hearnes of Missouri suggested that dynamiting might relieve the pressures in the Quincy, Ill., Hannibal, Mo., area but Army Engineers spokesmen said any relief would be temporary. About 390 persons have been evacuated from 165 homes in the Hannibal area.

The flood cleanup was starting in some Minnesota communities, and in many places the aftermath seemed worse than the flood.

At Chaska, where homeowners have started to return, many residents found a blackish silt piled three feet deep in their yards.

Bootlegging

The term bootlegging came into general use in the United States as far back as 1880, when it was derived from the practice of carrying flasks concealed in boot tops, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

There are 87 state parks and 65 public lakes in Iowa.

Chicago's great fire occurred Oct. 8, 1871.

Prunes - Tenderized. Not Dried

Not dried, but tenderized--that's today's prunes! They have outgrown the ancient tag, "dried," as a result of modern advances in readying this fruit for market.

Today, prunes are dehydrated, processed and packed by new methods, explains the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service. Following dehydration, prunes are treated to a pasteurizing hot water bath and steaming. This increases their moisture from 18, formerly, to 26 or even 32 percent. The still-moist, tender fruit then is quickly and scientifically packaged.

Consumers, the ultimate beneficiaries of this new process, find the prunes they purchase nowadays are softer, more moist, more flavorful and require little if any cooking.

Look for larger than usual displays of "tenderized" prunes during the next few weeks, the Consumer and Marketing Service advises. Prune production is estimated at more than 170,000 tons--considerably larger than both average and last year's crop.

Count on prunes to add delicious flavor and eye-appeal to spring entrees, salads, sandwiches and desserts--as well as their traditional role as breakfast fruit. Serve, for example, stuffed prunes as a garnish to lamb chops or patties. Or use chopped prunes to enliven a ham sandwich filling. For more creative uses, try these USDA-recommended prune recipes.

COMPLETING THE GRADE work and laying of forms, for pouring the double concrete slab, shown south of Sikeston at county highway AA. The first stretch of several miles will be the west lane running to the Sikeston overpass, and then back on the east lane. Pouring is expected to begin this week by the Koss Construction Co.

The extension of Interstate Highway 55 south of Sikeston to New Madrid is now in its beginning stages, according to the general superintendent, L. A. Beuerlein, Springfield. The Koss Construction Company and Menefee Const. Co. has the contract for the 11-mile stretch, beginning at the south Sikeston overpass.

The 21-mile four -lane road paving project was awarded to three companies with Peter Kewitt Construction Republic, Mo., having the next five-mile contract, and the R. B. Potashnick Construction Company and D. L. Harrison Const. Co., the final five mile stretch just south of New Madrid.

The Koss Company is completing the overpass project at Highway 80 with a 24-foot pavement, with one-half of the roadway finished, and will require another day or two to complete the second half. When the overpass is completed, traffic will be allowed to use new overpass to East Prairie within one week.

The three contracts call for a total of 21.2 miles grading and paving, and the exact mileage and cost of each are as follows: Koss Construction and Menefee Const. Co., 11.1 miles and $2,469,000; Kewitt Construction Co., 5.6 miles and $2,389,000; and Potashnick and Harrison Construction Co., 4.5 miles and $2,469,000.

The Sikeston - New Madrid stretch will have three slight curves, with one north of Highway 80, a second south of Ristine (former Purena Co.), and south of New Madrid. The new interstate will run one and one-half miles west of New Madrid, and approximately one mile east of Howardville.

The paving project from Sikeston to Benton is complete and now in use, while from Benton to Scott City, shoulder work and paving of interchange at Scott City remains, and should be complete in July, weather permitting.

The stretch from Sikeston to New Madrid is scheduled to be finished late in fall, with some night work to be done. The completion date is also subject to weather conditions.

World's Fair Opens Tomorrow

NEW YORK (AP) — The weeks of planning and refurbishing are ended. At exactly 8:30 Wednesday morning, the New York World's Fair reopens.

The billion - dollar international exposition will be launched on its second and final six - month season with scores of foreign and national dignitaries scheduled to join in opening-day ceremonies. Included are Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt.

An army of workmen was assigned to work right up to the symbolic ribbon-cutting, tending to the last-minute technical and housekeeping problems that build up during six months of hibernation.

"We have everything in order," a fair spokesman said. "Now it's up to the public and the weather."

The fair this year is billed as a bigger and better exposition than in 1964 with emphasis on more admission-free exhibits and light entertainment.

Fair President Robert Moses said it "is a brighter, bigger fair than 1964" and he predicted that 37.5 million people would visit it before the gates close Oct. 21.

Unlike last year, the fair this year will offer dance hall entertainment, games of skill, "family - geared" girlie shows and regular can - can performances.

Back again will be the large industrial exhibits dotting the 646-acre site.

Also on display again will be priceless art treasures in many of the foreign pavilions and church sponsored exhibits.

Other new exhibits include paintings and personal belongings of the late Sir Winston Churchill and some of this nation's most treasured documents.

Senate Busy On Budget Bills

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The Senate Appropriations Committee returned to work Monday and processed budget bills for two of the state's big agencies -- the departments of Education and Revenue.

Chairman J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, kept the committee moving smoothly through two of the 17 money bills already passed by the House.

Patterson quickly extinguished what appeared to be a political fire in the making Monday night as Republican members probed revenue director Tom David about his department's handling of state funds.

Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Clayton, asked David about shifting funds from one bank to another.

David was appointed to the revenue post by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, who is involved in a dispute with state treasurer M. E. Morris over state depositories. All are Democrats.

Patterson interrupted Jones. He said the inquiry had nothing to do with the item of the budget being discussed.

Similar probes by Sen. Jack Curtis of Springfield and Sen. Thomas G. Woolsey of Versailles, both Republicans, also were ruled out of order by Patterson.

The committee questioned the wisdom of giving the Revenue Department an "open end" appropriation for state income tax refunds.

The department asked for $20 million but this figure was erased by the House.

Earlier this session the legislature passed an emergency money bill to meet refunds due more than 57,000 Missourians from the 1963 taxes.

The open-end approach would enable the department to make refunds as necessary instead of being limited to a specific amount.

Sen. T. D. McNeal, D- St. Louis, objected to it. He said the legislature would never know how much general revenue it had to work with.

Woolsey asked income tax officials about the policy of the department in setting up the withholding system.

Officials asked income tax officials about the policy of the department in setting up the withholding system.

Officials said they set the rates a little higher than necessary because it is easier and less expensive to make refunds than to collect additional taxes due.

"Do you think it's fair to the taxpayers of the state?" Woolsey asked.

In an afternoon session, the committee studied the planned expenditures of the Education Department, including a request for nearly $132 million in state aid to schools.

Discussed but not debated was a bill pending in another committee to boost this figure to $24.5 million.

The House passed the measure but Gov. Hearnes has urged its defeat. He said it could be better analyzed at the special appropriations session next year.

The hearing also indicated the Senate might trim requests for funds to assist county school superintendents in conducting studies and surveys.

There is a bill before the legislature again this session to abolish the office in counties where it is no longer needed because of school district reorganization.

The committee is expected to work through Thursday clearing as many appropriation bills as possible before the rest of the legislature returns next week from Easter vacation.

Epidemic Sweeps Sikeston

A serious epidemic is sweeping Sikeston. There is hardly a family remaining which has not been in some way affected. Symptoms first were observed about two months ago when the Sikeston Art League drive opened. At first only a few were noticibly "done-in" by the malady, but as time passes, this strange affliction seemingly becomes more seriously contagious. Obviously distressing symptoms are prevailing. Those effected are said to become extremely enthusiastic at the very mention of the words "art, show, or league." Please use these words no more than necessary. We realize to eliminate them altogether would be ill advised at present, however, a good test to pin point carriers is to drop one of these words in a group and watch for responses. It very quickly becomes obvious which individuals need watching. "Infectious Enthusiasm" is one of the most severe forms of the disease. Another distracting symptom is the constant or near-constant wielding of pencil, brush, or other classified equipment. This manifestation is not quite as disturbing as the above mentioned since it is less demanding of attention, less overwhelming. The artist is reasonably quiet at work but "Brush Fever" is a form from which no one has ever fully recovered. It should not go unnoticed that "Brush Fever" attacks all ages, one year to one hundred.

A disease transported by word of mouth and all news media, it now appears that a course must be run and symptoms in all probability will not subside until after the Sikeston Art League show at the Holiday Inn, May 1 and 2. Late reports from local stores which stock art supplies indicate that sales of these items are rising with a feverish pace, probably aggravated by the League sponsored classes in sketching and water color. The pulse beat of our area has quickened to a dangerous rate. In a time when urban areas are suffering from rising crime rates, lack of civic interests and general lethargy we can easily be concerned about Sikeston and its lack of participation in the accepted, statistical gloom. Sikeston does have a raging epidemic, a cultural epidemic, bringing strange and wonderful symptoms relieved by fulfillment in the arts.

The height of the attack will predictably be reached within the next few weeks. After May 2 it is expected to drop to endemic proportions and remain there, only occasionally fluctuating to epidemic stages as especially interesting art projects occur.

Children Go Back To School Tomorrow

Hey kids, I sure hate to tell you this, but in the morning you will have to go back to school.

The kids have been out of school since last Friday and it is found that most of them spent their short Easter vacation doing what they wanted to do. Some took trips with their parents and some just stayed around home, but almost all of them had a wonderful time.

You can bet though, whatever they did, they did it enthusiastically.

Graham Speaks Against One Man One Vote Rule

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Speaker Thomas D. Graham, D-Cole County, predicted today enough states will join to block the U. S. Supreme Court's one man-one vote rule for apportioning state legislatures.

He reported the legislatures of 22 states have petitioned Congress so far to call a constitutional convention. The purpose is to get a constitutional amendment that would allow states to apportion one branch of their legislatures on a basis other than population.

Three other states have memorialized Congress to call such a convention, Graham said, and a convention call has been approved by one house of the legislature in five other states.

Thirty - four petitions are needed and Graham predicted that many will be passed if Congress itself does not submit an apportionment amendment.

In his report he charged "a relatively small body of people, with a vested interest in having control of state legislatures centralized in the hands of big-city politicians, can to all intents and purposes steal our constitution from us."

Instead of being a question of one-man vote, he said, the real issue is "whether or not any man is going to have any vote. If we are going to be denied the opportunity to vote on an issue so fundamental as this one--the right to amend our constitution --we have had it."

At one point in pushing the convention resolution through the Missouri Legislature, Graham got angry and shouted "to hell with the Supreme Court."

Prizes At Home Show Well Worth Winning

Just over the horizon is the opening day of one of Sikeston's greatest attractions -- the annual Jaycee Home, Farm, Auto and Sports Show. For three days, beginning Friday, a million dollars worth of items will be on free display at the Armory.

At last report, only four booths remained available inside the Armory building. There were still some outdoor exhibition spaces left open.

For this, the seventh annual Jaycee Show, the committees have gone all out to make this the best show to be held in Sikeston of it's kind. Just about every appliance imaginable will be shown, either inside or outside the building.

The attendance prizes are again numerous, making it possible for more people to go home just a little happier. There will be 11 prizes given away: 21 inch Chieftain Power Mower; 11 piece Aluminum cookware set; two (24 inch) barbecue grills; 24 cup automatic percolator; one pair decorator lamps; mans watch; two pieces of Two-Suiter Luggage; 1/4 inch electric drill; fishing tackle assortment; living room chair; one set of decorator wall plaques; and three four piece tray table sets.

Concrete Poured South Of Sikeston On Interstate 55

COMPLETING THE GRADE work and laying of forms, for pouring the double concrete slab, shown south of Sikeston at county highway AA. The first stretch of several miles will be the west lane running to the Sikeston overpass, and then back on the east lane. Pouring is expected to begin this week by the Koss Construction Co.

The extension of Interstate Highway 55 south of Sikeston to New Madrid is now in its beginning stages, according to the general superintendent, L. A. Beuerlein, Springfield. The Koss Construction Company and Menefee Const. Co. has the contract for the 11-mile stretch, beginning at the south Sikeston overpass.

The 21-mile four -lane road paving project was awarded to three companies with Peter Kewitt Construction Republic, Mo., having the next five-mile contract, and the R. B. Potashnick Construction Company and D. L. Harrison Const. Co., the final five mile stretch just south of New Madrid.

The Koss Company is completing the overpass project at Highway 80 with a 24-foot pavement, with one-half of the roadway finished, and will require another day or two to complete the second half. When the overpass is completed, traffic will be allowed to use new overpass to East Prairie within one week.

The three contracts call for a total of 21.2 miles grading and paving, and the exact mileage and cost of each are as follows: Koss Construction and Menefee Const. Co., 11.1 miles and $2,469,000; Kewitt Construction Co., 5.6 miles and $2,389,000; and Potashnick and Harrison Construction Co., 4.5 miles and $2,469,000.

The Sikeston - New Madrid stretch will have three slight curves, with one north of Highway 80, a second south of Ristine (former Purena Co.), and south of New Madrid. The new interstate will run one and one-half miles west of New Madrid, and approximately one mile east of Howardville.

The paving project from Sikeston to Benton is complete and now in use, while from Benton to Scott City, shoulder work and paving of interchange at Scott City remains, and should be complete in July, weather permitting.

The stretch from Sikeston to New Madrid is scheduled to be finished late in fall, with some night work to be done. The completion date is also subject to weather conditions.

World's Fair Opens Tomorrow

NEW YORK (AP) — The weeks of planning and refurbishing are ended. At exactly 8:30 Wednesday morning, the New York World's Fair reopens.

The billion - dollar international exposition will be launched on its second and final six - month season with scores of foreign and national dignitaries scheduled to join in opening-day ceremonies. Included are Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt.

An army of workmen was assigned to work right up to the symbolic ribbon-cutting, tending to the last-minute technical and housekeeping problems that build up during six months of hibernation.

"We have everything in order," a fair spokesman said. "Now it's up to the public and the weather."

The fair this year is billed as a bigger and better exposition than in 1964 with emphasis on more admission-free exhibits and light entertainment.

Fair President Robert Moses said it "is a brighter, bigger fair than 1964" and he predicted that 37.5 million people would visit it before the gates close Oct. 21.

Unlike last year, the fair this year will offer dance hall entertainment, games of skill, "family - geared" girlie shows and regular can - can performances.

Back again will be the large industrial exhibits dotting the 646-acre site.

Also on display again will be priceless art treasures in many of the foreign pavilions and church sponsored exhibits.

Other new exhibits include paintings and personal belongings of the late Sir Winston Churchill and some of this nation's most treasured documents.

Senate Busy On Budget Bills

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The Senate Appropriations Committee returned to work Monday and processed budget bills for two of the state's big agencies -- the departments of Education and Revenue.

Chairman J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, kept the committee moving smoothly through two of the 17 money bills already passed by the House.

Patterson quickly extinguished what appeared to be a political fire in the making Monday night as Republican members probed revenue director Tom David about his department's handling of state funds.

Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Clayton, asked David about shifting funds from one bank to another.

David was appointed to the revenue post by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, who is involved in a dispute with state treasurer M. E. Morris over state depositories. All are Democrats.

Patterson interrupted Jones. He said the inquiry had nothing to do with the item of the budget being discussed.

Similar probes by Sen. Jack Curtis of Springfield and Sen. Thomas G. Woolsey of Versailles, both Republicans, also were ruled out of order by Patterson.

The committee questioned the wisdom of giving the Revenue Department an "open end" appropriation for state income tax refunds.

The department asked for $20 million but this figure was erased by the House.

Earlier this session the legislature passed an emergency money bill to meet refunds due more than 57,000 Missourians from the 1963 taxes.

The open-end approach would enable the department to make refunds as necessary instead of being limited to a specific amount.

Sen. T. D. McNeal, D- St. Louis, objected to it. He said the legislature would never know how much general revenue it had to work with.

Woolsey asked income tax officials about the policy of the department in setting up the withholding system.

Officials asked income tax officials about the policy of the department in setting up the withholding system.

Officials said they set the rates a little higher than necessary because it is easier and less expensive to make refunds than to collect additional taxes due.

"Do you think it's fair to the taxpayers of the state?" Woolsey asked.

In an afternoon session, the committee studied the planned expenditures of the Education Department, including a request for nearly $132 million in state aid to schools.

Discussed but not debated was a bill pending in another committee to boost this figure to $24.5 million.

The House passed the measure but Gov. Hearnes has urged its defeat. He said it could be better analyzed at the special appropriations session next year.

The hearing also indicated the Senate might trim requests for funds to assist county school superintendents in conducting studies and surveys.

There is a bill before the legislature again this session to abolish the office in counties where it is no longer needed because of school district reorganization.

The committee is expected to work through Thursday clearing as many appropriation bills as possible before the rest of the legislature returns next week from Easter vacation.

Epidemic Sweeps Sikeston

A serious epidemic is sweeping Sikeston. There is hardly a family remaining which has not been in some way affected. Symptoms first were observed about two months ago when the Sikeston Art League drive opened. At first only a few were noticibly "done-in" by the malady, but as time passes, this strange affliction seemingly becomes more seriously contagious. Obviously distressing symptoms are prevailing. Those effected are said to become extremely enthusiastic at the very mention of the words "art, show, or league." Please use these words no more than necessary. We realize to eliminate them altogether would be ill advised at present, however, a good test to pin point carriers is to drop one of these words in a group and watch for responses. It very quickly becomes obvious which individuals need watching. "Infectious Enthusiasm" is one of the most severe forms of the disease. Another distracting symptom is the constant or near-constant wielding of pencil, brush, or other classified equipment. This manifestation is not quite as disturbing as the above mentioned since it is less demanding of attention, less overwhelming. The artist is reasonably quiet at work but "Brush Fever" is a form from which no one has ever fully recovered. It should not go unnoticed that "Brush Fever" attacks all ages, one year to one hundred.

A disease transported by word of mouth and all news media, it now appears that a course must be run and symptoms in all probability will not subside until after the Sikeston Art League show at the Holiday Inn, May 1 and 2. Late reports from local stores which stock art supplies indicate that sales of these items are rising with a feverish pace, probably aggravated by the League sponsored classes in sketching and water color. The pulse beat of our area has quickened to a dangerous rate. In a time when urban areas are suffering from rising crime rates, lack of civic interests and general lethargy we can easily be concerned about Sikeston and its lack of participation in the accepted, statistical gloom. Sikeston does have a raging epidemic, a cultural epidemic, bringing strange and wonderful symptoms relieved by fulfillment in the arts.

The height of the attack will predictably be reached within the next few weeks. After May 2 it is expected to drop to endemic proportions and remain there, only occasionally fluctuating to epidemic stages as especially interesting art projects occur.

You can bet though, whatever they did, they did it enthusiastically.

Graham Speaks Against One Man One Vote Rule

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Speaker Thomas D. Graham, D-Cole County, predicted today enough states will join to block the U. S. Supreme Court's one man-one vote rule for apportioning state legislatures.

He reported the legislatures of 22 states have petitioned Congress so far to call a constitutional convention. The purpose is to get a constitutional amendment that would allow states to apportion one branch of their legislatures on a basis other than population.

Three other states have memorialized Congress to call such a convention, Graham said, and a convention call has been approved by one house of the legislature in five other states.

Thirty - four petitions are needed and Graham predicted that many will be passed if Congress itself does not submit an apportionment amendment.

In his report he charged "a relatively small body of people, with a vested interest in having control of state legislatures centralized in the hands of big-city politicians, can to all intents and purposes steal our constitution from us."

Instead of being a question of one-man vote, he said, the real issue is "whether or not any man is going to have any vote. If we are going to be denied the opportunity to vote on an issue so fundamental as this one--the right to amend our constitution --we have had it."

At one point in pushing the convention resolution through the Missouri Legislature, Graham got angry and shouted "to hell with the Supreme Court."

STOPPING IDLE CHATTER

Back in 1958, the Federal Communications Commission set aside a small number of radio frequencies for short-range transmissions (a radius of 20 miles). This so-called Citizens' Band was intended for emergency use by small boat owners, outdoorsmen and firefighters, and by businesses that might find what amounts to a walkie-talkie setup useful.

To avoid excluding potential users who might need it, CB license requirements were made easy. A CB operator need only be 18 or more years of age and able to send in an $8 registration fee. Most sets are portable -- about the size of a lunch box -- and the operator needs merely to press the "talk" button to transmit. Within six years, CB had attracted some 700,000 licensees.

Many of the CB licensees are responsible, but the F. C. C. has discovered that others are not. These CBabies take pleasure in interfering with other peoples' transmissions, chatter needlessly, and use obscene language. Thousands of television set owners report having their reception of programs disrupted by the radio transmissions of voluble youngsters.

Much of this abuse of the Citizens' Band radio service should be eliminated beginning Monday, April 26, when new F. C. C. rules go into effect. They specifically prohibit operators from indulging in communications for hobby or diversion on 16 of the existing 23 channels. Malicious interference with another station's communications is forbidden. If the new rules fail to quiet idle chitchats over the airwaves, the F. C. C. has warned that it will consider shutting down Citizens' Band radio service altogether.

BEHIND EACH DOOR, FREEDOM WILL DIE

U. S. Foreign policy was recently likened to a long hospital corridor lined with separate rooms, each marked with a sign: "Do Not Disturb The Russians in Cuba;" "Do Not Disturb Nasser In The Middle East;" "Do Not Disturb The Viet Minh in Laos;" "Do Not Disturb Indonesia's Playboy, Sukarno."

Unless foreign policy doctors get past the "Do Not Disturb" signs, the corridor will look more like a mausoleum, and behind each of those doors, freedom will die.

There are those who say we have been doing our very best with these various "patients" throughout the world, and that if they do not respond, the fault is not with our prescription. No matter what the problem is in each of these countries, the U. S. prescription is usually the same -- money under the labor of "Foreign Aid."

All too often in Washington, the natural impulse is to throw money at a problem. But throwing money at communism through our foreign aid program does not seem to be doing the job.

Further, the medicine of foreign aid dollars seems to hurt the doctor more than it helps the patient.

Since the end of World War II, the United States has passed out $120 billion in U. S. tax money to more than 100 countries throughout the world.

The requirement for entering into this "international clinic" for nations with sick economies has been unrestrictive. In many cases, we have had to sell them on the idea of receiving aid. Nations receiving aid are not required to have either sympathy or respect for the ideas of individual freedom (the ideas which have made the dollars available). Billions have been given away to communist, communist -leaning, and neutralist countries.

The arguments for foreign aid are many. Often, the thinking of those who advocate foreign aid as the only method of stopping the spread of communism follows this strange logic:

"Country 'A' received no foreign aid, and turned communist. Foreign aid would have prevented this.

"Country 'B' received foreign aid, but turned communist. Not enough aid.

"Country 'C' received foreign aid, and didn't turn communist. This proves our aid prevented the turn.

"Country 'D' received no foreign aid, and didn't turn communist. Irrelevant."

Is foreign aid an effective weapon in the cold war? Has it profited the free world or the communist world?

Let's look at the record.

Indonesia was at one time a Western colony, then it became a pro-Western independent country. After receiving almost $1 billion from the U. S., it is now a pro-Soviet nation.

Under the label of "neutralism," Laos can virtually be chalked up to the communists. Laos has received $500 million in U. S. foreign aid.

The United States gave Cuba $66 million in aid. Now the base for communist infiltration, agitation and propaganda in this hemisphere, Cuban communism seems to be more effective in winning the minds of the people in Latin America than billions of U. S. dollars. Several Latin American countries have been moving steadily toward the communist camp.

The planners have given huge amounts to African nations, but communist penetration there seems to be ahead of freedom's advances.

The list of nations receiving billions goes on and on, and there seems to be no end in sight. The list of nations being taken into the communist net goes on and on, and there seems to be no end in sight.

Why does this happen? Why do things turn in favor of communism and not in favor of freedom? Money alone does not seem to be the answer.

U. S. policy has been weak. The United States has not been exporting the dynamic ideas of individual freedom that made that U. S. aid so plentiful.

Communism exports ideas. The communists have been winning the cold war for men's minds because the U. S. apparently has not understood this new kind of warfare. It does not take much agitation by the communists to get people to believe that the whole idea of American foreign aid is an "imperialistic plot to gain control -- so the Imperialists can exploit the workers."

Once accepting this line, nations are easily drawn into the lie that communism is more sympathetic to the needs of the workers.

It is easy for communists to instill their propaganda in unsuspecting minds when we do not have a program to counter the falsehoods with truth. Our silence shows we haven't learned the rules of fighting the cold war. Communists have been professionals with "the lie," while we have been novices with the truth. When they have twisted the facts, we have remained silent.

In the nations receiving foreign aid, the cry for American dollars is made by many - including the communists. Communist agents, in foreign countries, have been heard to say, "We would like to have your American foreign aid dollars, because this would help to keep us from going communist." This double-standard idea is worthy of consideration. Obviously a communist is not interested in the advance of anything but communism. For what other reason should he want to have foreign aid dollars in the country he is infiltrating?

What good is foreign aid that builds a school to teach students to read when the reading material to be used in the school is filled with Anti - American propaganda? What good is foreign aid that builds a factory when anti-American worker's groups will work there? What good is foreign aid that builds a hospital when it will be staffed with communist nurses who indoctrinate the patients?

The fast recovery of Western Europe through our financial support has helped the free world. But over the years, world - wide opportunities for freedom have been diminishing.

It is time to re-evaluate the foreign aid program. Certainly it does no good to finance economic recovery of communist nations, because the money will be used to benefit communism. Yugoslavia and Poland will not move toward freedom just because American dollars are sent there.

If it is not possible to do away with foreign aid altogether because of long-range commitments, it is possible, while reducing it, to operate the program in terms of winning the cold war and in terms of freedom's cause.

As support for foreign aid has been losing ground, the idea for a Freedom Academy has been gaining support. The Freedom Academy idea proposes an organization to train officials who come in contact with communists. It would train them to counter communist efforts with constructive ideas for freedom.

It would be through this very Freedom Academy that we might realize far greater results with foreign aid. The people representing the United States in foreign countries could be equipped with a greater knowledge of communist tactics, while executing the aid program.

If America's good intentions can be set forth through a constructive information program in these countries, the advance of communism can be halted.

ADVERTISING AND AUTO SALES

These figures do not include the huge amount invested in automotive advertising by local dealers, used car companies and garages. An all inclusive figure would total approximately a billion dollars.

This may appear to be a great deal of money to pour into sales and promotion. But the investment should be judged in terms of results. The advertising helped bring about sales of goods and services of more than 50 billion dollars. It brought record profits to manufacturers and retailers. It helped to keep millions of men employed.

The leading American manufacturers learned long ago that the engineering of a good car did not assure success. Countless fine automobiles have been built by firms which did not meet the competition in advertising effort.

General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler have continued to thrive while remaining the three largest newspaper advertisers in the world. The giant national firms have never lost sight of the fact production is not complete until a sale has been made.

And their continued use of the newspaper, especially in the introduction of the new models, reaffirms their belief in the long standing axiom that "all sales are local, and the basic local medium is the community newspaper."

The Missouri Highway Patrol reports that only four counties in Missouri went through 1964 without a traffic fatality. They were Bollinger, Hickory, Reynolds and Schuyler.

Jackson County recorded the most traffic fatalities of the 114 Missouri counties, 127. The second highest traffic toll was reported in St Louis County with 115. This does not include the city of St. Louis which had 85 traffic deaths.

There were seven other Missouri counties with 20 or more traffic fatalities in 1964, according to the Highway Patrol. They were: Greene County, 38; New Madrid, 26; Pulaski, 23; Henry, 22; Newton, 21; and both Bates amd Cass Counties with 20 traffic deaths.

The more notable of these were St. Louis County with an increase of 19, Pulaski County with 18 more fatalities, Jasper County had an increase of 16, Jackson and Newton Counties each had 15 more, and Phelps County recorded 12 more traffic deaths in 1964.

Fifty Missouri counties had a decrease in traffic deaths from 1963. The more prominent in this group were Marion County with 14 less traffic deaths, Livingston County with a decrease of 13, and both Buchanan and St. Francois Counties recorded 10 less traffic fatalities in 1964. Only eight counties reported the same traffic fatality toll for both years.

Colonel Hugh H. Waggoner, the Missouri Highway Patrol Superintendent, declared, "If our present rate of traffic fatalities continues, every county in Missouri will be listed on the tragic death record for 1965. There is not a roadway in Missouri that cannot be the scene of a serious traffic accident.

"I urge all motorists to be aware of the fact that anyone, at any place, at any time, can become involved in a traffic accident. Each driver can help avoid that next accident if he accepts his responsibility, and makes a real effort to improve his driving each day," Colonel Waggoner concluded.

FORMULA FOR SUCCESS

It's hard to believe, but back in the 1920's many people regarded meat as an unhealthy food. A popular song of the period, catchily entitled "Button Up Your Overcoat," advised in its lyrics, "Don't eat meat. . . ."

There's been a great change in the intervening years. For the great majority of us, an adequate quantity of meat is essential to sound diet. There is no longer any informed doubt that protein, bountifully provided by meat, makes an important contribution to physical and mental health in people of all ages. And the statistics reflect what has happened. Per capita consumption of beef, the most popular meat, increased from 60 pounds in 1945 to over 100 pounds last year. As Dr. Harrell DeGraff, president of the American Meat Institute has said, "today's children eat more meat in a year than some of their ancestors ate in a lifetime."

There is stiff competition for the consumer dollar by other foods, and meat must face it. This competition, Dr. DeGraff believes, will be more than offset by the meat industry's ingenuity in the marketplace. He finds that it seems to be axiomatic that as disposable income rises, the appetite for beef rises with it.

Meat is a fine product, wanted by almost everyone, and expertly merchandised. This is the formula for success in a free market.

AMERICA'S BLANK CHECK

Our government has now committed the Federal Treasury to total support of the United Nations financially, no matter what it may do and no matter how many of its members renege on their solemnly pledged obligations. We have handed the U.N. a blank check on our Treasury.

Only last year government spokesmen in Washington and in our U.N. delegation stoutly insisted that Soviet Russia and other nations refusing to meet their U.N. payroll would lose their vote as the charter requires in such a case. Last February, challenged and outmaneuvered and surrounded by Red China's stooge, albania, the U.S. backed down, allowing the bullies to vote without even a protest.

Now the retreat is officially admitted. We will no longer demand that any member nation pay one cent of U.N. expenses in return for recognizing its right to vote in the General Assembly. If a member nation wants to contribute to U.N. expenses, naturally we will thankfully welcome it. But if other members don't pay, our treasury will make up their part.

The quick result of this will be obvious to anyone not totally blinded by childish "idealism". Washington-Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Among the biggest contributors to the Republican Party are executives of the Olin-Mathieson Corp., of whom Spencer T. Olin is Republican National Treasurer. In 1962, he contributed $34,600 to the GOP campaign chest while other Olin-Mathieson executives brought the total up to a whopping $100,750.

There is no known connection between this and the excess profits which Olin-Mathieson has charged the Army. Nevertheless the public has a right to know that the general accounting office has just charged that Olin-Mathieson soaked the taxpayers over $1 million in excess profits for blank cartridge powder. Most of this excess charge occured during the Republican administration of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The general accounting office also charges that the Army, during the Eisenhower administration, changed its requirements so that only one company --namely Olin-Mathieson, the big contributors to the Republican Party--could qualify for the contract.

The directive which resulted in the whopping overcharge was issued April 1954 by Lt. Gen. Emerson L. Cummings, then Army ordnance chief.

"The chief of ordnance directed that all military small arms should eventually be loaded with ball-type propellant powder which was developed by and is produced only by Olin-Mathieson Chemical Corporation," says the GAP Report. Since there were no other bidders, Olin - Mathieson was awarded a negotiated contract that ran into staggering profits.

Previously, the government had procured similar powder at about 90 cents a pound. Instead, the Army purchased from Olin-Mathieson for $1.72 a pound "without requesting a review of Olin - Mathieson's costs," charged the general accounting office.

"Furthermore, even after excessive prices were disclosed by the Army Audit Agency," says GAO, "Contracting officials did not take timely action to obtain a lower price from Olin-Mathieson.

"Olin-Mathieson earned profits amounting to about 162 per cent of the cost of powder sold to Remington Arms during the period December 1958 to January 1962," charges the GAO. "When the excessive prices were eventually disclosed by an Army Audit Agency review, Olin -Mathieson and the Army negotiated a significantly lower price for future delivery."

--PREVIOUS TROUBLE--

This is not the first time that trouble over a cartridge contract with the Army. During the war, ten members of the U. S. Cartridge Co. in St. Louis, a subsidiary of Olin Industries, were indicted for conspiracy to pass defective ammunition, making false statements, and violating the Sabotage Act. Tried in April 1944, they were found not guilty.

A second indictment against the Olin Firm dragged on for seven years, and in 1950 was dropped by the government. The government brought a civil suit for $214,000 against U. S. Cartridge to recover damages.

Even at that time, 1943, a close liaison was disclosed between U. S. Cartridge and the Army.

When the U. S. attorney in St. Louis, Harry Blanton, tried to get inside the St. Louis Ordnance Plant of the U. S. Cartridge Co. to investigate sabotage charges, the Army officer in charge, Col. C. S. Paulin, would not admit him.

Col. Paulin would not even admit the military intelligence agent of his own war department.

Whereupon the Justice Department telephoned Washington to protest. The War Department replied that the FBI could be admitted to the St. Louis Ordnance Plant-- if someone accompanied the agents around the plant and listened in on their conversation. The Justice Department refused; replied that it could not track down graft with possible grafters listening over the G-men's shoulders.

--HIGH COST OF BEEF--

The high cost of meat to the housewife and the low cost of beef to the farmer will not make headlines as Viet Nam, but tomorrow (April 21) they will be the subject of an important hearing in Fort Worth.

The hearing is the culmination of a nation-wide protest by beef producers last year that low prices were putting them out of business. Rancher after rancher claimed to be going bankrupt. Meanwhile, the price of beef to the housewife has not gone down.

On the contrary, since 1947 the retail price of choice beef cuts has increased about 26 per cent, while the price received by the farmer has decreased almost 14 per cent.

The investigation in Fort Worth will attempt to find who's making money out of the price spread. The probe will be conducted by the National Commission on Food Marketing named by President Johnson and including five senators, five members of the House, and five representatives of the public, chaired by former California Chief Justice Phil Gibson.

Preliminary surveys have already ascertained that some of the big chains have made record profits, such as the Winn-Dixie chain in the south, which rolled up a 24 per cent profit on investment last year after taxes. Other chains have been much more modest.

Remarked Douglas T. Simpson, a Utah rancher and head of the Utah Farmers Union: "Meat producers would be no worse off if the entire country was hit by a serious depression. Then everyone would be in the same boat. As it is now, the producer is suffering while the rest of the economy is enjoying great prosperity."

Recently published reports have stated that the North Vietnamese had prepared sites for SAM anti-aircraft missiles. However, Drew Pearson has further and more important information that the SAM missiles have actually arrived. We are therefore sending you the following immediate release.

--RUSSIAN MISSILES BEING UNLOADED--

The most important development in the Vietnamese War has just been reported to Washington--the arrival of huge crates on the docks of Haiphong believed to contain Russian SAM missiles.

Photos have been taken from American reconnaissance planes of Russian ships unloading these crates. While there is no way to ascertain definitely what is in the crates, it's believed almost certain they are the same type of anti-aircraft missiles used in Cuba and also used to shoot down the famous U-2 spy plane over Russia.

If so, it may lead to the confrontation between the United States and Russia of which I warned in my earlier dispatches from Moscow.

Arrival of the crates has touched off a significant debate inside the Pentagon. Air Force generals have urged that the Haiphong docks be bombed immediately, before the SAM guns can be unloaded and put in position.

Other advisers point out that bombing the docks would almost certainly mean hitting Russian ships alongside, and that this could be construed as an act of war.

We have known that the Russians, though promising, and now delivering anti-aircraft missiles, were not happy about the Viet Nam imbroglio and the embarrassing spot on which they were put as between an ally, North Viet Nam, and a country with which they hoped for continuing good relations, the United States.

Therefore anti-warhawk U. S. advisers have urged no bombing of Russian ships. They have also pointed out that the missile sites were located only around Hanio, the capital, therefore would be no menace to U. S. planes, since we are not bombing near Hanoi.

In the past, the United States has regarded SAM missiles as purely defensive, therefore we have not protested their continued location in Cuba. They can shoot to an altitude of 100,000 feet, therefore are able to knock down any high-flying plane over a country, but cannot fire at an enemy outside that country.

Allied ambassadors in Washington, very friendly to the United States but concerned over the danger of a major war spreading from Viet Nam, have pointed out that bombing North Viet Nam was almost certain to bring some kind of Russian or Chinese defensive retaliation.

STOPPING IDLE CHATTER

Back in 1958, the Federal Communications Commission set aside a small number of radio frequencies for short-range transmissions (a radius of 20 miles). This so-called Citizens' Band was intended for emergency use by small boat owners, outdoorsmen and firefighters, and by businesses that might find what amounts to a walkie-talkie setup useful.

To avoid excluding potential users who might need it, CB license requirements were made easy. A CB operator need only be 18 or more years of age and able to send in an $8 registration fee. Most sets are portable -- about the size of a lunch box -- and the operator needs merely to press the "talk" button to transmit. Within six years, CB had attracted some 700,000 licensees.

Many of the CB licensees are responsible, but the F. C. C. has discovered that others are not. These CBabies take pleasure in interfering with other peoples' transmissions, chatter needlessly, and use obscene language. Thousands of television set owners report having their reception of programs disrupted by the radio transmissions of voluble youngsters.

Much of this abuse of the Citizens' Band radio service should be eliminated beginning Monday, April 26, when new F. C. C. rules go into effect. They specifically prohibit operators from indulging in communications for hobby or diversion on 16 of the existing 23 channels. Malicious interference with another station's communications is forbidden. If the new rules fail to quiet idle chitchats over the airwaves, the F. C. C. has warned that it will consider shutting down Citizens' Band radio service altogether.

BEHIND EACH DOOR, FREEDOM WILL DIE

U. S. Foreign policy was recently likened to a long hospital corridor lined with separate rooms, each marked with a sign: "Do Not Disturb The Russians in Cuba;" "Do Not Disturb Nasser In The Middle East;" "Do Not Disturb The Viet Minh in Laos;" "Do Not Disturb Indonesia's Playboy, Sukarno."

Unless foreign policy doctors get past the "Do Not Disturb" signs, the corridor will look more like a mausoleum, and behind each of those doors, freedom will die.

There are those who say we have been doing our very best with these various "patients" throughout the world, and that if they do not respond, the fault is not with our prescription. No matter what the problem is in each of these countries, the U. S. prescription is usually the same -- money under the labor of "Foreign Aid."

All too often in Washington, the natural impulse is to throw money at a problem. But throwing money at communism through our foreign aid program does not seem to be doing the job.

Further, the medicine of foreign aid dollars seems to hurt the doctor more than it helps the patient.

Since the end of World War II, the United States has passed out $120 billion in U. S. tax money to more than 100 countries throughout the world.

The requirement for entering into this "international clinic" for nations with sick economies has been unrestrictive. In many cases, we have had to sell them on the idea of receiving aid. Nations receiving aid are not required to have either sympathy or respect for the ideas of individual freedom (the ideas which have made the dollars available). Billions have been given away to communist, communist -leaning, and neutralist countries.

The arguments for foreign aid are many. Often, the thinking of those who advocate foreign aid as the only method of stopping the spread of communism follows this strange logic:

"Country 'A' received no foreign aid, and turned communist. Foreign aid would have prevented this.

"Country 'B' received foreign aid, but turned communist. Not enough aid.

"Country 'C' received foreign aid, and didn't turn communist. This proves our aid prevented the turn.

Is foreign aid an effective weapon in the cold war? Has it profited the free world or the communist world?

Indonesia was at one time a Western colony, then it became a pro-Western independent country. After receiving almost $1 billion from the U. S., it is now a pro-Soviet nation.

Under the label of "neutralism," Laos can virtually be chalked up to the communists. Laos has received $500 million in U. S. foreign aid.

The United States gave Cuba $66 million in aid. Now the base for communist infiltration, agitation and propaganda in this hemisphere, Cuban communism seems to be more effective in winning the minds of the people in Latin America than billions of U. S. dollars. Several Latin American countries have been moving steadily toward the communist camp.

The planners have given huge amounts to African nations, but communist penetration there seems to be ahead of freedom's advances.

The list of nations receiving billions goes on and on, and there seems to be no end in sight. The list of nations being taken into the communist net goes on and on, and there seems to be no end in sight.

Why does this happen? Why do things turn in favor of communism and not in favor of freedom? Money alone does not seem to be the answer.

U. S. policy has been weak. The United States has not been exporting the dynamic ideas of individual freedom that made that U. S. aid so plentiful.

Communism exports ideas. The communists have been winning the cold war for men's minds because the U. S. apparently has not understood this new kind of warfare. It does not take much agitation by the communists to get people to believe that the whole idea of American foreign aid is an "imperialistic plot to gain control -- so the Imperialists can exploit the workers."

Once accepting this line, nations are easily drawn into the lie that communism is more sympathetic to the needs of the workers.

It is easy for communists to instill their propaganda in unsuspecting minds when we do not have a program to counter the falsehoods with truth. Our silence shows we haven't learned the rules of fighting the cold war. Communists have been professionals with "the lie," while we have been novices with the truth. When they have twisted the facts, we have remained silent.

In the nations receiving foreign aid, the cry for American dollars is made by many - including the communists. Communist agents, in foreign countries, have been heard to say, "We would like to have your American foreign aid dollars, because this would help to keep us from going communist." This double-standard idea is worthy of consideration. Obviously a communist is not interested in the advance of anything but communism. For what other reason should he want to have foreign aid dollars in the country he is infiltrating?

What good is foreign aid that builds a school to teach students to read when the reading material to be used in the school is filled with Anti - American propaganda? What good is foreign aid that builds a factory when anti-American worker's groups will work there? What good is foreign aid that builds a hospital when it will be staffed with communist nurses who indoctrinate the patients?

The fast recovery of Western Europe through our financial support has helped the free world. But over the years, world - wide opportunities for freedom have been diminishing.

It is time to re-evaluate the foreign aid program. Certainly it does no good to finance economic recovery of communist nations, because the money will be used to benefit communism. Yugoslavia and Poland will not move toward freedom just because American dollars are sent there.

If it is not possible to do away with foreign aid altogether because of long-range commitments, it is possible, while reducing it, to operate the program in terms of winning the cold war and in terms of freedom's cause.

As support for foreign aid has been losing ground, the idea for a Freedom Academy has been gaining support. The Freedom Academy idea proposes an organization to train officials who come in contact with communists. It would train them to counter communist efforts with constructive ideas for freedom.

It would be through this very Freedom Academy that we might realize far greater results with foreign aid. The people representing the United States in foreign countries could be equipped with a greater knowledge of communist tactics, while executing the aid program.

If America's good intentions can be set forth through a constructive information program in these countries, the advance of communism can be halted.

ADVERTISING AND AUTO SALES

These figures do not include the huge amount invested in automotive advertising by local dealers, used car companies and garages. An all inclusive figure would total approximately a billion dollars.

This may appear to be a great deal of money to pour into sales and promotion. But the investment should be judged in terms of results. The advertising helped bring about sales of goods and services of more than 50 billion dollars. It brought record profits to manufacturers and retailers. It helped to keep millions of men employed.

The leading American manufacturers learned long ago that the engineering of a good car did not assure success. Countless fine automobiles have been built by firms which did not meet the competition in advertising effort.

General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler have continued to thrive while remaining the three largest newspaper advertisers in the world. The giant national firms have never lost sight of the fact production is not complete until a sale has been made.

And their continued use of the newspaper, especially in the introduction of the new models, reaffirms their belief in the long standing axiom that "all sales are local, and the basic local medium is the community newspaper."

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Among the biggest contributors to the Republican Party are executives of the Olin-Mathieson Corp., of whom Spencer T. Olin is Republican National Treasurer. In 1962, he contributed $34,600 to the GOP campaign chest while other Olin-Mathieson executives brought the total up to a whopping $100,750.

There is no known connection between this and the excess profits which Olin-Mathieson has charged the Army. Nevertheless the public has a right to know that the general accounting office has just charged that Olin-Mathieson soaked the taxpayers over $1 million in excess profits for blank cartridge powder. Most of this excess charge occured during the Republican administration of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The general accounting office also charges that the Army, during the Eisenhower administration, changed its requirements so that only one company --namely Olin-Mathieson, the big contributors to the Republican Party--could qualify for the contract.

"The chief of ordnance directed that all military small arms should eventually be loaded with ball-type propellant powder which was developed by and is produced only by Olin-Mathieson Chemical Corporation," says the GAP Report. Since there were no other bidders, Olin - Mathieson was awarded a negotiated contract that ran into staggering profits.

Previously, the government had procured similar powder at about 90 cents a pound. Instead, the Army purchased from Olin-Mathieson for $1.72 a pound "without requesting a review of Olin - Mathieson's costs," charged the general accounting office.

"Furthermore, even after excessive prices were disclosed by the Army Audit Agency," says GAO, "Contracting officials did not take timely action to obtain a lower price from Olin-Mathieson.

"Olin-Mathieson earned profits amounting to about 162 per cent of the cost of powder sold to Remington Arms during the period December 1958 to January 1962," charges the GAO. "When the excessive prices were eventually disclosed by an Army Audit Agency review, Olin -Mathieson and the Army negotiated a significantly lower price for future delivery."

--PREVIOUS TROUBLE--

This is not the first time that trouble over a cartridge contract with the Army. During the war, ten members of the U. S. Cartridge Co. in St. Louis, a subsidiary of Olin Industries, were indicted for conspiracy to pass defective ammunition, making false statements, and violating the Sabotage Act. Tried in April 1944, they were found not guilty.

A second indictment against the Olin Firm dragged on for seven years, and in 1950 was dropped by the government. The government brought a civil suit for $214,000 against U. S. Cartridge to recover damages.

When the U. S. attorney in St. Louis, Harry Blanton, tried to get inside the St. Louis Ordnance Plant of the U. S. Cartridge Co. to investigate sabotage charges, the Army officer in charge, Col. C. S. Paulin, would not admit him.

Col. Paulin would not even admit the military intelligence agent of his own war department.

Whereupon the Justice Department telephoned Washington to protest. The War Department replied that the FBI could be admitted to the St. Louis Ordnance Plant-- if someone accompanied the agents around the plant and listened in on their conversation. The Justice Department refused; replied that it could not track down graft with possible grafters listening over the G-men's shoulders.

--HIGH COST OF BEEF--

The high cost of meat to the housewife and the low cost of beef to the farmer will not make headlines as Viet Nam, but tomorrow (April 21) they will be the subject of an important hearing in Fort Worth.

The hearing is the culmination of a nation-wide protest by beef producers last year that low prices were putting them out of business. Rancher after rancher claimed to be going bankrupt. Meanwhile, the price of beef to the housewife has not gone down.

On the contrary, since 1947 the retail price of choice beef cuts has increased about 26 per cent, while the price received by the farmer has decreased almost 14 per cent.

The investigation in Fort Worth will attempt to find who's making money out of the price spread. The probe will be conducted by the National Commission on Food Marketing named by President Johnson and including five senators, five members of the House, and five representatives of the public, chaired by former California Chief Justice Phil Gibson.

Preliminary surveys have already ascertained that some of the big chains have made record profits, such as the Winn-Dixie chain in the south, which rolled up a 24 per cent profit on investment last year after taxes. Other chains have been much more modest.

Remarked Douglas T. Simpson, a Utah rancher and head of the Utah Farmers Union: "Meat producers would be no worse off if the entire country was hit by a serious depression. Then everyone would be in the same boat. As it is now, the producer is suffering while the rest of the economy is enjoying great prosperity."

Recently published reports have stated that the North Vietnamese had prepared sites for SAM anti-aircraft missiles. However, Drew Pearson has further and more important information that the SAM missiles have actually arrived. We are therefore sending you the following immediate release.

--RUSSIAN MISSILES BEING UNLOADED--

The most important development in the Vietnamese War has just been reported to Washington--the arrival of huge crates on the docks of Haiphong believed to contain Russian SAM missiles.

Photos have been taken from American reconnaissance planes of Russian ships unloading these crates. While there is no way to ascertain definitely what is in the crates, it's believed almost certain they are the same type of anti-aircraft missiles used in Cuba and also used to shoot down the famous U-2 spy plane over Russia.

If so, it may lead to the confrontation between the United States and Russia of which I warned in my earlier dispatches from Moscow.

Arrival of the crates has touched off a significant debate inside the Pentagon. Air Force generals have urged that the Haiphong docks be bombed immediately, before the SAM guns can be unloaded and put in position.

Other advisers point out that bombing the docks would almost certainly mean hitting Russian ships alongside, and that this could be construed as an act of war.

We have known that the Russians, though promising, and now delivering anti-aircraft missiles, were not happy about the Viet Nam imbroglio and the embarrassing spot on which they were put as between an ally, North Viet Nam, and a country with which they hoped for continuing good relations, the United States.

Therefore anti-warhawk U. S. advisers have urged no bombing of Russian ships. They have also pointed out that the missile sites were located only around Hanio, the capital, therefore would be no menace to U. S. planes, since we are not bombing near Hanoi.

In the past, the United States has regarded SAM missiles as purely defensive, therefore we have not protested their continued location in Cuba. They can shoot to an altitude of 100,000 feet, therefore are able to knock down any high-flying plane over a country, but cannot fire at an enemy outside that country.

Allied ambassadors in Washington, very friendly to the United States but concerned over the danger of a major war spreading from Viet Nam, have pointed out that bombing North Viet Nam was almost certain to bring some kind of Russian or Chinese defensive retaliation.

Cards Lose Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kansas City's Athletics looked like champions Monday night and the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals looked like anything but champions.

Kansas City - helped by a Jim Gentile home run and eight-hit pitching by Diego Seguibopped the American League champion New York Yankees at Kansas City 8-2.

The Chicago Cubs handed the Cardinals their fifth loss in six National League games this season as they stopped St. Louis 7-3.

Both the Athletics and the Cardinals are idle today.

Chicago's Doug Clemens singled and homered to drive in three runs and Ernie Banks hit a two-run homer as the Cubs romped over the Cardinals. It was the third time this year Chicago had stopped St. Louis. The Redbirds lost twice to the Cubs in a season opening series at Chicago.

Ray Sadecki, a 20-game winner last year for St. Louis, was chased in a four-run outburst in the first inning. Sadecki faced seven men and only got one out before he was relieved by Ron Taylor.

St. Louis scored twice in the fifth inning with the help of a two-base error and two singles. The third run came in the eighth when the Cards scored with the help of a man hit by a pitched ball and two more singles.

Bert Campaneris led off with a bunt single for Kansas City that ignited a four-run first inning for the Athletics and the Yankees never recovered. Gentile singled and Ed Charles doubled for two of the runs. Then Tom Reynolds tripled and scored on a ground out.

Gentile got his homer in the third inning. It was his third of the year.

Boston Marathon Has Made In Japan Label

BOSTON AP -- Morio Shigematsu led a promised blitz of the Boston A. A. marathon Monday and stamped the 1965 edition "Made in Japan."

The delegation from Nippon predicted it would capture the first five places. Two-time defending champion Aurele Vandendriessche of Blegium said "They can always dream."

When it was over, Vandendriessche was the lone obstacle between the Japanese and realization of their goal.

Shigematsu, 25-year-old senior business major at Fukuoka University, sprinted the final two miles for a 2:16:33 clocking. Hideaki Shishido and Takayuki Nakao completed a 1-2-3 sweep in 2:17:13 and 2:17:31, respectively.

Foiled by Japanese strategy and a blistered right heel in his attempt to make it three straight, Vandendriessche was fourth in 2:17:44, still faster than the course mark of 2:18:58 he set two years ago.

Japan's Hoshikazu Funasako and Kazuo Matsubara were fifth and sixth.

Escorted by four, then three, then two Japanese most of the way when the field began to thin out, Vandendriessche was left far astern by Shigematsu's dashman takeoff two miles from the end. Vandy was second at that point but lost ground in the remaining distance.

"Everything went right for me," said Shigematsu. "The weather, the road - everything was very good.

"I worried about Vandendriessche up to 20 miles," he said through an interpreter. "I was very confident after that."

It was Shigematsu's first victory in 12 marathons. The Japanese had not been represented in the Boston event in the past seven years, but had three winners in the 1951-55 period.

Koufax Arm Feels Good Today

Koufax's cherished elbow, which hurled nine victorious innings against the Philadelphia Phillies Sunday and was still slim and limber Monday, is nonetheless arthritic and could flare up again, warns Koufax.

Koufax, who threw a touch wild against the Phils, said Monday, "I'm very happy about the condition of my arm," after the precarious joint weathered the workout with no swelling.

But pleasure at the elbow's condition was tempered by Koufax's additional statement that; "I'm not looking for any trouble and I don't expect any. But I have still got arthritis. There's no telling when it will blow up next."

"No matter what I think of it, it's not going to help. It felt good yesterday, it feels good today. Tomorrow, who knows?"

Lakers Hope For Comeback Win

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON AP -- Los Angeles Coach Fred Schaus took stock of the Lakers' plight and pronounced the Boston Celtics "the greatest basketball team ever assembled anywhere."

While predicting his club will bounce back, Schaus minced no words about the Celtics, who are already 2-0 on the path to an expected seventh straight National Basketball Association playoff championship. Boston won 129-123 Monday night in the best-of-7 series which now moves to Los Angeles for games Wednesday and Friday.

"The Celtics are great because their defense is great and defense is the name of this game," said Schaus. "In K. C. Jones, Bill Russell and Tom Sanders, the Celtics have got the greatest defensive men in those positions in the history of the game."

Center Russell and forward Sanders did a little more than play defense Monday night, however. Each scored 23 points. Johnny Havlicek had 24, Tommy Heinsohn 22 and Sam Jones 20.

Russell had 25 rebounds, led both teams with 10 assists and missed only one of 11 field goal tries.

"Russell played his usual great game," said Laker Jerry West, who hit a game high 45 points. "You just don't get those tap-ins with Russell in there. Too many teams make the mistake of trying to drive through the middle on Boston and Russell's always there."

"I feel a little better but I'll never feel good until it's over," said Boston Coach Red Auerbach. "Heinsohn had one of his really good games. And Russell was his usual good self. Sam was a little off and K. C. wasn't shooting like he was Sunday.

Payne Hurls One-Hitter For Lilbourn's Panthers

Gideon and New Madrid played baseball yesterday, at the home of the Panthers. Both teams still look rough. The coaches for both teams feel they have real fine ball clubs but, lack of practice has hindered both schools.

Jerry Payne proved to be the big man of the day. Payne, a Senior pitched 6 innings, allowing only one hit, no runs and fanning 12 New Madrid sticksmen. Payne had previously pitched a perfect game, now he has a one hitter to go with it and this is only Lilbourn's third game of the season. Lilbourn and New Madrid will continue their battle at Gideon, Thursday in the sub-district meet.

Sports TALK
By DON SAVAGE

We have discussed the sub-district at Richland, but what happens to the team that wins there. The winner of the Richland sub-district and the winner of the Gideon sub-district will meet in the Oran district tourney.

Gideon has a fine field of teams, for their tournament this season. Wardell and Hayti will play Wednesday at 1:15, Ross and Gideon will meet in the second game at 3:30. Lilbourn and New Madrid, two New Madrid County rivals, will meet Thursday at 1:15. Clarkton and Campbell are slated to play in the nightcap.

We will have to take Lilbourn's Panthers as the favorite to take that meet. The Panthers are fairly sound defensively, but lack much punch. The Panthers strength lies in a tall skinny, high school senior, who makes baseballs look like they were fired from a cannon. His name is Jerry Payne. He's been around. He pitched for Sikeston's Connie Mack team last season. Payne just seems like a real fine competitor, so we will pick Lilbourn to win at Gideon, by a right arm.

When Carl T. Rowan, director of the United States Information Agency, was ambassador to Finland, Finnish newsmen who participated in a bull session with him were flabbergasted at his willingness to tell stories at his own expense about his experiences as a Negro in the United States. One that caused special astonishment was an account of mowing the lawn of the house he lived in while he was with the State Department in Washington. A white man driving a big car pulled up to hail him as "boy" and ask how much he charged. His only pay for mowing the lawn, Rowan replied, was that "the lady of the house lets me live with her."

GRACE FOR AN ANNIVERSARY

Lord, tonight with wine and roses and candlelight
We break bread, and tell off the roll of the four seasons;
A winter and a spring have gone;
A summer and autumn have passed;
Tonight it is winter again but spring will come.

With wine we give our thanks for the months and weeks
With roses we pray our thanks for the days and hours,

U.S. All-Stars Down Russians, 67 to 61

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The deft touch of UCLA All-America Gail Goodrich and the smooth floor play of his teammates gave the U.S. All-Stars a 67-61 basketball victory over the Russian National team Monday night.

Both teams opened slowly before a crowd of 6,000. After nine minutes of play the score was tied at 16-16, with the Americans controlling the backboards but missing most of their shots.

Goodrich then came off the bench and popped in four jump shots within two minutes. He scored 13 points before the half and led the Americans at the final buzzer with 21.

Eight of the Russians played on the Olympic squad that finished second to the Americans in Tokyo.

The game was the first in an eight-game national tour by the two teams.

Once, when the brothers were in a strange town, Auguste went to a barber for a shave. "Make sure you give me a close shave. My beard grows so rapidly that two hours after I have had a shave, I need another."

"Two hours!" scoffed the barber. "If your beard grows back in two hours, I'll give you another shave free."

"You mean that?" said Auguste.

"Of course."

Two hours later, Jean Felix, his face dark with stubble, entered the shop and demanded a free shave. "Now do you believe me?" he asked the barber.

Cards Lose Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kansas City's Athletics looked like champions Monday night and the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals looked like anything but champions.

Kansas City - helped by a Jim Gentile home run and eight-hit pitching by Diego Seguibopped the American League champion New York Yankees at Kansas City 8-2.

The Chicago Cubs handed the Cardinals their fifth loss in six National League games this season as they stopped St. Louis 7-3.

Both the Athletics and the Cardinals are idle today.

Chicago's Doug Clemens singled and homered to drive in three runs and Ernie Banks hit a two-run homer as the Cubs romped over the Cardinals. It was the third time this year Chicago had stopped St. Louis. The Redbirds lost twice to the Cubs in a season opening series at Chicago.

Ray Sadecki, a 20-game winner last year for St. Louis, was chased in a four-run outburst in the first inning. Sadecki faced seven men and only got one out before he was relieved by Ron Taylor.

St. Louis scored twice in the fifth inning with the help of a two-base error and two singles. The third run came in the eighth when the Cards scored with the help of a man hit by a pitched ball and two more singles.

Bert Campaneris led off with a bunt single for Kansas City that ignited a four-run first inning for the Athletics and the Yankees never recovered. Gentile singled and Ed Charles doubled for two of the runs. Then Tom Reynolds tripled and scored on a ground out.

Gentile got his homer in the third inning. It was his third of the year.

Girls Softball

There is an effort being made to Organize a Young Womans Athletic Club and Soft-Ball Team by Several Young Ladies of the Blodgett Missouri Area. The Membership will not be confined to The Blodgett Area and members are solicited from Sikeston, Charleston, Morley and other surrounding towns and areas:

There are several of the Girls that were former members of the Sikeston "CHICKS" Girls Club. Many of the Young Ladies think that more exercise is needed by young ladies: The Age Limit was a matter of discussion, and it is thought that the age bracket should start at 15 years to as long as you can run, hit, and throw the ball: Miss Mavis Riley a former member of Sikeston "CHICKS," can be contacted after 4:00 P.M. at GR 1-2990 at Blodgett, Missouri.

The first practice is planned for Sunday afternoon after 2:00 p.m. at the Blodgett School Grounds. Come out and bring a glove and have some fun.

Boston Marathon Has Made In Japan Label

BOSTON AP -- Morio Shigematsu led a promised blitz of the Boston A. A. marathon Monday and stamped the 1965 edition "Made in Japan."

The delegation from Nippon predicted it would capture the first five places. Two-time defending champion Aurele Vandendriessche of Blegium said "They can always dream."

When it was over, Vandendriessche was the lone obstacle between the Japanese and realization of their goal.

Shigematsu, 25-year-old senior business major at Fukuoka University, sprinted the final two miles for a 2:16:33 clocking. Hideaki Shishido and Takayuki Nakao completed a 1-2-3 sweep in 2:17:13 and 2:17:31, respectively.

Foiled by Japanese strategy and a blistered right heel in his attempt to make it three straight, Vandendriessche was fourth in 2:17:44, still faster than the course mark of 2:18:58 he set two years ago.

Japan's Hoshikazu Funasako and Kazuo Matsubara were fifth and sixth.

Escorted by four, then three, then two Japanese most of the way when the field began to thin out, Vandendriessche was left far astern by Shigematsu's dashman takeoff two miles from the end. Vandy was second at that point but lost ground in the remaining distance.

"Everything went right for me," said Shigematsu. "The weather, the road - everything was very good.

"I worried about Vandendriessche up to 20 miles," he said through an interpreter. "I was very confident after that."

It was Shigematsu's first victory in 12 marathons. The Japanese had not been represented in the Boston event in the past seven years, but had three winners in the 1951-55 period.

Koufax Arm Feels Good Today

Koufax's cherished elbow, which hurled nine victorious innings against the Philadelphia Phillies Sunday and was still slim and limber Monday, is nonetheless arthritic and could flare up again, warns Koufax.

Koufax, who threw a touch wild against the Phils, said Monday, "I'm very happy about the condition of my arm," after the precarious joint weathered the workout with no swelling.

But pleasure at the elbow's condition was tempered by Koufax's additional statement that: "I'm not looking for any trouble and I don't expect any. But I have still got arthritis. There's no telling when it will blow up next."

"No matter what I think of it, it's not going to help. It felt good yesterday, it feels good today. Tomorrow, who knows?"

Lakers Hope For Comeback Win

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON AP -- Los Angeles Coach Fred Schaus took stock of the Lakers' plight and pronounced the Boston Celtics "the greatest basketball team ever assembled anywhere."

While predicting his club will bounce back, Schaus minced no words about the Celtics, who are already 2-0 on the path to an expected seventh straight National Basketball Association playoff championship. Boston won 129-123 Monday night in the best-of-7 series which now moves to Los Angeles for games Wednesday and Friday.

"The Celtics are great because their defense is great and defense is the name of this game," said Schaus. "In K. C. Jones, Bill Russell and Tom Sanders, the Celtics have got the greatest defensive men in those positions in the history of the game."

Center Russell and forward Sanders did a little more than play defense Monday night, however. Each scored 23 points. Johnny Havlicek had 24, Tommy Heinsohn 22 and Sam Jones 20.

Russell had 25 rebounds, led both teams with 10 assists and missed only one of 11 field goal tries.

"Russell played his usual great game," said Laker Jerry West, who hit a game high 45 points. "You just don't get those tap-ins with Russell in there. Too many teams make the mistake of trying to drive through the middle on Boston and Russell's always there."

"I feel a little better but I'll never feel good until it's over," said Boston Coach Red Auerbach. "Heinsohn had one of his really good games. And Russell was his usual good self. Sam was a little off and K. C. wasn't shooting like he was Sunday.

Payne Hurls One-Hitter For Lilbourn's Panthers

Gideon and New Madrid played baseball yesterday, at the home of the Panthers. Both teams still look rough. The coaches for both teams feel they have real fine ball clubs but, lack of practice has hindered both schools.

Jerry Payne proved to be the big man of the day. Payne, a Senior pitched 6 innings, allowing only one hit, no runs and fanning 12 New Madrid sticksmen. Payne had previously pitched a perfect game, now he has a one hitter to go with it and this is only Lilbourn's third game of the season. Lilbourn and New Madrid will continue their battle at Gideon, Thursday in the sub-district meet.

Sports TALK
By DON SAVAGE

We have discussed the sub-district at Richland, but what happens to the team that wins there. The winner of the Richland sub-district and the winner of the Gideon sub-district will meet in the Oran district tourney.

Gideon has a fine field of teams, for their tournament this season. Wardell and Hayti will play Wednesday at 1:15, Ross and Gideon will meet in the second game at 3:30. Lilbourn and New Madrid, two New Madrid County rivals, will meet Thursday at 1:15. Clarkton and Campbell are slated to play in the nightcap.

We will have to take Lilbourn's Panthers as the favorite to take that meet. The Panthers are fairly sound defensively, but lack much punch. The Panthers strength lies in a tall skinny, high school senior, who makes baseballs look like they were fired from a cannon. His name is Jerry Payne. He's been around. He pitched for Sikeston's Connie Mack team last season. Payne just seems like a real fine competitor, so we will pick Lilbourn to win at Gideon, by a right arm.

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITOL

REP. MEL CARNAHAN SUCCEEDS PATTERSON

Rep. Melvin E. Carnahan, who is serving his second term in the Missouri House of Representatives, has been named by House Democrats to succeed the late H. F. (Pat) Patterson of Columbia, as Majority Floor Leader.

Patterson, 43, died unexpectedly in a House office after suffering a heart attack a few weeks ago.

The new Majority Floor Leader, is securing the second most powerful position in the House, moved up from being Patterson's assistant. Although he has just turned 31, Carnahan appears to have a bright future in politics.

There was some contention for the Majority Leader's post and several even went so far as to suggest leaving it vacant as a memorial to Patterson. However, Carnahan was the pick of House Speaker Thomas Graham, whose wishes generally receive considerable attention.

Contending with Carnahan were Rep. Tom Baker of Stoddard County, who later issued a verbal blast at what he termed Graham's dictatorial policies; and Reps. Richard Southern of Monroe County and Earl Bollinger of Madison County.

There was some feeling discussed that the person selected to follow Patterson should be one who had actively supported Warren Hearnes in his bid for governor.

Southern, although younger than Carnahan, is serving his third term in the House as is Baker. Bollinger is in his fourth term.

In the gubernatorial contest between the then Lieutenant Governor Hilary Bush and Secretary of State Warren E. Hearnes, which was one of the most highly contested primaries in recent years, Carnahan remained more or less neutral.

Carnahan is married and the father of three children. In 1961 he was elected Police Judge at Rolla and the following year sent to the House from Phelps County. He is a lawyer by training, with degrees from George Washington University in Washington, D. C., and the University of Missouri.

During the 1963 session of the legislature, Carnahan served on the following committees: Education, Federal - State Relations, High Education, Judiciary and Motor Vehicle and Traffic Regulations.

BLUE BOOK SUPPLY ALMOST EXHAUSTED

Secretary of State James C. (Jimmy) Kirkpatrick reports that the supply of Blue Books is nearly exhausted with fewer than 275 of the original publication of 40,000 remaining for distribution.

The present Blue Book (really the Official Manual of the State of Missouri) was published while Governor Hearnes was Secretary of State., Distribution of the highly sought journal began less than a year ago, with the supply rapidly dwindling.

By law, each member of the Missouri Senate receives 200 copies of the Blue Book while members of the House of Representatives each receives 100. This accounts for over half the distribution. In addition, all counties received a certain number.

The remainder is placed up for grabs (free) and generally the grabbing is pretty fast and furious.

In an effort to solve the dilemma, the Secretary of State's office is backing proposals to allow publication of a 200-page condensed version of the Blue Book which now contains over 1,500 pages.

The condensed version being proposed would contain the most important information about state government and would be for use by schools, libraries and other interested institutions along with private citizens.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT ACTIVE WITH BILLS

Of the 1,200 or so bills and resolutions introduced in the Missouri General Assembly this time before the bill deadline, some 211 or about 15 per cent have something to do with Missouri's Highway Department, one of the largest state agencies going.

Although many of the bills are minor in nature and the department's interest in them is equally minor in nature, there are numerous measures the department is keeping a close eye on.

Among the latter is a bill which would exempt political subdivisions from having to pay the state gas tax.

This bill has caused a great deal of concern to the Highway Department where officials estimate that if the measure is approved, it would cost the state in the neighborhood of $1,500,000 annually in lost gas tax revenue.

A bill of lesser importance is one that would require vehicles hauling sand and gravel to use a cover. However, the fate of this bill is in doubt and it appears now that it has little chance for passage this session.

The State Reorganization Commission of Missouri

RECORDS MANAGEMENT

81. Recommendation:

That a records management center be established within the proposed Administrative Services Section. That such a central records center maintain equipment capable of handling large volumes of data stored on magnetic film slabs; random access to files should be governed by a central processing unit capable of handling simultaneous inquiries within nanoseconds.

The 1955 State Reorganization Commission report contained a study of state practices in records management by Leahy and Company. The 1965 Commission has found the recommendations emanating from that study still valid. There have been no statutory changes since 1955 to put the recommendations into effect. In addition to specific recommendations concerning the Department of Revenue, the Leahy Report emphasized the need for a state records center. The need for a state records center is even more urgent now than ten years ago; however, technological developments within these past ten years now make feasible the storage of large quantities of data by means of magnetic film files.

Automatic, electronic equipment now makes possible the storage and random retrieval of records within quantity and speed parameters heretofore regarded as fantasy. Equipment is now available for a centralized, unified electronic data storage center with a random access, on-line capacity of one million to twenty billion characters.

Until recently the state's need for a central records storage facility was described by the activities of the Driver's License, Motor Vehicle, and Income Tax Units within the Department of Revenue, along with relatively minor needs for records storage by other agencies. A new statute, the uniform commercial code, directs the Secretary of State to maintain a records storage facility with capabilities that could dwarf previous requirements. Section 400.9-401, RSMo 1963 Supp., directs the filing and release of all documents representing security interest in all property except farm equipment, farm crops, and consumer goods (see Sec. 400.9-302, RSMo 1963 Supp.). The filing and release is the responsibility of the Secretary of State. Various sections of the uniform commercial code imply daily updating of files maintained according to personal identification. Brief reflection on the volume of chattel mortgages issued in Missouri precludes the installation of any records storage system except one with random access to expandable, magnetic film, slab files. These files should be controlled by a central processing unit capable of handling simultaneous inquiries in nanoseconds.

The provisions of the uniform commercial code are effective July 1, 1965. A large records storage center should be provided by that time. Since this records storage center will be capable of handling large volumes of data from the enforcement of the uniform commercial code, serious consideration should be given to including the storage and handling of records from the Department of Revenue.

82. Recommendation:

That the proposed Administrative Services Section be authorized to require all agencies to submit to it copies of all forms, blanks, or questionnaires used by state agencies in order that the unit may recommend the consolidation, standardization or elimination of as many such forms or questionnaires as possible; and that no agency prepare new forms or questionnaires without submitting them to the Administrative Services Section for approval.

This recommendation of the 1965 Commission may have been over-looked, because the Administrative Services Section--the agency responsible for forms control--has not been created.

A cursory survey of forms and reports used by various state agencies revealed a considerable duplication of effort in collecting information. A great deal of this information becomes redundant, since several offices commonly retain the same information. Information handling is becoming more efficient with modern machines; however, that efficiency can easily be lost by information redundancy. It is important to coordinate Missouri's record management through forms control.

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITOL

REP. MEL CARNAHAN SUCCEEDS PATTERSON

Rep. Melvin E. Carnahan, who is serving his second term in the Missouri House of Representatives, has been named by House Democrats to succeed the late H. F. (Pat) Patterson of Columbia, as Majority Floor Leader.

Patterson, 43, died unexpectedly in a House office after suffering a heart attack a few weeks ago.

The new Majority Floor Leader, is securing the second most powerful position in the House, moved up from being Patterson's assistant. Although he has just turned 31, Carnahan appears to have a bright future in politics.

There was some contention for the Majority Leader's post and several even went so far as to suggest leaving it vacant as a memorial to Patterson. However, Carnahan was the pick of House Speaker Thomas Graham, whose wishes generally receive considerable attention.

Contending with Carnahan were Rep. Tom Baker of Stoddard County, who later issued a verbal blast at what he termed Graham's dictatorial policies; and Reps. Richard Southern of Monroe County and Earl Bollinger of Madison County.

There was some feeling discussed that the person selected to follow Patterson should be one who had actively supported Warren Hearnes in his bid for governor.

Southern, although younger than Carnahan, is serving his third term in the House as is Baker. Bollinger is in his fourth term.

In the gubernatorial contest between the then Lieutenant Governor Hilary Bush and Secretary of State Warren E. Hearnes, which was one of the most highly contested primaries in recent years, Carnahan remained more or less neutral.

Carnahan is married and the father of three children. In 1961 he was elected Police Judge at Rolla and the following year sent to the House from Phelps County. He is a lawyer by training, with degrees from George Washington University in Washington, D. C., and the University of Missouri.

During the 1963 session of the legislature, Carnahan served on the following committees: Education, Federal - State Relations, High Education, Judiciary and Motor Vehicle and Traffic Regulations.

BLUE BOOK SUPPLY ALMOST EXHAUSTED

Secretary of State James C. (Jimmy) Kirkpatrick reports that the supply of Blue Books is nearly exhausted with fewer than 275 of the original publication of 40,000 remaining for distribution.

The present Blue Book (really the Official Manual of the State of Missouri) was published while Governor Hearnes was Secretary of State. Distribution of the highly sought journal began less than a year ago, with the supply rapidly dwindling.

By law, each member of the Missouri Senate receives 200 copies of the Blue Book while members of the House of Representatives each receives 100. This accounts for over half the distribution. In addition, all counties received a certain number.

The remainder is placed up for grabs (free) and generally the grabbing is pretty fast and furious.

In an effort to solve the delimma, the Secretary of State's office is backing proposals to allow publication of a 200-page condensed version of the Blue Book which now contains over 1,500 pages.

The condensed version being proposed would contain the most important information about state government and would be for use by schools, libraries and other interested institutions along with private citizens.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT ACTIVE WITH BILLS

Of the 1,200 or so bills and resolutions introduced in the Missouri General Assembly this time before the bill deadline, some 211 or about 15 per cent have something to do with Missouri's Highway Department, one of the largest state agencies going.

Although many of the bills are minor in nature and the department's interest in them is equally minor in nature, there are numerous measures the department is keeping a close eye on.

Among the latter is a bill which would exempt political subdivisions from having to pay the state gas tax.

This bill has caused a great deal of concern to the Highway Department where officials estimate that if the measure is approved, it would cost the state in the neighborhood of $1,500,000 annually in lost gas tax revenue.

A bill of lesser importance is one that would require vehicles hauling sand and gravel to use a cover. However, the fate of this bill is in doubt and it appears now that it has little chance for passage this session.

The State Reorganization Commission of Missouri

RECORDS MANAGEMENT

81. Recommendation:

That a records management center be established within the proposed Administrative Services Section. That such a central records center maintain equipment capable of handling large volumes of data stored on magnetic film slabs; random access to files should be governed by a central processing unit capable of handling simultaneous inquiries within nanoseconds.

The 1955 State Reorganization Commission report contained a study of state practices in records management by Leahy and Company. The 1965 Commission has found the recommendations emanating from that study still valid. There have been no statutory changes since 1955 to put the recommendations into effect. In addition to specific recommendations concerning the Department of Revenue, the Leahy Report emphasized the need for a state records center. The need for a state records center is even more urgent now than ten years ago; however, technological developments within these past ten years now make feasible the storage of large quantities of data by means of magnetic film files.

Automatic, electronic equipment now makes possible the storage and random retrieval of records within quantity and speed parameters heretofore regarded as fantasy. Equipment is now available for a centralized, unified electronic data storage center with a random access, on-line capacity of one million to twenty billion characters.

Until recently the state's need for a central records storage facility was described by the activities of the Driver's License, Motor Vehicle, and Income Tax Units within the Department of Revenue, along with relatively minor needs for records storage by other agencies. A new statute, the uniform commercial code, directs the Secretary of State to maintain a records storage facility with capabilities that could dwarf previous requirements. Section 400.9-401, RSMo 1963 Supp., directs the filing and release of all documents representing security interest in all property except farm equipment, farm crops, and consumer goods (see Sec. 400.9-302, RSMo 1963 Supp.). The filing and release is the responsibility of the Secretary of State. Various sections of the uniform commercial code imply daily updating of files maintained according to personal identification. Brief reflection on the volume of chattel mortgages issued in Missouri precludes the installation of any records storage system except one with random access to expandable, magnetic film, slab files. These files should be controlled by a central processing unit capable of handling simultaneous inquiries in nanoseconds.

The provisions of the uniform commercial code are effective July 1, 1965. A large records storage center should be provided by that time. Since this records storage center will be capable of handling large volumes of data from the enforcement of the uniform commercial code, serious consideration should be given to including the storage and handling of records from the Department of Revenue.

82. Recommendation:

That the proposed Administrative Services Section be authorized to require all agencies to submit to it copies of all forms, blanks, or questionnaires used by state agencies in order that the unit may recommend the consolidation, standardization or elimination of as many such forms or questionnaires as possible; and that no agency prepare new forms or questionnaires without submitting them to the Administrative Services Section for approval.

This recommendation of the 1955 Commission may have been over-looked, because the Administrative Services Section--the agency responsible for forms control--has not been created.

A cursory survey of forms and reports used by various state agencies revealed a considerable duplication of effort in collecting information. A great deal of this information becomes redundant, since several offices commonly retain the same information. Information handling is becoming more efficient with modern machines; however, that efficiency can easily be lost by information redundancy. It is important to coordinate Missouri's record management through forms control.

Mass Confusion Next Sunday

NEW YORK AP -- The United States is about to enter into an annual period of confusion.

Daylight saving time DST will soon be here for much of the country.

This yearly clock juggling will affect business, transportation an ordinary citizens.

Next Sunday 100 million Americans in 20 states will advance clocks one hour and thus get out of step with the other 85 million Americans. These other 85 million will either shift to DST on different dates or will remain on standard time.

Thus, the country will become a patchwork of time.

Benjamin Franklin is credited, or blamed for DST. It's said that, when ambassador to France, he awoke one morning and found sunlight streaming through his window while the city slept.

This "wasted" sunlight annoyed the frugal author of Poor-Richard's Almanac and he soon evolved a plan to conserve this daylight by advancing the clock one hour.

DST achieved its first wide observance in World War I when it was adopted throughout the country to give farmers more time to work in their fields.

Except for during the two world wars, observance of DST has been optional. As a result, the country is spotted with areas of observance and non-observance. This is what has created the confusion.

For example, in 1964, 15 states started DST the last Sunday in April and ended it the last Sunday in October. Another 16 states either started or ended DTS -- or both -- on different dates. The remaining states didn't observe DST at all.

Now there's a move on foot to get some unformity into the picture.

Next Monday Congress is due to begin action on legislation that would eliminate the snarls now involved in observing DST.

The Senate Commerce Committee will hold a hearing on a bill proposed by the Committee on Time Uniformity, which was formed by the Transportation Association of America.

The bill would fix the last Sunday of April and the last Sunday of October as the mandatory starting and ending dates for DST in states and communities utilizing it. The measure would have nothing to do with whether DST was observed in any particular area.

AVERAGE DATES OF LAST FROST—Planting flower seeds too early can be futile, warns the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Most seeds will not germinate well until the soil warms to about 60 degrees. If sowed in cooler soil, they will remain dormant until the soil warms and may rot before they germinate. Chart shows the average of the dates for the last killing frost in spring in a period from 1899 to 1938. Data compiled by U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Tax Agent Describes Being Fronted With Gun

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. AP -- An Internal Revenue agent described in federal court Monday how it felt being held at gunpoint by an irate taxpayer for nearly two hours last Dec. 7.

"I was scared to death," Agent Floyd Culbertson recalled.

The taxpayer, Denton Cantrell a 54-year-old Niangua, Mo., farmer, is being tried before Judge John W. Oliver and a jury on a charge of assaulting Culbertson.

Culbertson had gone to Cantrell's farm in the Ozarks to discuss a $2,763 tax payment Cantrell had made by check. The check, however, had been lost in the St. Louis office, and Culbertson was sent out for another.

First, Culbertson testified, Cantrell invited him in the house then drew a 30-30 deer rifle and shouted:

"You ain't getting another check, and you ain't goin' back to town. I got you down here now, and I'm boss down here."

Culbertson testified that Cantrell also threatened to hang him to a tree.

"I decided I'd better try to get him in a good humor so I could get out of there so I started talking to him about his farm and dogs - things like that-but my mouth was so dry I could hardly talk," the agent, father of two children, said.

"Finally he seemed to calm down a little. He sat facing me with the rifle on his lap pointed at me. He said he knew I'd be down there and he was waiting for me." Culbertson continued:

"I decided I wasn't getting along so well talking to him when he said he was going to take me outside and shoot me. He said he'd do it right there in the living room if it wasn't for messing up the place and making extra work for his wife."

"I was getting so desperate I told him if the tax was that important to him I'd pay it myself if he would let me go. I told him I'd go back to town, pay the tax and quit my job. I just wanted to get out of there."

Culbertson said Cantrell then stood up and indicated he could leave.

1965 Plant-To-Prosper News

Mid-South farm families have an opportunity to share in more than $5,000 in cash prizes by enrolling in The Commercial Appeal's 1965 Plant to Posper Contest.

The 32-yer-old contest, conceived by this newspaper and co-sponsored by the Memphis Area Chamber of Commerce, preaches agricultural prosperity through efficient farm and home management.

Co-operating in the program are the Agricultural Extension Service and Farmers Home Administration of Arkansas, Mississippi, Missouri and Tennessee.

All farm families, regardless of size of operation, are eligible to compete for state and sweepstakes awards in any of three divisions:

FARM OPERATOR —For all landowners who farm their own land and who might also rent additional acreage and for those who rent all or most of their acreage and who have a full-time hired hand.

FARM FAMILY — For all landowners, renters, tenants and sharecroppers who do not employ a full-time hired hand.

PART-TIME FARMER—This division is open to those families who own, rent, are tenants or sharecroppers where the head of the house works full time at a non-farm job and the farm is worked with the aid of his family and in his spare time.

Home improvements will be judged in all divisions as part of the requirements of that division.

A County Judging Committee will choose county winners. State judges will select state winners in each division in October or early November.

State awards will be presented and sweepstakes winners announced during rallies in Memphis in late November and early December.

State prizes in the Farm Operator and Farm Family divisions are $100, first place; $75, second place, and $50, third place. A $50 award will go to the single part-time farm winner in each of the four states.

Prizes for sweepstakes winners, chosen from among divisional winners of the four states, are $500 to the top Farm Operator, $500 to the best Farm Family and $200 to the best Part-Time Farmer.

Farmers may enroll by contacting their county extension agent, Farmers Home Administration supervisor, or by writing the Plant to Prosper Bureau of The Commercial Appeal.

To Get Away From It All He Builds His Own Brand

Not so with Al Weiland of Iola.

Weiland builds championship racing cars. He operates his own garage in back of his house and always has more work scheduled on customers' cars than he has time to do in normal working hours.

But after hours, in his spare time, he unwinds from the troubles of fixing up other peoples' cars by creating his own kind.

He has built seven racing cars in the past 14 years, the seventh just starting its new season in the super-modified races at Tulsa, Okla., where it already has chalked up victories.

Weiland's cars, all hand-built in his garage, have won championships at Tulsa, Joplin, Mo., Iola, Chanute, Fort Scott, Pittsburg, and Belleville, Kan., among others, and his car last year was high-point vehicle at Lakeside in Kansas City.

His driver this year is Ronnie Fowler of Chanute who will be driving Weiland's No. 37 (its official number) in the Tulsa super - modified class races every Saturday night during the season.

Weiland built his first racing car in 1951 as a stock car racer. He has since moved up into the modified classes that burn alcohol instead of gasoline and are equipped as regular racing cars.

His latest creation has the body of a 1932 Chevrolet coupe, but that's where the resemblance to the original ends. The car is powered by a de-stroked 327 - cubic inch Chevrolet engine, has wide, race-type rear tires, a quick-change rear end, special shock absorbers, and airplane type bucket seat.

In his 14 years of racing, Weiland has had his share of heartbreaks. Several of his cars have ended on the scrap heap after being demolished in track wrecks.

Networks Plan Live Shows From Europe Soon

NEW YORK AP -- The major television networks are excited because after May 2 they can bring in live telecasts from Europe via the Early Bird Satellite launched earlier this month.

ABC, CBS, and NBC plan live news shows May 3, the first day the satellite is available.

NBC's "Today Show" will scatter its regulars around in London, Paris, Rome and Washington for two-way discussions, and that night, Chet Huntley will broadcast his contribution to the evening news from London.

CBS will broadcast in the early afternoon a "Town Meeting of the World" show with Secretary of State Dean Rusk in London, Barry Goldwater in New York and British and French leaders in their capitals. It will be taped for rebroadcast in the regular "CBS Reports" hour late that evening.

During the first eight weeks -- an experimental period - the commercial satellite will be available to the networks only for periods on Mondays.

For the fourth consecutive period - totaling almost two months - NBC has emerged as the leader in the national Nielsen ratings. The most recent, covering the two weeks ending April 4, gives NBC a 20.8 rating, followed by CBS with 19.6 and ABC with 18.9.

There is little change in the programs which Nielsen finds are the 10 most popular. They are, in order, Bonanza, Gomer Pyle, Bewitched, the Fugitive, the Dick Van Dyke Show, the Andy Griffith Show, Gilligan's Island and Red Skelton tied, the Walt Disney hour and the Beverly Hillbillies.

Recommended tonight: "Our Man in Washington," NBC, 10-11 EST - David Brinkley narrates a second show about the nation's capital in a news special.

Seat Built Out Of Horseshoes ???

Sophisticates might call it pop art sculpture, the sort of thing that sells for substantial cash in cultural centers today.

Campbell said he told the auction crowd "about the pop art craze back East but folks around here aren't interested in such things."

Grants Granted For Mechanics

WASHINGTON (AP) —The office of Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., announced today grants of $66,425 for training farm equipment mechanics at a Poplar Bluff school and $60,710 for training practical nurses at Leadbett Technical School, Flat River.

These grants were approved by the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare under the manpower development and training program.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Like Man, This Dance Is For Us, "It's Kissum Time"

It hit the Sunset Strip the other night and soon a group of Hollywood names were doing it.

Zsa Zsa Gabor said: "It makes me feel like the only girl in a fraternity house."

The guys and gals hop forward, jump back, hop-hop-hop ahead. And finally, kiss-kiss-kiss.

It can be done in groups or by a couple.

The dance got its start in the cave discotheques of Paris last December via a recording by Finnish bandleader Anton Letkis.

From Paris the dance spread to Munich's two - month pre-Lenten fasching fling.

There as the beer flowed, the dancers hopped and kissed all over the Bavarian city. Priests denounced the dance from the pulpits and even doctors deplored its germ - carrying potential.

Hollywood's introduction to the craze came in a brash press agent way. Four Star television, which was a record subsidiary, Valiant Records, got the American rights to "The Letkis" music.

John Buck and the Blazers recorded it. Four Star imported a couple of European experts in the dance, hired a hall and invited the stars. The European dancers pulled the stars on the floor and taught them how.

St. Louis Police Stronger Than Ever

ST. LOUIS AP -- St. Louis' Police Department now has 1,876 commissioned officers - the department's highest manpower strength in several years.

Spokesmen for the Police Board said Monday they hoped to have 2,060 commissioned officers by April 1, 1966.

Resignations have dropped in the department and more than 50 former policemen have applied for reinstatement.

Mayor Dies Of Cancer In Hosp.

ST. LOUIS AP -- Edward A. Hebbeler, 91, a former New Haven, Mo. Mayor, died Monday of cancer.

Two Year Old Baby Drowns

The father, Eugene Madison, found the girl's body in the pond about 100 yards from the house after the parents noticed she was not in the yard.

MU Bomb Threat

KANSAS CITY AP -- A bomb threat delivered to police headquarters caused suspension of night classes at the University of Missouri at Kansas City Monday night.

The note reading, "Bomb set to go off, U. M. K. C. campus 7, 4-19-65," was dropped off at the police headquarters booking desk downtown in an envelope marked, "Important, Special Delivery."

After delivering the envelope, an 18 or 19-year-old youth ran out of the building, police said.

School authorities decided to call off classes for the evening and have the facilities searched. Police blocked all entrances to the campus from 6 until after 7 p.m. while they scoured all 29 college buildings.

After a hard-played 18 holes, it's good to settle down on a soft chair in the club house and add up the score with friends. What better time for the drink that scores with almost every golfer—cool, thirst-quenching beer? Yes, beer's great to relax with, great for refreshment, great for taste. Mass Confusion Next Sunday

NEW YORK AP -- The United States is about to enter into an annual period of confusion.

Daylight saving time DST will soon be here for much of the country.

This yearly clock juggling will affect business, transportation an ordinary citizens.

Next Sunday 100 million Americans in 20 states will advance clocks one hour and thus get out of step with the other 85 million Americans. These other 85 million will either shift to DST on different dates or will remain on standard time.

Thus, the country will become a patchwork of time.

Benjamin Franklin is credited, or blamed for DST. It's said that, when ambassador to France, he awoke one morning and found sunlight streaming through his window while the city slept.

This "wasted" sunlight annoyed the frugal author of Poor Richard's Almanac and he soon evolved a plan to conserve this daylight by advancing the clock one hour.

DST achieved its first wide observance in World War I when it was adopted throughout the country to give farmers more time to work in their fields.

Except for during the two world wars, observance of DST has been optional. As a result, the country is spotted with areas of observance and non-observance. This is what has created the confusion.

For example, in 1964, 15 states started DST the last Sunday in April and ended it the last Sunday in October. Another 16 states either started or ended DTS -- or both -- on different dates. The remaining states didn't observe DST at all.

Next Monday Congress is due to begin action on legislation that would eliminate the snarls now involved in observing DST.

The Senate Commerce Committee will hold a hearing on a bill proposed by the Committee on Time Uniformity, which was formed by the Transportation Association of America.

The bill would fix the last Sunday of April and the last Sunday of October as the mandatory starting and ending dates for DST in states and communities utilizing it. The measure would have nothing to do with whether DST was observed in any particular area.

AVERAGE DATES OF LAST FROST—Planting flower seeds too early can be futile, warns the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Most seeds will not germinate well until the soil warms to about 60 degrees. If sowed in cooler soil, they will remain dormant until the soil warms and may rot before they germinate. Chart shows the average of the dates for the last killing frost in spring in a period from 1899 to 1938. Data compiled by U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Tax Agent Describes Being Fronted With Gun

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. AP -- An Internal Revenue agent described in federal court Monday how it felt being held at gunpoint by an irate taxpayer for nearly two hours last Dec. 7.

"I was scared to death," Agent Floyd Culbertson recalled.

The taxpayer, Denton Cantrell a 54-year-old Niangua, Mo., farmer, is being tried before Judge John W. Oliver and a jury on a charge of assaulting Culbertson.

Culbertson had gone to Cantrell's farm in the Ozarks to discuss a $2,763 tax payment Cantrell had made by check. The check, however, had been lost in the St. Louis office, and Culbertson was sent out for another.

First, Culbertson testified, Cantrell invited him in the house then drew a 30-30 deer rifle and shouted:

"You ain't getting another check, and you ain't goin' back to town. I got you down here now, and I'm boss down here."

Culbertson testified that Cantrell also threatened to hang him to a tree.

"I decided I'd better try to get him in a good humor so I could get out of there so I started talking to him about his farm and dogs - things like that-but my mouth was so dry I could hardly talk," the agent, father of two children, said.

"Finally he seemed to calm down a little. He sat facing me with the rifle on his lap pointed at me. He said he knew I'd be down there and he was waiting for me." Culbertson continued:

"I decided I wasn't getting along so well talking to him when he said he was going to take me outside and shoot me. He said he'd do it right there in the living room if it wasn't for messing up the place and making extra work for his wife."

"I was getting so desperate I told him if the tax was that important to him I'd pay it myself if he would let me go. I told him I'd go back to town, pay the tax and quit my job. I just wanted to get out of there."

Culbertson said Cantrell then stood up and indicated he could leave.

1965 Plant-To-Prosper News

Mid-South farm families have an opportunity to share in more than $5,000 in cash prizes by enrolling in The Commercial Appeal's 1965 Plant to Posper Contest.

The 32-yer-old contest, conceived by this newspaper and co-sponsored by the Memphis Area Chamber of Commerce, preaches agricultural prosperity through efficient farm and home management.

Co-operating in the program are the Agricultural Extension Service and Farmers Home Administration of Arkansas, Mississippi, Missouri and Tennessee.

All farm families, regardless of size of operation, are eligible to compete for state and sweepstakes awards in any of three divisions:

FARM OPERATOR —For all landowners who farm their own land and who might also rent additional acreage and for those who rent all or most of their acreage and who have a full-time hired hand.

FARM FAMILY — For all landowners, renters, tenants and sharecroppers who do not employ a full-time hired hand.

PART-TIME FARMER—This division is open to those families who own, rent, are tenants or sharecroppers where the head of the house works full time at a non-farm job and the farm is worked with the aid of his family and in his spare time.

Home improvements will be judged in all divisions as part of the requirements of that division.

A County Judging Committee will choose county winners. State judges will select state winners in each division in October or early November.

State awards will be presented and sweepstakes winners announced during rallies in Memphis in late November and early December.

State prizes in the Farm Operator and Farm Family divisions are $100, first place; $75, second place, and $50, third place. A $50 award will go to the single part-time farm winner in each of the four states.

Prizes for sweepstakes winners, chosen from among divisional winners of the four states, are $500 to the top Farm Operator, $500 to the best Farm Family and $200 to the best Part-Time Farmer.

Farmers may enroll by contacting their county extension agent, Farmers Home Administration supervisor, or by writing the Plant to Prosper Bureau of The Commercial Appeal.

To Get Away From It All He Builds His Own Brand

Not so with Al Welland of Iola.

Welland builds championship racing cars. He operates his own garage in back of his house and always has more work scheduled on customers' cars than he has time to do in normal working hours.

But after hours, in his spare time, he unwinds from the troubles of fixing up other peoples' cars by creating his own kind.

He has built seven racing cars in the past 14 years, the seventh just starting its new season in the super-modified races at Tulsa, Okla., where it already has chalked up victories.

Welland's cars, all hand-built in his garage, have won championships at Tulsa, Joplin, Mo., Iola, Chanute, Fort Scott, Pittsburg, and Belleville, Kan., among others, and his car last year was high-point vehicle at Lakeside in Kansas City.

His cars have never finished a season below third place in championship point totals.

His driver this year is Ronnie Fowler of Chanute who will be driving Welland's No. 37 (its official number) in the Tulsa super - modified class races every Saturday night during the season.

Welland built his first racing car in 1951 as a stock car racer. He has since moved up into the modified classes that burn alcohol instead of gasoline and are equipped as regular racing cars.

His latest creation has the body of a 1932 Chevrolet coupe, but that's where the resemblance to the original ends. The car is powered by a de-stroked 327 - cubic inch Chevrolet engine, has wide, race-type rear tires, a quick-change rear end, special shock absorbers, and airplane type bucket seat.

In his 14 years of racing, Welland has had his share of heartbreaks. Several of his cars have ended on the scrap heap after being demolished in track wrecks.

But Welland never has lost a driver or had one seriously injured.

Networks Plan Live Shows From Europe Soon

NEW YORK AP -- The major television networks are excited because after May 2 they can bring in live telecasts from Europe via the Early Bird Satellite launched earlier this month.

ABC, CBS, and NBC plan live news shows May 3, the first day the satellite is available.

NBC's "Today Show" will scatter its regulars around in London, Paris, Rome and Washington for two-way discussions, and that night, Chet Huntley will broadcast his contribution to the evening news from London.

CBS will broadcast in the early afternoon a "Town Meeting of the World" show with Secretary of State Dean Rusk in London, Barry Goldwater in New York and British and French leaders in their capitals. It will be taped for rebroadcast in the regular "CBS Reports" hour late that evening.

During the first eight weeks -- an experimental period - the commercial satellite will be available to the networks only for periods on Mondays.

For the fourth consecutive period - totaling almost two months - NBC has emerged as the leader in the national Nielsen ratings. The most recent, covering the two weeks ending April 4, gives NBC a 20.8 rating, followed by CBS with 19.6 and ABC with 18.9.

There is little change in the programs which Nielsen finds are the 10 most popular. They are, in order, Bonanza, Gomer Pyle, Bewitched, the Fugitive, the Dick Van Dyke Show, the Andy Griffith Show, Gilligan's Island and Red Skelton tied, the Walt Disney hour and the Beverly Hillbillies.

Recommended tonight: "Our Man in Washington," NBC, 10-11 EST - David Brinkley narrates a second show about the nation's capital in a news special.

Seat Built Out Of Horseshoes ???

Sophisticates might call it pop art sculpture, the sort of thing that sells for substantial cash in cultural centers today.

Retired farmer Mat Petersen who designed it, auctioneer Hugh Campbell who sold it, and motel operator Elwood Allnut who bought it for $20 call it a chair.

Petersen, near 80, refused to discuss his creation but snorted, "I wouldn't make another one for that price!"

Campbell said he told the auction crowd "about the pop art craze back East but folks around here aren't interested in such things."

Allnut said he wanted it for a sideshow museum of oddities he is building for his motel and just thought it "interesting to look at."

Grants Granted For Mechanics

WASHINGTON (AP) —The office of Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., announced today grants of $66,425 for training farm equipment mechanics at a Poplar Bluff school and $60,710 for training practical nurses at Leadbett Technical School, Flat River.

These grants were approved by the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare under the manpower development and training program.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Like Man, This Dance Is For Us, "It's Kissum Time"

For once Hollywood has latched onto a new dance craze that makes some sense -- couples wind up kissing each other.

It hit the Sunset Strip the other night and soon a group of Hollywood names were doing it.

Zsa Zsa Gabor said: "It makes me feel like the only girl in a fraternity house."

The guys and gals hop forward, jump back, hop-hop-hop ahead. And finally, kiss-kiss-kiss.

It can be done in groups or by a couple.

The dance got its start in the cave discotheques of Paris last December via a recording by Finnish bandleader Anton Letkis.

From Paris the dance spread to Munich's two - month pre-Lenten fasching fling.

There as the beer flowed, the dancers hopped and kissed all over the Bavarian city. Priests denounced the dance from the pulpits and even doctors deplored its germ - carrying potential.

Hollywood's introduction to the craze came in a brash press agent way. Four Star television, which was a record subsidiary, Valiant Records, got the American rights to "The Letkis" music.

John Buck and the Blazers recorded it. Four Star imported a couple of European experts in the dance, hired a hall and invited the stars. The European dancers pulled the stars on the floor and taught them how.

St. Louis Police Stronger Than Ever

ST. LOUIS AP -- St. Louis' Police Department now has 1,876 commissioned officers - the department's highest manpower strength in several years.

Spokesmen for the Police Board said Monday they hoped to have 2,060 commissioned officers by April 1, 1966.

Resignations have dropped in the department and more than 50 former policemen have applied for reinstatement.

Two Year Old Baby Drowns

The father, Eugene Madison, found the girl's body in the pond about 100 yards from the house after the parents noticed she was not in the yard.

MU Bomb Threat

KANSAS CITY AP -- A bomb threat delivered to police headquarters caused suspension of night classes at the University of Missouri at Kansas City Monday night.

The note reading, "Bomb set to go off, U. M. K. C. campus 7, 4-19-65," was dropped off at the police headquarters booking desk downtown in an envelope marked, "Important, Special Delivery."

After delivering the envelope, an 18 or 19-year-old youth ran out of the building, police said.

School authorities decided to call off classes for the evening and have the facilities searched. Police blocked all entrances to the campus from 6 until after 7 p.m. while they scoured all 29 college buildings.

No bomb was found.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Several weeks ago the greatest kid I have ever known came by in his convertible to pick me up. I should tell you we live in Winnetka, which is a suburb of Chicago. It was freezing weather and Jamie had the top of his convertible down. I wouldn't say it was snowing, but a few flakes were flying.

When my mother looked out the window she screamed, "You are not going any place with that imbecile. He is naked!"

I tried to explain that Jamie is a member of the Polar Bear Club and the club was going to take a dip in Lake Michigan. He was not naked. He was wearing his swimming trunks. I also tried to explain that some of us girls were going along just to watch but we were not going in the water.

My mother walked out on the porch and shouted, "Put on a shirt or Mary Alice is not coming out."

With that Jamie pulled away and I haven't seen him since. I am heartsick. My mother says he is crazy. I say just because a person is a little non-conformist does not mean he is crazy. Please print my letter and your answer so our whole family can see it. My dad is on her side.--HEART-BROKEN M.A.

Dear M.A.: If Jamie is not crazy, he is such a show-off that he may be a borderline case.

Polar Bears (or anyone else) who want to take a dip in Lake Michigan in freezing weather are not necessarily nuts. In the Scandinavian countries this is quite a sport. But, for a kid to drive a convertible around Chicago in freezing weather, with the top down and wearing swimming trunks--well, like I said, if he's not crazy, he's close.

Dear Ann Landers: I am nearly 50 years of age and share a home with my widowed mother. The problem may not seem important but I must get this off my chest.

My older sister comes to visit mother at least five times a week. She always stays too long. They can yak for three hours about nothing at all. But the thing I am writing about is a habit which drives me insane. Just when you think the sentence is finished they say "anda"--and that's the start of another sentence.

Since this house is half mine do I have the right to tell my sister she must telephone before she comes so I can be elsewhere? If I listen to any more "andas" I'll have to be carted off. Thank you. --S. B. I.

Dear S.B.I.: If you are nearly 50 and your sister is older, then your mother must be in her 70's. You are not going to change their visiting habits.

By now you must have a fairly good idea when "Anda" will be coming over, so plan accordingly. (Anda lotsa luck.)

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married seven years. We have two sons. My husband's parents were born in Poland but he was born in the U.S. Whenever he has to fill out a form and he comes to the word "nationality" he puts down "Polish."

Our two sons were born in Cleveland. He says they are Polish, too, because the children always take the nationality of their father. I have tried to tell him he is wrong about the boys, but he says I don't know what I'm talking about.

He thinks you are a smart woman. Maybe if you tell him he will believe it. Please help me straighten this out before the kids go to school. -GRATEFUL

Dear Grateful: Nationality means "the nation of your birth." Your sons are Americans--and so is your husband.

Do you feel ill at ease. . .out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for ANN LANDERS' new booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Eggs After Easter

In old England, children played good-luck games with hard-cooked eggs on Easter Day. In these forerunners of today's "egg rolls" it was thought that the last egg to break brought good luck to the one who rolled it.

But what to do with all those hard-cooked eggs once easter is over? Take a tip from another old superstitious custom--serve them to your family

According to the story, the head of a household divided a gaily-colored Easter egg among the members of his family. Later on in life, if any member of the family should get lost, thinking of those with whom he shared this egg was supposed to make the others think of him--and these thoughts would help him come home.

So, divide your Easter eggs among your family by serving them as a finger food, deviled or plain. . . creamed as an entree. . . sliced in salads, sandwich fillings, cracker topping. . . chopped in stuffings for tomatoes and baked potatoes . . . in cream sauces to hold or garnish vegetables, meats, fish or poultry.

Although hard-cooked eggs will keep several days in the shell, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service advises homemakers to use them soon. To help, USDA suggests the following hard-cooked egg recipes.

HANDY, HARD - COOKED EGG RECIPES

EGG-FILLED PURSES

Roll pie crust about 1/8-inch thick. Cut into 4-inch squares. Place a hard-cooked egg in the center of each square and add about 1/4 cup undiluted cream of mushroom soup. Bring corners of squares together, crimp edges closed, and fold the top "over" so the crust will resemble a purse. Place on greased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven about 10 minutes then reduce heat and continue cooking until thoroughly heated. Serve piping hot with cream of mushroom sauce, and diced pimiento garnish. If desired, the eggs may be sliced and ham cubes added to the sauce.

EGG LOAF SALAD

18 hard-cooked eggs
1/4 pound butter
1 small onion, grated
Finely chopped parsley
Salt and pepper

Separate yolks from whites. Mash yolks and mix in softened butter, onion, parsley and seasonings to taste. Cut whites into small slivers and mix with yolk mixture, just enough to combine. Pack into loaf pan lined with waxed paper. Chill. Slice and serve on bed of shredded lettuce with chopped ripe olive garnish. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

CALICO EGG SANDWICHES

4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
2 tablespoons chopped olives
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1/2 cup grated sharp cheese
1/4 cup chili sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground pepper
1/4 teaspoon chili powder
1/4 cup melted butter
3 hamburger buns, split

Hollow out buns, leaving 1/4 inch thick shells. Spread buns with butter. Combine remaining ingredients, and divide filling between bun shells. Place buns on baking sheet and bake at 350 F. until cheese starts to melt and bun edges are lightly browned. Makes 3 to 6 servings.

My neighbor, Jack, had a large, heavily bearing apple tree in his front yard. Every year its branches sagged to the ground with fruit, and every year, faithfully, the young boys of the neighborhood would steal in to filch the apples. Each time they came Jack would race out of the house like a wild bear, yelling and shouting, to chase them away.

Because Jack was normally an easygoing fellow, I could never understand his actions in regard to the tree. One day after he had chased the boys almost two blocks down the street, I couldn't help but ask why. "That tree has more apples than you could ever use," I pointed out. "Why don't you just let them have them?"

"Heck," said Jack, still panting. "I want them to have the apples. But I was a kid myself once, and I know if I didn't chase them they'd never come back." — Peter Parnall

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Several weeks ago the greatest kid I have ever known came by in his convertible to pick me up. I should tell you we live in Winnetka, which is a suburb of Chicago. It was freezing weather and Jamie had the top of his convertible down. I wouldn't say it was snowing, but a few flakes were flying.

When my mother looked out the window she screamed, "You are not going any place with that imbecile. He is naked!"

I tried to explain that Jamie is a member of the Polar Bear Club and the club was going to take a dip in Lake Michigan. He was not naked. He was wearing his swimming trunks. I also tried to explain that some of us girls were going along just to watch but we were not going in the water.

My mother walked out on the porch and shouted, "Put on a shirt or Mary Alice is not coming out."

With that Jamie pulled away and I haven't seen him since. I am heartsick. My mother says he is crazy. I say just because a person is a little non-conformist does not mean he is crazy. Please print my letter and your answer so our whole family can see it. My dad is on her side.--HEARTBROKEN M.A.

Dear M.A.: If Jamie is not crazy, he is such a show-off that he may be a borderline case.

Polar Bears (or anyone else) who want to take a dip in Lake Michigan in freezing weather are not necessarily nuts. In the Scandinavian countries this is quite a sport. But, for a kid to drive a convertible around Chicago in freezing weather, with the top down and wearing swimming trunks--well, like I said, if he's not crazy, he's close.

Dear Ann Landers: I am nearly 50 years of age and share a home with my widowed mother. The problem may not seem important but I must get this off my chest.

My older sister comes to visit mother at least five times a week. She always stays too long. They can yak for three hours about nothing at all. But the thing I am writing about is a habit which drives me insane. Just when you think the sentence is finished they say "anda"--and that's the start of another sentence.

Since this house is half mine do I have the right to tell my sister she must telephone before she comes so I can be elsewhere? If I listen to any more "andas" I'll have to be carted off. Thank you. --S. B. I.

Dear S.B.I.: If you are nearly 50 and your sister is older, then your mother must be in her 70's. You are not going to change their visiting habits.

By now you must have a fairly good idea when "Anda" will be coming over, so plan accordingly. (Anda lotsa luck.)

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married seven years. We have two sons. My husband's parents were born in Poland but he was born in the U.S. Whenever he has to fill out a form and he comes to the word "nationality" he puts down "Polish."

Our two sons were born in Cleveland. He says they are Polish, too, because the children always take the nationality of their father. I have tried to tell him he is wrong about the boys, but he says I don't know what I'm talking about.

He thinks you are a smart woman. Maybe if you tell him he will believe it. Please help me straighten this out before the kids go to school. -GRATEFUL

Dear Grateful: Nationality means "the nation of your birth." Your sons are Americans--and so is your husband.

Do you feel ill at ease. . .out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for ANN LANDERS' new booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Eggs After Easter

In old England, children played good-luck games with hard-cooked eggs on Easter Day. In these forerunners of today's "egg rolls" it was thought that the last egg to break brought good luck to the one who rolled it.

But what to do with all those hard-cooked eggs once easter is over? Take a tip from another old superstitious custom--serve them to your family

According to the story, the head of a household divided a gaily-colored Easter egg among the members of his family. Later on in life, if any member of the family should get lost, thinking of those with whom he shared this egg was supposed to make the others think of him--and these thoughts would help him come home.

So, divide your Easter eggs among your family by serving them as a finger food, deviled or plain. . . creamed as an entree. . . sliced in salads, sandwich fillings, cracker topping. . . chopped in stuffings for tomatoes and baked potatoes . . . in cream sauces to hold or garnish vegetables, meats, fish or poultry.

Although hard-cooked eggs will keep several days in the shell, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service advises homemakers to use them soon. To help, USDA suggests the following hard-cooked egg recipes.

HANDY, HARD - COOKED EGG RECIPES

EGG-FILLED PURSES

Roll pie crust about 1/8-inch thick. Cut into 4-inch squares. Place a hard-cooked egg in the center of each square and add about 1/4 cup undiluted cream of mushroom soup. Bring corners of squares together, crimp edges closed, and fold the top "over" so the crust will resemble a purse. Place on greased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven about 10 minutes then reduce heat and continue cooking until thoroughly heated. Serve piping hot with cream of mushroom sauce, and diced pimiento garnish. If desired, the eggs may be sliced and ham cubes added to the sauce.

EGG LOAF SALAD

18 hard-cooked eggs
1/4 pound butter
1 small onion, grated
Finely chopped parsley
Salt and pepper

Separate yolks from whites. Mash yolks and mix in softened butter, onion, parsley and seasonings to taste. Cut whites into small slivers and mix with yolk mixture, just enough to combine. Pack into loaf pan lined with waxed paper. Chill. Slice and serve on bed of shredded lettuce with chopped ripe olive garnish. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

CALICO EGG SANDWICHES

4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
2 tablespoons chopped olives
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1/2 cup grated sharp cheese
1/4 cup chili sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground pepper
1/4 teaspoon chili powder
1/4 cup melted butter
3 hamburger buns, split

Hollow out buns, leaving 1/4 inch thick shells. Spread buns with butter. Combine remaining ingredients, and divide filling between bun shells. Place buns on baking sheet and bake at 350 F. until cheese starts to melt and bun edges are lightly browned. Makes 3 to 6 servings.

My neighbor, Jack, had a large, heavily bearing apple tree in his front yard. Every year its branches sagged to the ground with fruit, and every year, faithfully, the young boys of the neighborhood would steal in to filch the apples. Each time they came Jack would race out of the house like a wild bear, yelling and shouting, to chase them away.

Because Jack was normally an easygoing fellow, I could never understand his actions in regard to the tree. One day after he had chased the boys almost two blocks down the street, I couldn't help but ask why. "That tree has more apples than you could ever use," I pointed out. "Why don't you just let them have them?"

"Heck," said Jack, still panting. "I want them to have the apples. But I was a kid myself once, and I know if I didn't chase them they'd never come back." — Peter Parnall probably bore you—traffic deaths in 1964 soared to an all-time high of 47,800."

The SPEED SPEECH manuscript can guide you to say anything you want; however, it cannot attune your ears to receive the pronunciation sounds of words spoken to you. For this, we suggest that you get the SPEED SPEECH records to assist you. They are coordinated with the manuscript, so that you are able to hear as well as see the Spanish word at the same time.

Using the language--speaking it--is, of course, all important. So, if you are fortunate enough to have some Spanish speaking friends, insist upon speaking Spanish rather than English when you visit together.

Spanish Speed Speech appears in The Daily Standard as a public service. The Speed Speech course consists of a textbook, a set of two 45 rpm. records and a dictionary of working words. You may purchase any one or all three items by sending check or money order for $3.04 per each in care "SPANISH" this newspaper. We are so sure that you will be pleased, that we offer a moneyback guarantee.

Text of Proposed Voting Rights Act

A BILL [S1564]

To enforce the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That this Act shall be known as the "Voting Rights Act of 1965."

SEC. 2. No voting qualification or procedure shall be imposed or applied to deny or abridge the right to vote on account of race or color.

SEC. 3. (a) No person shall be denied the right to vote in any Federal, State, or local election because of his failure to comply with any test or device, in any State or in any political subdivision of a State which (1) the Attorney General determines maintained on November 1, 1964, any test or device as a qualification for voting, and with respect to which (2) the Director of the Census determines that less than 50 percent of the persons of voting age residing therein were registered on November 1, 1964, or that less than 50 percent of such persons voted in the presidential election of November 1964.

(b) The phrase "test or device" shall mean any requirement that a person as a prerequisite for voting or registration for voting (1) demonstrate the ability to read, write, understand, or interpret any matter, (2) demonstrate any educational achievement or his knowledge of any particular subject, (3) possess good moral character, or (4) prove his qualifications by the voucher of registered voters or members of any other class.

(c) Any State with respect to which determinations have been made under subsection (a) or any political subdivision with respect to which such determinations have been made as a separate unit, may file in a three-judge district court convened in the District of Columbia an action for a declaratory judgment against the United States, alleging that neither the petitioner nor any person acting under color of law has engaged during the ten years preceding the filing of the action in acts or practices denying or abridging the right to vote for reasons of race or color. If the court determines that neither the petitioner nor any person acting under color of law has engaged during such period in any act or practice denying or abridging the right to vote for reasons of race or color, the court shall so declare and the provisions of subsection (a) and the examiner procedure established by this Act shall after judgment be inapplicable to the petitioner. Any appeal from a judgment of a three-judge court convened under this subsection shall lie to the Supreme Court.

No declaratory judgment shall issue under this subsection with respect to any petitioner for a period of ten years after the entry of a final judgment of any court of the United States, whether entered prior to or after the enactment of this Act, determining that denials or abridgments of the right to vote by reason of race or color have occurred anywhere in the territory of such petitioner.

SEC. 4. (a) Whenever the Attorney General certifies (1) that he has received complaints in writing from twenty or more residents of a political subdivision with respect to which determinations have been made under section 3(a) alleging that they have been denied the right to vote under color of law by reason of race or color, and that he believes such complaints to be meritorious, or (2) that in his judgment the appointment of examiners is otherwise necessary to enforce the guarantees of the Fifteenth Amendment, the Civil Service Commission shall appoint as many examiners in such subdivision as it may deem appropriate to prepare and maintain lists of persons eligible to vote in Federal, State, and local elections. Such appointments shall be made without regard to the Civil Service laws and the Classification Act of 1949, as amended, and may be terminated by the Commission at any time. Examiners shall be subject to the provisions of Section 9 of the Act of August 2, 1939, as amended (the Hatch Act). An examiner shall have the power to administer oaths.

(b) A determination or certification of the Attorney General or of the Director of the Census under section 3 or 4 shall be final and effective upon publication in the Federal Register.

SEC. 5. (a) The examiners for each political subdivision shall examine applicants concerning their qualifications for voting. An application to an examiner shall be in such form as the Commission may require and shall contain allegations that the applicant is not otherwise registered to vote, and that, within ninety days preceding his application, he has been denied under color of law the opportunity to register or to vote or has been found not qualified to vote by a person acting under color of law: Provided, That the requirement of the latter allegation may be waived by the Attorney General.

(b) Any person whom the examiner finds to have the qualifications prescribed by State law in accordance with instructions received under section 6(b) shall promptly be placed on a list of eligible voters. A challenge to such listing may be made in accordance with section 6(b) and shall not be the basis for a prosecution under any provision of this Act. The list shall be available for public inspection and the examiner shall certify and transmit such list, and any supplements as appropriate, each month to the offices of the appropriate election officials, with copies to the Attorney General and the attorney general of the State. Any person whose name appears on such a list shall be entitled and allowed to vote in the election district of his residence unless and until the appropriate election officials shall have been notified that such person has been removed from such list in accordance with subsection (d): Provided, That no person shall be entitled to vote in any election by virtue of this Act unless his name shall have been certified and transmitted on such a list to the offices of the appropriate election officials at least 45 days prior to such election.

(c) The examiner shall issue to each person appearing on such a list a certificate evidencing his eligibility to vote.

(d) A person whose name appears on such a list shall be removed therefrom by an examiner if (1) he has been successfully challenged in accordance with the procedure prescribed in section 6(a), or (2) he has been determined by an examiner (i) not to have voted at least once during three consecutive years while listed, or (ii) to have otherwise lost his eligibility to vote.

(e) No person shall be denied the right to vote for failure to pay a poll tax if he tenders payment of such tax for the current year to an examiner, whether or not such tender would be timely or adequate under State law. An examiner shall have authority to accept such payment from any person authorized to make an application for listing, and shall issue a receipt for such payment. The examiner shall transmit promptly any such poll tax payment to the office of the State or local official authorized to receive such payment under State law, together with the name and address of the applicant.

SEC. 6. (a) Any challenge to a listing on an eligibility list shall be heard and determined by a hearing officer appointed by and responsible to the Civil Service Commission and under such rules as the Commission shall by regulation prescribe. Such challenge shall be entertained only if made within ten days after the challenged person is listed, and if supported by the affidavit of at least two persons having personal knowledge of the facts constituting grounds for the challenge, and such challenge shall be determined within seven days after it was made. A petition for review of the decision of the hearing officer may be filed in the United States Court of Appeals for the circuit in which the person challenged resides within fifteen days after service of such decision by mail on the moving party, but no decision of a hearing officer shall be overturned unless clearly erroneous. Any person listed shall be entitled and allowed to vote pending final determination by the hearing officer and by the court.

(b) The times, places, and procedures for application and listing pursuant to this Act and removals from the eligibility lists shall be prescribed by regulations promulgated by the Civil Service Commission and the Commission shall, after consultation with the Attorney General, instruct examiners concerning the qualifications required for listing.

SEC. 7. No person, whether acting under color of law or otherwise, shall fail or refuse to permit a person whose name appears on a list transmitted in accordance with section 5(b) to vote, or fail or refuse to count such person's vote, or intimidate, threaten, or coerce any person for voting or attempting to vote under the authority of this Act.

SEC. 8. Whenever a State or political subdivision for which determinations are in effect under section 3(a) shall enact any law or ordinance imposing qualifications or procedures for voting different than those in force and effect on November 1, 1964, such law or ordinance shall not be enforced unless and until it shall have been finally adjudicated by an action for declaratory judgment brought against the United States in the district court for the District of Columbia that such qualifications or procedures will not have the effect of denying or abridging rights guaranteed by the Fifteenth Amendment. All actions hereunder shall be heard by a three-judge court and there shall be a right of direct appeal to the Supreme Court.

SEC. 9. (a) Whoever shall deprive or attempt to deprive any person of any right secured by section 2 or 3 or who shall violate section 7, shall be fined not more than $5 000, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

(b) Whoever, within a year following an election in a political subdivision in which an examiner has been appointed (1) destroys, defaces, mutilates, or otherwise alters the marking of a paper ballot cast in such election, or (2) alters any record of voting in such election made by a voting machine or otherwise, shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

(c) Whoever conspires to violate the provisions of subsection (a) or (b) of this section, or interferes with any right secured by section 2, 3, or 7, shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

(d) Whenever any person has engaged or there are reasonable grounds to believe that any person is about to engage in any act or practice prohibited by section 2, 3, 7 or 8 or subsection (b) of this section, the Attorney General may institute for the United States, or in the name of the United States, an action for preventive relief, including an application for a temporary or permanent injunction, restraining order, or other order, and including an order directed to the State and State or local election officials to require them to honor listings under this Act.

(e) Whenever a person alleges to an examiner within 24 hours after the closing of the polls that notwithstanding his listing under this Act he has not been permitted to vote or that his vote was not counted, the examiner shall forthwith notify the United States Attorney for the judicial district if such allegation in his opinion appears to be well founded. Upon receipt of such notification, the United States Attorney may forthwith apply to the district court for an order enjoining certification of the results of the election, and the court shall issue such an order pending a hearing to determine whether the allegations are well founded. In the event the court determines that persons who are entitled to vote under the provisions of this Act were not permitted to vote or their votes were not counted, it shall provide for the casting or counting of their ballots and require the inclusion of their votes in the total vote before any person shall be deemed to be elected by virtue of any election with respect to which an order enjoining certification of the results has been issued.

(f) The district courts of the United States shall have jurisdiction of proceedings instituted pursuant to this section and shall exercise the same without regard to whether an applicant for listing under this Act shall have exhausted any administrative or other remedies that may be provided by law.

SEC. 10. Listing procedures shall be terminated in any political subdivision of any State whenever the Attorney General notifies the Civil Service Commission (1) that all persons listed by the examiner for such subdivision have been placed on the appropriate voting registration roll, and (2) that there is no longer reasonable cause to believe that persons will be deprived of or denied the right to vote on account of race or color in such subdivision.

SEC. 11. (a) All cases of civil and criminal contempt arising under the provisions of this Act shall be governed by section 151 of the Civil Rights Act of 1957 (42 U.S.C. 1995).

(b) No court other than the district court for the District of Columbia shall have jurisdiction to issue any declaratory judgment or any restraining order or temporary or permanent injunction against the execution or enforcement of any provision of this Act or any action of any Federal officer or employee pursuant hereto.

(c) The term "vote" shall have the same meaning as in section 2004 of the Revised Statutes (42 U.S.C. 1971 (e)).

(d) Any statement made to an examiner may be the basis for a prosecution under section 1001 of Title 18, United States Code.

SEC. 12. There are hereby authorized to be appropriated such sums as are necessary to carry out the provisions of this Act.

SEC. 13. If any provision of this Act or the application thereof to any person or circumstances is held invalid, the remainder of the Act and the application of the provision to other persons not similarly situated or to other circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

The SPEED SPEECH manuscript can guide you to say anything you want; however, it cannot attune your ears to receive the pronunciation sounds of words spoken to you. For this, we suggest that you get the SPEEDSPEECH records to assist you. They are co-ordinated with the manuscript, so that you are able to hear as well as see the Spanish word at the same time.

Using the language--speaking it--is, of course, all important. So, if you are fortunate enough to have some Spanish speaking friends, insist upon speaking Spanish rather than English when you visit together.

Spanish Speed Speech appears in The Daily Standard as a public service. The Speed Speech course consists of a textbook, a set of two 45 rpm. records and a dictionary of working words. You may purchase any one or all three items by sending check or money order for $3.04 per each in care "SPANISH" this newspaper. We are so sure that you will be pleased, that we offer a moneyback guarantee.

Ozark Airlines now serves both cities, Central said it had no intention to merely compete with Ozark, but to provide service into Missouri from several cities west of Kansas City, including Topeka, Manhattan, Salina and Wichita, Kan.

Text of Proposed Voting Rights Act

A BILL [S1564]

To enforce the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That this Act shall be known as the "Voting Rights Act of 1965."

SEC. 2. No voting qualification or procedure shall be imposed or applied to deny or abridge the right to vote on account of race or color.

SEC. 3. (a) No person shall be denied the right to vote in any Federal, State, or local election because of his failure to comply with any test or device, in any State or in any political subdivision of a State which (1) the Attorney General determines maintained on November 1, 1964, any test or device as a qualification for voting, and with respect to which (2) the Director of the Census determines that less than 50 percent of the persons of voting age residing therein were registered on November 1, 1964, or that less than 50 percent of such persons voted in the presidential election of November 1964.

(b) The phrase "test or device" shall mean any requirement that a person as a prerequisite for voting or registration for voting (1) demonstrate the ability to read, write, understand, or interpret any matter, (2) demonstrate any educational achievement or his knowledge of any particular subject, (3) possess good moral character, or (4) prove his qualifications by the voucher of registered voters or members of any other class.

(c) Any State with respect to which determinations have been made under subsection (a) or any political subdivision with respect to which such determinations have been made as a separate unit, may file in a three-judge district court convened in the District of Columbia an action for a declaratory judgment against the United States, alleging that neither the petitioner nor any person acting under color of law has engaged during the ten years preceding the filing of the action in acts or practices denying or abridging the right to vote for reasons of race or color. If the court determines that neither the petitioner nor any person acting under color of law has engaged during such period in any act or practice denying or abridging the right to vote for reasons of race or color, the court shall so declare and the provisions of subsection (a) and the examiner procedure established by this Act shall after judgment be inapplicable to the petitioner. Any appeal from a judgment of a three-judge court convened under this subsection shall lie to the Supreme Court.

No declaratory judgment shall issue under this subsection with respect to any petitioner for a period of ten years after the entry of a final judgment of any court of the United States, whether entered prior to or after the enactment of this Act, determining that denials or abridgments of the right to vote by reason of race or color have occurred anywhere in the territory of such petitioner.

SEC. 4. (a) Whenever the Attorney General certifies (1) that he has received complaints in writing from twenty or more residents of a political subdivision with respect to which determinations have been made under section 3(a) alleging that they have been denied the right to vote under color of law by reason of race or color, and that he believes such complaints to be meritorious, or (2) that in his judgment the appointment of examiners is otherwise necessary to enforce the guarantees of the Fifteenth Amendment, the Civil Service Commission shall appoint as many examiners in such subdivision as it may deem appropriate to prepare and maintain lists of persons eligible to vote in Federal, State, and local elections. Such appointments shall be made without regard to the Civil Service laws and the Classification Act of 1949, as amended, and may be terminated by the Commission at any time. Examiners shall be subject to the provisions of Section 9 of the Act of August 2, 1939, as amended (the Hatch Act). An examiner shall have the power to administer oaths.

(b) A determination or certification of the Attorney General or of the Director of the Census under section 3 or 4 shall be final and effective upon publication in the Federal Register.

SEC. 5. (a) The examiners for each political subdivision shall examine applicants concerning their qualifications for voting. An application to an examiner shall be in such form as the Commission may require and shall contain allegations that the applicant is not otherwise registered to vote, and that, within ninety days preceding his application, he has been denied under color of law the opportunity to register or to vote or has been found not qualified to vote by a person acting under color of law: Provided, That the requirement of the latter allegation may be waived by the Attorney General.

(b) Any person whom the examiner finds to have the qualifications prescribed by State law in accordance with instructions received under section 6(b) shall promptly be placed on a list of eligible voters. A challenge to such listing may be made in accordance with section 6(b) and shall not be the basis for a prosecution under any provision of this Act. The list shall be available for public inspection and the examiner shall certify and transmit such list, and any supplements as appropriate, each month to the offices of the appropriate election officials, with copies to the Attorney General and the attorney general of the State. Any person whose name appears on such a list shall be entitled and allowed to vote in the election district of his residence unless and until the appropriate election officials shall have been notified that such person has been removed from such list in accordance with subsection (d): Provided, That no person shall be entitled to vote in any election by virtue of this Act unless his name shall have been certified and transmitted on such a list to the offices of the appropriate election officials at least 45 days prior to such election.

(c) The examiner shall issue to each person appearing on such a list a certificate evidencing his eligibility to vote.

(d) A person whose name appears on such a list shall be removed therefrom by an examiner if (1) he has been successfully challenged in accordance with the procedure prescribed in section 6(a), or (2) he has been determined by an examiner (i) not to have voted at least once during three consecutive years while listed, or (ii) to have otherwise lost his eligibility to vote.

(e) No person shall be denied the right to vote for failure to pay a poll tax if he tenders payment of such tax for the current year to an examiner, whether or not such tender would be timely or adequate under State law. An examiner shall have authority to accept such payment from any person authorized to make an application for listing, and shall issue a receipt for such payment. The examiner shall transmit promptly any such poll tax payment to the office of the State or local official authorized to receive such payment under State law, together with the name and address of the applicant.

SEC. 6. (a) Any challenge to a listing on an eligibility list shall be heard and determined by a hearing officer appointed by and responsible to the Civil Service Commission and under such rules as the Commission shall by regulation prescribe. Such challenge shall be entertained only if made within ten days after the challenged person is listed, and if supported by the affidavit of at least two persons having personal knowledge of the facts constituting grounds for the challenge, and such challenge shall be determined within seven days after it was made. A petition for review of the decision of the hearing officer may be filed in the United States Court of Appeals for the circuit in which the person challenged resides within fifteen days after service of such decision by mail on the moving party, but no decision of a hearing officer shall be overturned unless clearly erroneous. Any person listed shall be entitled and allowed to vote pending final determination by the hearing officer and by the court.

(b) The times, places, and procedures for application and listing pursuant to this Act and removals from the eligibility lists shall be prescribed by regulations promulgated by the Civil Service Commission and the Commission shall, after consultation with the Attorney General, instruct examiners concerning the qualifications required for listing.

SEC. 7. No person, whether acting under color of law or otherwise, shall fail or refuse to permit a person whose name appears on a list transmitted in accordance with section 5(b) to vote, or fail or refuse to count such person's vote, or intimidate, threaten, or coerce any person for voting or attempting to vote under the authority of this Act.

SEC. 8. Whenever a State or political subdivision for which determinations are in effect under section 3(a) shall enact any law or ordinance imposing qualifications or procedures for voting different than those in force and effect on November 1, 1964, such law or ordinance shall not be enforced unless and until it shall have been finally adjudicated by an action for declaratory judgment brought against the United States in the district court for the District of Columbia that such qualifications or procedures will not have the effect of denying or abridging rights guaranteed by the Fifteenth Amendment. All actions hereunder shall be heard by a three-judge court and there shall be a right of direct appeal to the Supreme Court.

SEC. 9. (a) Whoever shall deprive or attempt to deprive any person of any right secured by section 2 or 3 or who shall violate section 7 shall be fined not more than $5 000, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

(b) Whoever, within a year following an election in a political subdivision in which an examiner has been appointed (1) destroys, defaces, mutilates, or otherwise alters the marking of a paper ballot cast in such election, or (2) alters any record of voting in such election made by a voting machine or otherwise, shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

(c) Whoever conspires to violate the provisions of subsection (a) or (b) of this section, or interferes with any right secured by section 2, 3, or 7, shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

(d) Whenever any person has engaged or there are reasonable grounds to believe that any person is about to engage in any act or practice prohibited by section 2, 3, 7 or 8 or subsection (b) of this section, the Attorney General may institute for the United States, or in the name of the United States, an action for preventive relief, including an application for a temporary or permanent injunction, restraining order, or other order, and including an order directed to the State and State or local election officials to require them to honor listings under this Act.

(e) Whenever a person alleges to an examiner within 24 hours after the closing of the polls that notwithstanding his listing under this Act he has not been permitted to vote or that his vote was not counted, the examiner shall forthwith notify the United States Attorney for the judicial district if such allegation in his opinion appears to be well founded. Upon receipt of such notification, the United States Attorney may forthwith apply to the district court for an order enjoining certification of the results of the election, and the court shall issue such an order pending a hearing to determine whether the allegations are well founded. In the event the court determines that persons who are entitled to vote under the provisions of this Act were not permitted to vote or their votes were not counted, it shall provide for the casting or counting of their ballots and require the inclusion of their votes in the total vote before any person shall be deemed to be elected by virtue of any election with respect to which an order enjoining certification of the results has been issued.

(f) The district courts of the United States shall have jurisdiction of proceedings instituted pursuant to this section and shall exercise the same without regard to whether an applicant for listing under this Act shall have exhausted any administrative or other remedies that may be provided by law.

SEC. 10. Listing procedures shall be terminated in any political subdivision of any State whenever the Attorney General notifies the Civil Service Commission (1) that all persons listed by the examiner for such subdivision have been placed on the appropriate voting registration roll, and (2) that there is no longer reasonable cause to believe that persons will be deprived of or denied the right to vote on account of race or color in such subdivision.

SEC. 11. (a) All cases of civil and criminal contempt arising under the provisions of this Act shall be governed by section 151 of the Civil Rights Act of 1957 (42 U.S.C. 1995).

(b) No court other than the district court for the District of Columbia shall have jurisdiction to issue any declaratory judgment or any restraining order or temporary or permanent injunction against the execution or enforcement of any provision of this Act or any action of any Federal officer or employee pursuant hereto.

(c) The term "vote" shall have the same meaning as in section 2004 of the Revised Statutes (42 U.S.C. 1971 (e)).

(d) Any statement made to an examiner may be the basis for a prosecution under section 1001 of Title 18, United States Code.

SEC. 12. There are hereby authorized to be appropriated such sums as are necessary to carry out the provisions of this Act.

SEC. 13. If any provision of this Act or the application thereof to any person or circumstances is held invalid, the remainder of the Act and the application of the provision to other persons not similarly situated or to other circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

Publisher Flies Fighter Jet

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Back in 1929, when Marcellus M. Murdock was in his late 40s, the boss of a pioneer aviation company told him he was too old to learn to fly.

Murdock bought a plane, hired an instructor, and he has been flying happily ever since. He celebrated his 82nd birthday last February with a lesson in a twin-engine plane and 11 days later received his multi-engine rating.

"Flying has a peculiar fascination for me. There is a challenge. I never felt I was a courageous man, so it isn't courage. I just like it."

He has logged more than 6,000 hours as a pilot and in recent years has handled the controls of an Air Force F100 and the KC97 jet tanker plane. After his F100 flight he received a "mach-buster" button for flying faster than sound.

Gophers Don't Like Grease

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A slick new weapon has been added to the arsenal of gas, poison, garden tools and traps in the battle being waged by homeowners against gophers.

It's plain old bacon grease.

Amelia Barber of Phoenix became concerned when a colony of eight gophers started working over her lawn.

"Those gophers are highly educated and I have failed to match wits with 'em in the past." "I don't know anything about mechanics and couldn't set the traps." "I have never done anything like that before and don't want to start now."

So Mrs. Barber took her problem to Mrs. Ercell Clark, her next-door neighbor. Mrs. Clark disclosed she has routed gophers by pouring bacon grease in the holes and washing it down with a hose.

Flood Threat Even More Dangerous, Fire Possible

LA CROSSE, Wis. AP--A tilting storage tank laden with 107,000 gallons of gasoline added an awesome fire peril today to the woes of La Crosse, braced for the record flood crest sweeping down the Mississippi River valley.

"God, can you imagine fire moving along on this crest," said a police officer assigned to the emergency guard over the tank farm where 15 million gallons of gasoline are stored.

A 75-foot rupture in a protecting dike poured eight feet of water over the complex Monday, and Fire Chief Fred Genz Sr. said the potential danger increased with the exposure of the tanks to flood debris.

While the self-sealing tanks are not leaking, the water around them is coated by an oil slick from a nearby auto junk yard.

The Mississippi climbed to 17.4 feet, more than five feet over flood stage at La Crosse, as it swept downriver.

At Winona, Minn., about 25 miles to the north, nearly 1,000 persons left their homes in an orderly evacuation when water began coming up through storm sewers after seeping under protective dikes.

Deep-sea diving equipment was ferried across the Mississippi Monday by National Guardsmen from Eau Claire, Wis., to Winona where volunteer divers placed an inflatable fabric bag in a manhole to seal off the flow. Two other sewers were to be plugged the same way today.

The river was expected to crest today at Winona at 21 1/2 feet, 8 1/2 feet above flood level, and crest at 18 feet at La Crosse Wednesday.

The flooding began two weeks ago when the winter's snow began to melt.

Damage in Wisconsin and Minnesota, which have so far borne the brunt, has been estimated as high as $60 million by Civil Defense officials. The Red Cross said that 40,000 persons have been displaced in a five-state area, and the worst is still to come in Iowa, Illinois and Missouri.

Nearly 3,500 homes have been damaged or destroyed in Wisconsin and Minnesota, with 2,428 in Minnesota.

Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois and Gov. Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri met at Quincy, Ill., to plan flood defenses for their states.

Elsewhere along Iowa's eastern border, there were indications of record floods in the next 10 days but they may not be as costly as those of the past.

Brig. Gen. H. G. Woodbury, deputy director of civil work for the Army Corps of Engineers, said the riverbank communities "seem to be ready." He said the response of citizens has been heartening, and added, "I saw grammar school children filling sandbags at Dubuque."

Illinois Gov. Kerner made an aerial inspection of the Mississippi along his state, and then pulled on hip boots for an auto and boat tour of the critical Indian Graves levee and drainage district north of Quincy. A dike on the district's northern sector washed out last weekend, flooding 7,000 lowland farm acres.

Gov. Hearnes of Missouri suggested that dynamiting might relieve the pressures in the Quincy, Ill., Hannibal, Mo., area but Army Engineers spokesmen said any relief would be temporary. About 390 persons have been evacuated from 165 homes in the Hannibal area.

The flood cleanup was starting in some Minnesota communities, and in many places the aftermath seemed worse than the flood.

At Chaska, where homeowners have started to return, many residents found a blackish silt piled three feet deep in their yards.

The term bootlegging came into general use in the United States as far back as 1880, when it was derived from the practice of carrying flasks concealed in boot tops, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Chicago's great fire occurred Oct. 8, 1871.

Not dried, but tenderized--that's today's prunes! They have outgrown the ancient tag, "dried," as a result of modern advances in readying this fruit for market.

Today, prunes are dehydrated, processed and packed by new methods, explains the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service. Following dehydration, prunes are treated to a pasteurizing hot water bath and steaming. This increases their moisture from 18, formerly, to 26 or even 32 percent. The still-moist, tender fruit then is quickly and scientifically packaged.

Consumers, the ultimate beneficiaries of this new process, find the prunes they purchase nowadays are softer, more moist, more flavorful and require little if any cooking.

Look for larger than usual displays of "tenderized" prunes during the next few weeks, the Consumer and Marketing Service advises. Prune production is estimated at more than 170,000 tons--considerably larger than both average and last year's crop.

Count on prunes to add delicious flavor and eye-appeal to spring entrees, salads, sandwiches and desserts--as well as their traditional role as breakfast fruit. Serve, for example, stuffed prunes as a garnish to lamb chops or patties. Or use chopped prunes to enliven a ham sandwich filling. For more creative uses, try these USDA-recommended prune recipes.
